SENATE'S STAND ON PAY BILL MAY DEPEND ON WAGE DIFFERENTIALS

Likelihood Of Filibuster Less If South's Standard Fixed Lower

OPPONENTS ADMIT HOUSE CERTAIN TO GIVE OKAY

Concentrate On Effort To Restore Degree Of Flexibility To Measure

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Development of a senate filibuster against the wage-hour bill appeared today to depend on whether house foes of the measure succeed in writing into it different wage provisions for the north and south.

Informed senators said the legislation would encounter opposition anyway, but that there would be increased likelihood of an attempt to talk it to death if the bill were returned to the senate without any differentials.

The house virtually is assured of a chance to consider the measure May 23, under a petition signed a week ago by 218 members. Leaders tried since then to arrange for consideration of the bill next Monday, but they abandoned this idea after Republicans on the house rules committee demanded a definite commitment on adjournment in return for their needed support.

Opponents conceded there was no hope of blocking the bill when it does come up in the house. They concentrated on an effort to restore some degree of flexibility to it, counting on their senatorial colleagues to kill it if they fail.

Behind the senate scenes, a quiet but intensive campaign was reported under way to muster support for a filibuster.

Chairman Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, of the powerful senate finance committee is leading the opposition to the bill, but he has not announced to reporters an intention to filibuster.

Some foes of the wage-hour measure have mentioned the possibility of having anti-lynching legislation attached to the wage-hour measure as a "rider" to insure its being filibustered to death.

Insiders declared, however, there was slight chance of such tactics being adopted because the opponents were more opposed to the anti-lynching measure than to the wage-hour

MEXICO GUARDS AGAINST REVOLT

Virtual Martial Law Prevails In San Luis Potosi, State Capital

MEXICO CITY, May 14.—(AP)—Federal troops tonight guarded key government buildings and patrolled streets in San Luis Potosi amid growing rumors of an impending uprising.

Virtual martial law prevailed in that mid-Mexican city of 73,000 population as reports persisted that forces of General Saturnino Cedillo, leader of the last private army in Mexico, were laying plans for a revolt.

San Luis Potosi is capital of the Mexican state of the same name.

Advices received here said the movement was scheduled to start tomorrow with the expiration of a sick leave granted Cedillo after his designation as military commander of Michoacan last April.

Sources close to both Cedillo and the government disclosed that Cedillo handed in his resignation from the position Thursday and that it had been accepted by President Lazaro Cardenas.

Cedillo was said to have stressed his illness in wanting to resign and his disinclination to have his leave extended.

Cardenas, in accepting the resignation, was reported to have told Cedillo in effect he would "have to take the consequences." The defense ministry declined to comment.

The exchange between the general and the chief executive and the latter's unexplained declaration gave rise to additional rumors here.

CONVICT ARRESTED

HOUSTON, Tex., May 14.—(AP)—Charles Ridings, 27, who dug out of a Tennessee prison coal mine with 37 other convicts last March, was arrested here today. His capture leaves only three of the 37 still at large. Police notified authorities at the Tennessee prison at Petros, who replied they would send for Ridings.

LEAGUE COUNCIL MEETING CLOSES

Britain, France And Russia Form Strong Bloc Supporting China

GENEVA, May 14.—(AP)—The 101st session of the League of Nations council ended tonight with indications a strong bloc of France, Great Britain and Soviet Russia had formed behind China in the far eastern war.

Other developments in the closing day's session:

Chile announced intention to resign from the league because the council failed to act on reform of the organization's covenant.

The council, with China and Soviet Russia abstaining, adopted a resolution giving Switzerland freedom from the obligation to impose league penalties when other members do.

It passed a resolution for creation of an autonomous refugee office to take charge of all refugees. The resolution expressed appreciation of the United States government's initiative in calling a world conference to study the refugee problem.

With only Poland abstaining, the council voted a resolution "earnestly urging" members of the league to carry out previous recommendations for China.

(At the last session, on February 2, the council adopted a resolution asking league powers to consider giving aid to China.

(Previously, last October, the league assembly asked the member states to "do nothing to weaken China's resistance" to Japan and advised them to consider measures in which aid to China could be given individually.)

GARDEN CLUB PICKS 3 NEW DIRECTORS

LAKE CHARLES, La., May 14.—(AP)—The Louisiana Garden Club federation closed its fourth annual convention here today after electing three new directors. They were, Mrs. Ira Campbell of Coushatta, Mrs. Gordon Dameron, Port Allen, and Mrs. Robert Usher, New Orleans.

Alexandria was chosen for the 1939 convention city.

The federation voted its support to the state department of conservation in its effort to protect wild flowers, native shrubs and trees.

It also promised support to the highway department in the planting of trees beside the highways and creation and maintenance of roadside parks.

Establishing of state parks under direction of the state planning commission also was endorsed.

TWO IN MANSION FACE EVICTION

'Goat Castle' Now Claimed By Persons Seeking To Foreclose On Deed

NATCHEZ, Miss., May 14.—(AP)—The aging couple of "Goat Castle," crumbling mansion famous since the mysterious murder of Miss Jennie Merrill, daughter of the late Ayres Merrill, United States minister to Belgium, face eviction.

The couple, R. H. C. Dana and Miss Octavia Dockery, both of whom claim illustrious American ancestry, were arrested in the murder case but never brought to trial. A negro killed while resisting arrest was said, later, to have committed the crime.

The home, Glenwood, known as "Goat Castle" because the Dana and Dockery goats roam through its many rooms, is now claimed by persons who foreclosed on a deed of trust several years ago.

Eviction proceedings were filed

NATION'S BREAK WITH ENGLAND GIVES CARDENAS ADDED SUPPORT

Diplomatic Situation Apparently Strengthens Position Of President

GRAVE OIL PROBLEM OF NATION STILL UNSOLVED

Must Find Foreign Market Or Cut Production To Domestic Needs

MEXICO CITY, May 14.—(AP)—Owen St. Clair O'Malley, Great Britain's minister to Mexico, announced tonight he had been recalled by his government, completing the diplomatic break between Britain and Mexico.

Britain's action was in response to that of Mexico last night in withdrawing Primo Villa Michel, Mexican minister to London because of Britain's "unfriendly attitude" toward Mexico.

Recall of O'Malley has been expected in Mexican circles as a consequence of the Mexican step.

O'Malley explained that his government had instructed him to withdraw himself and the diplomatic staff from Mexico and to leave the legation in charge of the British acting consul general, J. Dalton Murray.

The minister said he would leave for London, by way of New York, as soon as he finished packing.

Commenting on reports of anti-British feeling in Mexico, O'Malley said he had been treated "with absolute kindness and courtesy" and that he had "no complaints from British subjects" of rudeness on the part of Mexicans.

Mexico's diplomatic break with Great Britain apparently strengthened popular support of President Lazaro M. Cardenas today in his program of nationalization of foreign-owned oil properties.

Mexico's grave oil problem, which led to the recall of the Mexican minister to London, remained unchanged, however.

The press, workers' groups, and others spoke in patriotic phrases, endorsing the president's action, but the country's most pressing problem—one on which many observers believed the fate of the Cardenas administration rests—remained unsolved.

This problem, briefly, was finding a market for the country's government-produced oil, output of which has fallen sharply because of lack of markets since March 18, when the president expropriated British and American oil properties valued at $400,000,000.

Today the peso slumped five to ten points.

Until she disposes of her surplus oil—Mexico has exported roughly 60 per cent of the last three years' production—Mexicans must restrict their operations to domestic needs.

This means a loss of 17 per cent of federal and state revenues.

The break with London accentuated

BOY NOW CAN TALK WITHOUT HIS BUTTON

CLAREMONT, S. D., May 14.—(AP)—Keith Johnson, 13, doesn't have to press a button any longer in order to speak.

Happy that he can dispense with the "button," he's glad, too, that medical science fitted the little mechanism for him in infancy or he would not just be learning to use his voice box.

Afflicted as a baby with a growth on the vocal cords which permitted him only visible efforts of crying, he was taken to the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., where the throat was opened and the tube inserted to make his breathing easier.

To speak, Keith had to "button" or cover up the tube in his throat and thus force air up through the vocal cords. Now the clinic has pronounced him cured, removed the tube and he's back home with his mother, Mrs. D. G. Johnson, a normal boy for the first time in his life.

CITY TO OBSERVE AIR MAIL WEEK

All Business Houses To Be Asked To Use Service On Certain Day This Week

Air Mail week, May 15-21, will be observed in Monroe as in all other cities and towns of the nation that are served similarly. Special efforts will be observed to carry the largest volume of mail of this nature in the history of Monroe. On a certain day this week, every business house will be asked to dispatch its letters entirely by air mail. It is hoped to have mailed out of the Monroe office during the week at least an average of one letter for every man, woman and child, the goal being set at 40,000 letters.

To give added impetus to the observance, on Thursday, May 19, there will be a special air mail flight to pick up mail in the Monroe area. Francis C. Reardon will be sworn in as special air mail pilot for the occasion. It will be the first time that air mail has been delivered by plane to any of these places. Pouches will be made by Monroe for each place and anyone desiring to have letters delivered to these towns can do so by endorsing on the envelope "First Flight, May 19, 1938."

Pouches will be made by each of the offices for Monroe and persons at these points may be able to send their letters to Monroe by marking them similarly.

The plane's schedule will be as follows: Leave Monroe, 1 p.m.; arrive Rayville, 1:15 p.m., leaving there at 1:30 p.m.; arrive Tallulah, 2 p.m., leave 2:15 p.m.; arrive Bastrop, 3:15 p.m., leave 3:30 p.m.; arrive Ruston, 4:15 p.m., leave 4:30 p.m.; arrive Hodge, 4:45 p.m., leaving 5 p.m., arriving 5:45 p.m.

By the use of air mail, a letter can be mailed from Monroe and reach almost the extreme corner of the United States map in 24 hours. A letter air mailed from Monroe so as to leave at 10:35 a.m. will arrive in Los Angeles, Calif., at 11:46 p.m. the same day. A letter leaving here by air mail

IL DUCE WARNS UNITED STATES FASCISM WILL BE PROTECTED

Says Totalitarian States Will Form Block If Found Necessary

TALK BELIEVED AIMED AT WAR SECRETARY WOODRING

Throws Cold Water On Proposed Peace Pact With France

By Melvin K. Whiteleather

GENOA Italy, May 14.—(AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini took personal note for the first time today of American criticism of fascism, warning that totalitarian states "immediately would become a bloc and march together" should the democracies start a "doctrinal war."

Fascists regard Il Duce's words, delivered before 100,000 cheering blackshirts in this Mediterranean port, as aimed directly at United States Secretary of War Harry Woodring.

(Woodring, in a speech May 5, warned that provocations of dictator-controlled states some day might force democratic nations to war.)

Il Duce declared Italy sought to preserve peace but intended to arm herself to safeguard it in the face of "speeches from across the ocean."

Mussolini re-affirmed Italy's "loyal friendship" with Germany and his intention to "respect" the April 16 friendship pact with Great Britain.

But he also threw a generous quantity of cold water on negotiations now

GERMAN STUDIES BRAZIL ARRESTS

Nazi Ambassador Interests Self In Several Held Following Revolt

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 14.—(AP)—The foreign office issued a statement tonight that German Ambassador Karl Ritter had "interested himself" in the lot of "some German subjects imprisoned at Sao Paulo" ostensibly as suspects in Wednesday's frustrated Fascist revolt.

The statement said the ambassador had not protested the arrest of six German citizens in Rio de Janeiro.

"Ambassador Ritter called at Itamaraty—the foreign office palace—to learn the reasons for the imprisonment of some German subjects at Sao Paulo," the statement said.

It added the ambassador interested himself in them "inasmuch as they are persons known to his excellency and for the conduct of whom he was in a position to inform our government favorably."

Police headquarters announced the imprisonment of Pantaleao Pessoa, army general who once was chief of President Getulio Vargas' military establishment.

He was transferred from the active to the reserve list in 1937.

Meanwhile, the government continued to round up suspects here and in the interior. More than 800 arrests had been made.

Among them was the "chamber of forty" or executive commission of the greenshirt integralists who fomented the abortive rebellion.

Additional quantities of greenshirt munitions were seized. They included 80 powerful bombs found cached in an outlying section of Rio De Janeiro.

DEATH OF WOMAN LAID TO ACCIDENT

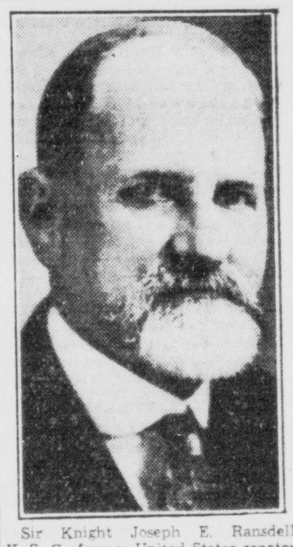

ALEXANDRIA, La., May 14.—(AP)—Dr. W. L. Murrell, Rapides parish coroner, said today after an autopsy that no suspicious circumstances were attached to the death of Mrs. Doris Mata of Marfa, Tex.

The woman died in the hospital here after being found hurt apparently in an automobile accident on the highway near LeCompte, La.

State police ordered an autopsy to determine whether foul play was suspected because both the woman's legs were split open as if by a knife.

Dr. Murrell said that unless police found evidence to the contrary the coroner's verdict of death from an automobile accident would stand.

GUEST SPEAKER

Sir Knight Joseph E. Ransdell, K. S. G., former United States senator, who will be the principal speaker at tonight's banquet of the Louisiana Knights of Columbus.

KNIGHTS TO HEAR JOSEPH RANSDELL

Former Senator Will Be Principal Speaker At Convention Banquet Tonight

Former United States Senator Joseph E. Ransdell, who recently was honored by Pope Pius XI in his elevation to the Order of St. Gregory the Great, will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Knights of Columbus, to be held on Virginia hotel roof tonight.

Sir Knight Ransdell, who is one of the most prominent Catholic laymen of the United States, will celebrate his 80th birthday next October. His appearance at the banquet of the Knights of Columbus tonight will be an occasion for doing him honor for his long service in public life as well as for his endeavors on behalf of the religious life of his home community, Lake Providence.

Other distinguished guests who will speak at the banquet, which will be the high point of the thirty-third annual convention of the Knights of Columbus of Louisiana, now in session here, will include William J. Guste, supreme director of the order; T. H. McMillan, district deputy, and F. Xavier Mouton, state deputy.

WEST MONROE VOTES TUESDAY

Mayor And Aldermen Will Be Nominated At Run-Off Election

The run-off primary for mayor and board of five aldermen of West Monroe will be held in that city Tuesday. The first primary was held on April 12 but it was found necessary to have a run-off to decide on those to be certified for nomination.

Those whose names will appear on the ticket Tuesday will be: For mayor, H. M. Williams, Jr., B. A. Gentry. For aldermen: Marlin Hattaway, Lee Hawkins, S. D. Kennedy, H. A. McDonald, R. L. Mitchell, H. C. Mize, Henry L. Presley and Ed. M. Watkins.

FORMER ATTORNEY GUILTY OF MURDER

WOODVILLE, Tex., May 14.—(AP)—Frank G. Vaughn, disbarred Beaumont attorney charged with slaying a negro, was found guilty and his punishment was fixed at 25 years in the state penitentiary by a district court jury here today.

Vaughn was indicted for murder in connection with the death of Willie Ray, a former client. The jury returned its verdict at 11:25 a.m., after deliberating for 20 hours.

Defense counsel had argued that the state failed to produce sufficient corroboration of a witness who was accused as an accomplice. Joe Collier, the witness, testified he saw Vaughn shoot Ray.

Witnesses at the trial testified that a skeleton found in an abandoned well recently was that of Ray. Ray disappeared about two years ago after collecting compensation in a suit for personal injuries.

Both Vaughn and his wife were in the courtroom when the jury brought in its verdict. Neither showed any sign of emotion.

NIPPONS TIGHTEN NOOSE FOR DRIVE ON KEY CITY

Chiang's Men Still Optimistic Despite Critical War Situation

By Lloyd Lehrbas

SHANGHAI, May 15.—(Sunday)—(AP)—Chinese today pressed desperate counter attacks to break the lines of Japanese columns steadily tightening a noose on China's central front for an assault on the key city of Suchow.

Concerted Chinese attacks south of the vital east-west Lunghai railroad, which a Japanese communique said had been cut, were directed particularly against Yungcheng and Mengcheng in northern Anhwei province.

Both towns are behind the Japanese column that was said to have fought its way north to the railroad near Tangshan, 50 miles west of Suchow, where the Lunghai crosses the north-south Tientsin-Pukow railroad.

The Lunghai also was severed, Japanese said, by heavy aerial bombardments that prevented movements of supplies to China's huge central army. Japanese army spokesmen declared 400,000 Chinese troops had been blocked off from retreat and faced surrender or annihilation.

Two hundred Japanese war planes supported the forces aimed from north and south at several points along the Lunghai.

Repeated raids were made on Suchow causing heavy casualties and

BAPTISTS FLAY REGIMENTATION

Condemn Centralization That Would Limit Or Abridge Human Freedom

RICHMOND, Va., May 14.—(AP)—The Southern Baptist convention unanimously adopted today a resolution of its social service commission condemning governmental "regimentation" or "centralization" that would "limit or abridge human freedom, civil or religious."

Other commission resolutions approved reaffirmed the denomination's advocacy of prohibition; opposed government subsidies to churches or their institutions; recognized the principle of collective bargaining by labor and urged arbitration for settlement of industrial disputes; approved child labor legislation by states but opposed the child labor amendment of the United States constitution, and condemned the national lottery proposed in congress.

The convention's sentiment against the interdenominational movement was expressed anew today in rejecting by an overwhelming vote a resolution calling for study of the "brotherhood of churches" proposed by the interdenominational gathering at Utrecht, Holland.

Dr. Charles E. Maddry's resolution for support of the foreign mission board in its effort to obtain government aid in seeking indemnification from the Japanese government for Baptist property destroyed in China was adopted in emasculated form.

The convention adopted a substitute drawn by the resolutions committee.

TRUCK DRIVER SETS SAIL FOR ITALY

Bound for Genoa, Italy, in his tiny sailboat, Guy C. Avery, a truck driver, is shown sailing out of the harbor at Tampa, Fla. He carried food for four months, 45 gallons of water—and lots of confidence that his 18-foot craft will cross the Atlantic without difficulty. He planned to touch at Miami, Fla., and Savannah, Ga., before starting across the ocean.

OUACHITA PARISH BAND SUCCESSFUL

Year About To Close Has Been Outstanding, Assures Superintendent

With the close approach of the end of the school year, the musical achievements of the Ouachita Parish High school band were reviewed by T. O. Brown, parish school superintendent, Saturday.

In the recent band contest at Baton Rouge, this musical group made a good showing, he said, in class A. This was a jump of three classes over last year. They were accorded a "very good" rating when competing against Fortier, Byrd, Fair Park, and Baton Rouge High schools.

In the solo events, Graves Hundley won first division highest rating on alto sax. This entitles him to enter the regional national contest in Louisville, Ky., May 26-28.

Second division "excellent" rating was awarded Levins Thompson, baritone soloist; Louis Hawkins, alto clarinet soloist; George Vaughan, B clarinet soloist; Sonny Washburn, trombone soloist.

In the third division "very good" rating was awarded Morris Austin, cornet soloist; Gene Wilder, cornet soloist and Roy Cole, sax soloist.

Fourth division "good" rating was awarded to Murray Eby, bass clarinet soloist.

In the ensemble, Ouachita Parish High school's trombone quartet and saxophone sextet were both awarded second division "excellent" rating. The clarinet quartet received third division "very good" rating.

In the marching contest, class A, Ouachita parish, won a fine plaque for receiving second division "excellent" rating.

In the sweepstakes events in which points won by the glee clubs and soloists at the vocal festival in Natchitoches were added to those won by the band, soloists and ensembles, Ouachita Parish High school, with a total of 103 points, won third place in class A competition against Byrd, Fair Park, Fortier, and Baton Rouge High schools. The class B trophy was won with a total of 59 points and the class D trophy was won by Calhoun with a total of 52 points.

The results of the vocal festival in Natchitoches gave the parish high school first place with boys' and girls' glee clubs winning "superior" rating and mixed glee club second place with "excellent" rating. Among many honors in solos, Dorothy Burge and Billy Stanford were awarded first place with "superior" rating.

In the Ruston rally, Ouachita Parish High school trio and quartets placed first, making a clean sweep of top honors. This was the first time in the history of the rally that one school had won all three first places.

The state rally was won for the second consecutive year by Ouachita Parish High school. Again the music department is said to have displayed unusual skill in capturing sweepstakes in the music division with five first places and one second out of seven entries. For this the high school was awarded a separate honor certificate.

This has been a banner year in music for the Ouachita Parish High school with the band making steady progress toward their ultimate goal, which is "superior" rating in class A, and the vocal department coming through with success.

SANITARIUM TO CELEBRATE SILVER JUBILEE

St. Francis sanitarium, founded twenty-five years ago through the generosity of Father Enaut, who bequeathed his substance to make the institution possible.

Story Of The Founding Of St. Francis Sanitarium

Institution, About To Celebrate Its Silver Jubilee, Made Possible By Generosity Of Aged Priest

By Monsignor J. V. Plauche

Some 30 years ago, Monsignor C. Mahe, who was then pastor of St. Matthew's church here, was talking with his predecessor, the Rev. Father Eynaut. Monsignor Mahe realized that Father Eynaut was growing old, and his priestly zeal prompted him to advise the old priest to prepare himself for death. Now, there is no rule against Catholic priests owning property, or money, but usually most of them dispose of their worldly goods for charitable purposes. Monsignor Mahe, therefore, felt free to urge his confrere to dispose of the money he had saved and accumulated by his wise investments in Monroe real estate.

"What do you want me to do with it?" the old man asked, perhaps a little testily. Like a flash came the answer from the practical Father Mahe, "Build a sanitarium." Father Eynaut shot back. "What's a sanitarium?" To the old Frenchman the world "hospital" meant something, but not so "sanitarium."

To this conversation between two veteran missionaries from France who worked for many years in and around Monroe and northeast Louisiana, the citizens of this community owe today the establishment of the institution now known as St. Francis sanitarium and training school for nurses.

Monsignor Mahe was instrumental in obtaining the services of the Franciscan Sisters of Calais, France. They had been invited by the late bishop of the diocese of Alexandria, the Most Rev. C. Van de Ven, to come and open a hospital at Alexandria, and were on their way to that city when Father Mahe met them and talked to them of Father Eynaut's proposition. When it became apparent that they would not realize their ambition in Alexandria, the bishop gladly consented to let them come to Monroe instead, for he was the bishop of this city as well as of Alexandria.

Twenty-five years ago next July, the sisters, under the able leadership of Rev. Mother de Bethanie, the St. Francis sanitarium opened its doors to the public. To give a complete history of what this institution has done for Monroe and northeast Louisiana since would take us far afield, and would perhaps take more space than could reasonably be available. But it is gratifying to the sisters to know that from the first their work was appreciated by the doctors of the community. We quote from the resolution passed by the Ouachita Parish Medical society, just a year after the hospital opened its doors:

"Whereas, the Franciscan Sisters and Father Eynaut have established in the city of Monroe a thoroughly equipped and modern hospital; and whereas, this institution is of great benefit in alleviating and curing the many ills of suffering humanity in this city and the surrounding country, and whereas, such an institution is of invaluable assistance to the medical profession by making possible and placing at our disposal those conditions most conducive to the recovery of diseased and injured humanity;

"Therefore, be it resolved by the Ouachita Parish Medical society in regular meeting assembled, that we hereby give expression to our high regard for this enduring monument to the munificence of Father Eynaut and the noble self sacrifice of the Franciscan Sisters.

"Be it further resolved, that we congratulate them upon this consummation of their untiring efforts to get the institution in all its phases established upon such a high plane of efficiency.

"Be it further resolved, that we pledge our hearty support and cooperation."

But the sisters did not rest content with the sanitarium as it was 24 years ago. Every year since they have invested more and more money in the buildings and equipment so that today we can truthfully say that the St. Francis sanitarium and training school for nurses ranks as one of the best in the state.

Last Thursday, National Hospital day, the doors of the institution were opened wide and all who cared could come and see for themselves just what these unselfish sisters have done and are doing for the people of this community.

Next week, 17 young ladies will be graduated from this school of nursing. Here is another asset for the community, for many of these young ladies, as well as many before them, and many in the years to come, would never have been able to realize their ambition were it not for the hospital that was established here 25 years ago, and which is giving them a thorough training in this very useful profession.

St. Francis sanitarium is a private hospital. The sisters own and operate it. They have done so from the very beginning, and have been hard put at times to raise the money necessary for its operation and expansion so as to keep abreast of the time. Right now they are trying hard to build a new home for the student nurses, one of the essential needs of the institution.

However, they have always been glad to do as their founder, the great St. Francis of Assisi did who loved the poor so much. They have always done their share and more in trying to alleviate the sufferings of the poor, even though the state provides hospitalization for them in other cities. It is true the parish of Ouachita, the city of Monroe and several benevolent societies help finance the care of these unfortunates, but even at that a carefully prepared report of this part of their activities shows that every year there is a deficit of almost $10,000 in the cost of caring for the indigent patients. In other words, during the 25 years of the hospital's existence, the Franciscan sisters have given the poor of this community service amounting to more than $100,000 and have never asked for a refund from the state or parish.

Today, when the sisters and their friends are commemorating the 25th milestone in the history of their institution, their thoughts, of course, turn in gratitude first of all to God, who has blessed their efforts and made their wonderful progress possible. They are grateful, too, to the many who have helped and encouraged them. It would be impossible to give a complete list of benefactors, of the doctors and nurses, who have cooperated with the sisters, but all can rest assured that the sisters are grateful to them.

The story of St. Francis sanitarium in its history of a quarter century revolves around the devoted zeal and self-sacrifice of the Franciscan sisters whose lives are dedicated to the service of others. Their own rules of humility forbid any exploitation of their work or attempt to elicit laudation of their service, but those who have been the beneficiaries of it are able to estimate it at its true worth.

DE BLIEUX NAMED OFFICER OF CLUB

UNIVERSITY, La., May 14.—(Special)—J. D. DeBlieux of Monroe was chosen vice-president for north Louisiana of the recently organized Newman Club Alumni association of the Louisiana State university. The Newman club is an organization of Catholic students on the campus.

Jack Gremillion of Baton Rouge was chosen president of the association, James E. Arceneaux of Jennings, vice-president for south Louisiana, and Hazel Lee Neck of Baton Rouge, secretary-treasurer. The Rev. Maurice Schexnayder of Baton Rouge is the chaplain.

The alumni association was formed following a banquet held Wednesday night, May 11, in Highland hall, which was attended by a large number of alumni from over the state.

EPWORTH LEAGUE ELECTS

JENA, La., May 14.—(Special)—The Epworth league of the Methodist church held its annual election of officers as follows: Ruth Bishop, president; Lemoine Wilbanks, vice-president; Olivia Baker, worship chairman; Sarah Maud Watson, recreational chairman; Jo Anne Butler, publicity superintendent; Tommy Drewett, adult counsellor.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY GRAYSON ALUMNI

GRAYSON, La., May 14.—(Special)—The Grayson Alumni association held its annual meeting and banquet.

The newly elected officers were Lorraine Mixon, president; Mrs. Lucille Woolridge, secretary, and Billy Eglin, vice-president.

The Grayson P.-T. A. sponsored the banquet and served chicken a la king, creamed cabbage, fried potatoes, carrot salad, pickles, hot rolls, ice cream and cookies.

"Vocational Agriculture" being the theme of the program, S. M. Jackson of Baton Rouge, head of the agriculture department of the state, was the principal speaker. Other speakers were Dr. Horace Davis, head of the poultry department of L. S. U., and Lester Price of Ida, La., master teacher of the south in agriculture.

About 150 alumni students attended the banquet.

COURT OF HONOR HELD ON FRIDAY

Impressive Ceremony Conducted As Eagle Scout Award Is Bestowed

Before an audience of approximately 200, which included Monroe's first Girl Scout troop, 35 scouts and a scoutmaster were awarded certificates of rank ranging from second class to Eagle Scout at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium, Friday night.

The feature of the occasion was the presentation, made by Fred Williamson, of the highest scouting rank to Louis Masur, Jr., of the rank of Eagle Scout. In an impressive manner, Scout Masur in turn escorted his mother to the stage and pinned on her breast the Eagle pin, in keeping with the honor bestowed on her son.

Second class rank was conferred as follows: James Mooney, J. E. Jones, Milton Childers, and Fred Stricklen, troop 10, West Monroe; Roy Cole Jr., Albert Petty, John Poulas, troop 30, Monroe; Randolph Brown, Harry Frazer, Jr., Allen Jones, Ben Marshall, Louis Whitfield, John Hardy Worsham and Theodore Terzia, troop 31, Monroe; Douglas Crew, J. G. Haynes and J. D. Rodriguez, troop 36, Monroe.

First class rank: Hayward John, Bill Roach, Gordon Surguine, Bendel Aubert, Harold Crew and Wilfred May, troops 31 and 36.

Merit badges: D. McComb, George Pipes, Jr., and George Tholborn, troop 30, Sam Sanford, Malcolm Stone, Bill Haynes, Lee Adler, Harry Bell, Tommy Clement, Bill Fair, Louis Masur, Jr., Jack Neel, Harry Stone, Robert Wood, and James Carter, troop 31.

Leading the field, Scoutmaster C. S. Davidson, troop 30, received a certificate for the following badges: leathercraft, handicraft, pioneering, carpentry, woodcarving, printing, cooking.

Scout Executive O. H. Black announced the addition of three new subjects of study to the present list of 100 merit badges. The new ones, carrying special appeal to scout sleuths, are finger-printing, coin-collecting and dog care.

On their road to Eagle rank, Scouts Harry Stone and Sam Sanford, troop 31, received certificates of Star Scouts. Lee Adler, troop 31, was granted life rank.

The United States government has accepted the Eagle Scout rank as the equivalent of two years of college work.

Scouts Jack Neel and Harry Stone, troop 31, received awards for bird study, a step on the road to Eagle Scout rank. Special tribute of thanks was paid to Mrs. George Lowery for her teaching and cooperation on this subject. Scouts Neal and Stone are now qualified to instruct other scouts in this field, according to Scout Executive Black.

FLUSH KIDNEYS OF POISONS AND STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS

Live A Healthier, Happier Longer Life

Thousands of men and women wonder why backache bothers them—why they have to visit the bathroom often at night—why flow is scanty and sometimes smarts and burns.

Any one of these symptoms means that your kidneys and bladder need attention now before these minor symptoms develop into serious trouble.

To flush out waste poisons and acid from kidneys, soothe your irritated bladder and put healthy activity into them, get a 35-cent package of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Capsules and take as directed.

This harmless, tried and true medicine always works—you'll feel better in a few days, as the supremely effective diuretic and kidney stimulant drives excess uric acid from the body which is often the aggravation of joint agony, sciatica and neuritis.

But be sure and get GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules—the original and genuine—right from Haarlem in Holland. All good things are imitated.

TO THE CITIZENS of WEST MONROE

The City of West Monroe and her citizens have for many years been pointed to by other communities in the State as an example of public honor and fairness in dealing with public issues. The citizenship of West Monroe is composed of open-minded, fair-thinking, independent people who have by their consistent adherence to the principles of honesty, integrity, and hard work justified in every respect the admiration of other communities.

Our people, like the people of any other community, are subject to mistakes, but they have always insisted upon the right and privilege of running local affairs of West Monroe without outside interference. The people of this City have always been actively interested in local elections and have fought out the issues with determination and vigor, but have always accepted the verdict of majority of the people as expressed in the municipal elections. Regardless of how hotly contested their elections have been our people have been able to lay aside partisan prejudices and petty differences and work together for the general good of our community. We believe that the history of West Monroe, as written by its growth and development, justifies the right of her citizens to select their own officials and run their own affairs WITHOUT OUTSIDE INTERFERENCE.

It is indeed unfortunate and highly regrettable that in the present Municipal Campaign Jimmie Noe and Paul Fink who live on the East Side of the Ouachita River, and neither of whom have ever lived or voted in West Monroe, have seen fit to attempt to take charge of the political affairs of the people of West Monroe.

We grant to Mr. Noe and Mr. Fink the right to be as active as they care to in running the affairs of the City of Monroe. We believe, however, that the people of West Monroe are fully capable by reason of their own independence and their knowledge of their own citizenship to select their public officials without being dictated to by outside parties. Certainly the people of West Monroe have a right to resent any effort on the part of Mr. Noe and Mr. Fink to attempt to destroy or injure the name and character of any of our local citizens.

The people of West Monroe by their long adherence to the principles of honesty, tolerance, and fair-mindedness on public issues have every reason to rise up in all their might with righteous indignation against the efforts of Mr. Noe and Mr. Fink to control the affairs and destiny of West Monroe. As citizens who have known West Monroe not only as our local community, but as our home for many years, and who treasure the traditions of our community, we now appeal to the fairminded citizenship of West Monroe to rise up as a mighty and united band of citizens against the right of any OUTSIDER now or in the future TO ATTEMPT TO DICTATE TO THE PEOPLE OF OUR CITY.

We also appeal to you to resent with us every attack by these outside influences upon the character of any of our local citizens who regardless of politics are our neighbors and friends.

Notice Served This Nation Will Not Recognize Seizures In China

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Secretary Hull's re-affirmation of America's policy of non-recognition of conquered territory has strongly placed before Japan the attitude this nation will adopt toward Japanese-controlled governments in China, officials said today.

Hull's statement, made Thursday, was occasioned by the action of the League of Nations council, giving Great Britain and France freedom to recognize Italian Ethiopia. His declaration that "our policy (of non-recognition) remains absolutely unchanged" has served notice to the world that the United States' program is to be:

1. No recognition of Italian Ethiopia. Therefore, no following of the lead set by Great Britain and France. This will be a lapse from the American policy of acting in a manner parallel to that of the major European democracies.

2. A continued attitude of non-recognition of Manchoukuo. Germany and Italy have recognized this Japanese-dominated state.

3. No recognition of governments being set up by Japan in the territory she has conquered in China.

Local consuls will be permitted to contact Chinese municipal governors, as before. But the government of Chiang Kai-Shek will be the government of China, in the eyes of United States officials. The American ambassador to China will be kept in Hankow, the seat of the Chiang Kai-Shek government, or in any other city to which that government may move.

Secretary Hull's re-affirmation of non-recognition at a moment when Great Britain and France were reversing their policy is regarded by some persons close to the state department as indicating a desire on the part of the administration to lean closer to the Latin American republics than to the European democracies.

At the moment Hull made his announcement two choices faced the administration:

1. Continue the policy of acting on a parallel line with Britain and France.

2. Abide by the decision of the Latin American republics in their pact of 1933—ratified by this country in 1934—not to recognize territory acquired by force of arms.

WEIGHTED BODY IS FOUND IN ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(AP)—George Hall, 63-year-old negro truck farmer, found the body of an unidentified white man, weighted with an electric iron, in the Seventeenth street canal near Bucktown today.

Dr. M. Odom, Jefferson parish coroner, pronounced the case a suicide. He said the man apparently had been dead a week or longer. A signet ring inscribed "F. W." was on a finger. The victim was about 25 years old.

LOYALISTS SLOW INSURGENT PACE

Five Successive Rebel Attacks Beaten Back By Government Militiamen

HENDAYE, France (At The Spanish Frontier), May 14.—(AP)—A sudden stiffening of Spanish government resistance along the front from Teruel eastward to the Mediterranean tonight slowed the pace of the insurgents' offensive toward Valencia.

Five successive insurgent attacks were beaten back by entrenched government militiamen in the coastal sector. All along the line from El Pobo, near Teruel, eastward through Allepuz, Fortanete and la Iglesuela del Cid, insurgent attackers ran into trouble.

Before the village of Escriche, at the extreme western end of the front, about 15 miles northeast of Teruel, government forces dug ten lines of trenches.

In the air also, the long-dormant insurgents faced a new threat from the government's air forces. Reported to have been strengthened by 300 new planes unloaded at Barcelona, the government launched a surprise attack over Cantavieja, 40 miles northeast of Teruel, with 50 new warplanes.

Insurgents said seven of the government planes were downed in a battle with 18 insurgent ships and the rest of the government fleet flew away in the direction of Barcelona. They said no insurgent planes were lost.

From la Iglesuela del Cid, 34 miles from the Mediterranean, the front now runs through Villafranca del Cid, Ares de Maestre, Albocacer, Cuevas de Vinroma and Alcala de Chivert on a zig-zag line eastward to the sea.

The insurgents' next objectives are Mora de Rubielos, south of the western end of the line, Mosqueruela and Vistabella in the center, and Torreblanca near the coast.

The government, apparently, was determined to check the insurgent advance close to Teruel, which has been used as a pivot to swing Generalissimo Francisco Franco's whole front stretching to the Mediterranean.

Insurgent dispatches said the government had massed thousands of machine guns in its ten-line earthworks there and that insurgent planes had dumped tons of explosive bombs on the trenches preparatory to infantry attempts to storm them one by one.

FAVOR FREE HAND FOR ROOSEVELT

Some Senate Committee Members Oppose Ear-Marking Relief Funds

WASHINGTON, May 14. — (AP) — Strong sentiment developed in the senate appropriations committee today to give President Roosevelt unrestricted control over the $3,154,000,000 relief-public works program.

As passed by the house, the measure would appropriate funds directly to lending and spending agencies instead of to the president. Mr. Roosevelt would retain authority to approve or veto projects, however.

Chairman Adams, Democrat, Colorado, of a senate sub-committee handling the bill, said he favored making the appropriations to the chief executive, as has been done in the past.

Under this system, the president would have authority to allocate funds to various agencies as he saw fit.

"I think someone should be responsible for the spending of this money," Adams told reporters. "If the president is to be responsible, he must have authority to control the funds."

Some other committee members privately endorsed Adams' stand, saying they did not wish to "tie the president's hands" in administering relief funds. If the appropriations were made directly to the agencies, they said, individual agencies would spend all their appropriations, whether or not the money could have been spent more advantageously by some other agency.

Senator Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, leading a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats seeking changes in the lending-spending program, said he thought appropriations should be made directly to the agencies and that the president's power to approve or veto projects should be eliminated.

Byrd and his associates hope to strike public works or "pump-priming" features from the bill, reducing its total by about one-half.

The bill may go to the senate floor Thursday or Friday, and about a week of senate debate is expected.

WARNED OF WAR

Declaring that keeping the United States out of war is the vital concern of all mothers, Mrs. Horace B. Blake, above, national president of the American Gold Star Mothers, warned 126 fellow-members gathered in Philadelphia for their fourth biennial convention that they must fight "subversive elements." The war mothers dedicated a bronze plaque and garden plot at historic Betsy Ross house to the memory of their sons, killed in the World war.

NEW DEALERS CUT DOWN, KNOX SAYS

OSHKOSH, Wis., May 14.—(AP)—Colonel Frank Knox, Chicago publisher and Republican vice-presidential candidate in 1936, told the state convention of Young Republicans of Wisconsin tonight that "the uncompromising knife of economic law has whittled down the New Dealers to their natural size."

Knox, who asserted he was not a candidate "for anything in the world," said a great opportunity "is fairly begging our party to take it by the hand."

Knox termed the New Dealers "a noisy, spending crowd of adventurers" who have brought bread lines, heavy taxes, idle farms, empty factories and 12,000,000 idle men and women.

"The plain truth," he said, "is that we are not going to get out of the mess we are in until we quit worshipping political novelties and get back to economic realities."

STATE GALLERY OF ART PROPOSED

Two Representatives Will Submit Matter To Legislature Monday

BATON ROUGE, La., May 14.—(AP)—A plan to establish a state art gallery will be submitted to the legislature Monday night.

Representatives Lowry Eastland and James McCurnin of East Baton Rouge parish said they would introduce a bill in the house to create a Louisiana art commission which would supervise establishment of a gallery in the old state capitol.

Renovation of the old capitol here now is being completed by the Works Progress administration at a cost of $75,000.

Mark Twain, seeing the old capitol in renovation nearly three decades ago, wrote a little latter:

"It is pathetic to see this architectural falsehood undergoing perpetuation and restoration in our day, when it would have been so easy to let dynamite finish what a charitable fire began, and then devote this restoration money to the building of something genuine."

The East Baton Rouge parish legislative delegation's measure would provide that the Baton Rouge Art league's collection should form a nucleus for the state gallery.

The commission also would serve as an agent for "correlation of all artistic endeavors which are going on in the state and would establish the art gallery at which Louisiana artists, sculptors and craftsmen could make their exhibits."

The bill provides members of the commission would be the president of the Baton Rouge Art league, the president of Louisiana State university and the state superintendent of education.

Further reference of bills to committees and reading titles of new bills probably will occupy most of Monday night's sessions of the house and senate.

Senator James A. Noe, ex-governor of Louisiana, who had his anti-administration measures returned to the calendar this week, probably will assign them to committees after the legislature reconvenes for the second week of its regular biennial session. Two of his bills would require state officials to make public their incomes from all sources and prohibit enactment of any form of sales tax.

Committee hearings are expected to begin next week. Hearing on the administration's proposed one per cent general sales tax to replace the present luxury tax will claim principal interest.

Representatives Eastland and McCurnin said they would also drop a bill into the house hopper Monday night to extend opening of the quail shooting season from December 5 until the morning of Thanksgiving.

Another measure they said they would propose would require ambulance drivers to have certificates testifying they have been trained in first aid.

GLUE IN AUTO TANK

CINCINNATI, O.—A new candidate for the title of the "world's meanest man" was discovered here when James Louis, 29, negro, was sentenced to serve 10 days in the workhouse for pouring glue into the gasoline tank of a neighbor's automobile.

TOT, SHOT, TO BE BLIND IF HE LIVES

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Three-year-old Anthony S. Modleski, Jr., shot by his policeman father, will be blind if he lives, hospital physicians said today. He is near death.

The boy was wounded and his two brothers, William, 1, and Joseph, 4, and his mother, Antoinette, were slain at dawn yesterday as they lay sleeping.

Patrolman Modleski, 36, carefully placed the muzzle of his gun behind the left ear of each victim before pulling the trigger. Then he put a bullet through his own head. He had been brooding over ill health.

Getting Happiness Out Of Today

A little girl we know spends a good deal of her time living in the future. She is fascinated, somehow, by the prospect of doing and being the things older girls and grownups are. Sometimes in her preoccupation she loses sight of the many pleasant things a little girl can do that no one else can.

Perhaps the mistake we see her making is common to a good many of us. Sometimes we surrender the bird of today, in hand, for the gaudier plumage of two for tomorrow—in a far off bush.

Tomorrow we will have more money—we'll be able to travel a lot. Later we'll have our own house—then we can really live. Next year we'll have a new car—and get rid of this old "jalopy." All very well—for those things are well worth-while, and the intelligent effort used in getting them is a wholesome exercise.

Meanwhile, let us live. "Life," says an ancient Greek adage, "is the gift of nature; but beautiful living is the gift of wisdom." Therefore, successful living is an art, dependent upon inward qualities and not upon outward things. This is not to speak lightly of troubles, or to belittle the economic problems that beset so many of us today. Rather, it is to help build them carefully as small stones into the bigger mosaic pattern of life.

To the possessor of some great artistic concept things are unimportant. The artist or the philosopher instinctively moves himself away from things. To him they represent distracting, if unimportant, elements. Again, note how intensely he lives each day—for itself alone. Of course, he anticipates the completion of the painting, book, treatise or philosophy, design, or whatever his project may be, but each day he lives for itself.

It is not given to all of us to be great artists. It is given us to observe and profit by the example of those who create concepts or things of lasting value. If we cannot be so disdainful as they are of life's common comforts and possessions, we can at least observe that these things are not essential to happiness or lasting achievement.

We can live today to the fullest without losing sight of responsibility for tomorrow. The man who through worry for tomorrow neglects today, already gives a hostage which he must reclaim tomorrow, perhaps at an exorbitant price.

A FAVORED LAND

As a publicist, James H. R. Cromwell, husband of the former Doris Duke, tobacco heiress, has not always been given serious and respectful attention. He is a young man of individual and sometimes unconventional views on public questions and, having a yearning for political life, has been inclined to give his conclusions wide publicity. The reaction has not always been favorable and friendly.

With respect to his most recent utterance, made upon his return to the United States from a two-months' tour of Europe, however, there can be no possible conflict. "My impression is that, despite all our troubles here, there is not a nation I visited in Europe that would not change places with us right now," said Mr. Cromwell, who is no doubt an observant and a discerning traveler.

No one who has traveled in Europe lately and no one who has read of European developments will question the accuracy of this conclusion. Our streets do not resound with the tramp of marching feet and the rumble of caissons. We are virtually free from the danger of war.

And, in all humility—for grievous have been our follies and our failures—we must give thanks that we live under a democratic form of government. The homes and shops of people in America are not being pillaged because they belong to a proscribed race. Men are not fleeing from America, they are not killing themselves or being killed, because of their race. Men are not in concentration camps because of their race or religion. Men can pray as they please or refuse to pray, or criticize the government. These are among the innumerable blessings guaranteed to Americans by the constitution.

In spite of the recession, in spite of an occasional petty tyrant in government, we have indeed a favored land. And anyone who doubts that this is the case would gain in enlightment through a month or two in Europe.

TAKE A CARD

There's a great deal in the idea of Sid Glotter of Minneapolis. He came into possession of a shiner a while ago, and one of the first things he did was to have some cards printed with an explanation on them. He carried them in his pocket, and believed that by simply handing them around to his friends he effected an appreciable increase in the life expectancy of his vocal cords.

There is a definite place in the daily life of every talk-weary man for Sid's idea. If all the conversational non-essentials in the world were laid end to end it would certainly be a humiliating sight to look upon. Cards, Sid has shown, are the answer. Or, rather, the answers are in the cards.

Think how much easier life with a collection of cards like these would be:

"It always looks like this when I wash it."

Or:

"You dope, a man's bound to put on a little weight as the years go by."

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Notes on statesmanship:

The United States' only woman senator, Mrs. Hattie Caraway of Arkansas, comes up for re-election this year opposed by a youngish member of the house, John L. McClellan. His office says he is "away out in front" but friends of Mrs. Caraway say 'tain't so.

Once there were two women members, Mrs. Caraway and Mrs. Rose Long, widow of Huey Long. Huey had a part in putting them both there. He campaigned to help Mrs. Caraway to succeed the late Senator Thad Caraway, her husband, in 1932. Mrs. Long filled in for Huey for a short time after he was shot.

Diplomatic Note: It is time to hear the state department's story of the consul at Zanzibar, an island off the African coast. The consulate was next to the beach and once while the consul, his wife and guests were supping on the veranda one tropic afternoon, a cluster of dusky maidens from the interior galloped past the house, threw off their clothes and went swimming almost at the door step, as nude as nude could be. The outraged consul seized a bird gun from the wall and blazed away, filling one woman's tawny hide with fine shot. It turned out that the woman was queen of a local tribe. The consul and his family escaped on a British cruiser.

Love On The Potomac

We are glad to report that love is progressing on the Mount Vernon highway along the Potomac. This is not the transient love that moves in for a vacation from out in the provinces but the resident love which unites an employe of the civil service with a girl on the Nebraska or Dakota patronage. Some time ago we mentioned that one of the midnight parking spots on the highway (popular for courtin') had been closed off by a chain and signs put up saying "no parking." Protest was made to Secretary Ickes, one of whose bureaus controls the highway. Well, the chains have been removed. The sign remains.

Who-Gets-the-Medal-Note: After all it was Jimmy Roosevelt and not F. D. R. who said down in Florida words to the effect that "We want Pepper." When Senator Pepper was re-elected, however, F. D. R., not Jimmy, was held largely responsible. But why not Jimmy? (Well, why not?)

FREEDOM'S DEFENSE

By BRUCE CATTON

Thomas Mann, exiled German author, has been saying a great many sensible things on his current tour of America; but nothing that he has said is much more worthy of our serious consideration than his recent remark in New York that freedom must learn the art of self-defense.

Freedom as it exists in America is a priceless thing. We who have always lived in it take it for granted, perhaps even fail to realize that it can conceivably be in danger. Mann, who saw freedom snuffed out in Germany, has a clearer appraisal of it; and his warning is something to ponder over.

That the ideal of freedom must eventually prevail in this world is, to Dr. Mann, something that goes almost without saying. But before it can prevail the race is apt to live through some dark and painful times, and those who know and love freedom must learn the art of defending it against its mortal enemies.

Now it is very easy to say that we must "defend freedom"; the trick is to learn just how the job is to be done. For freedom cannot defend itself by taking up the weapons of suppression. Those weapons cut both ways. Any free society which tries to use them will end by finding that it has somehow ceased to be free.

It would be better, perhaps, to begin by understanding clearly just what a devotion to freedom implies.

Such a devotion—when carried into practice through such instruments as democracy—implies, primarily, a belief that the great mass of human beings have in them the good will, the good sense and the common decency to handle any problem that can face them. In other words, it implies a broad, sustaining faith in the human race.

This, of course, is only a starter. For to hold such a faith, and to live by it, means that one can have no use for any form of obscurantism. It means that the quest for knowledge must go on endlessly, that the exact truth about any and every phase of life must be given to the people at all times, that the people must—as a great democrat once said—have the right to make their own mistakes.

All of this is the exact opposite of the faith that prevails in the authoritarian governments.

It is, as a matter of fact, a broader faith than many of us actually live up to in America. And yet it is the only faith that can make freedom and democracy work. And to defend freedom and democracy, one must begin by defending that faith in season and out of season.

Viewed in that light, Dr. Mann's injunction is clearer. Understand what freedom really means, and you can see how it is to be defended. Protect that broad faith which animates freedom, and freedom itself will remain alive.

A BOOK REVIEW

HARVARD'S 'RED' 'BORES' GENTLY

A short time ago Harvard university announced the appointment to its faculty of Granville Hicks, who is a member of the Communist party. The 100 per cent patriots of Boston and vicinity immediately took to arms, and the air over Boston common has been full of their clamor ever since.

One can only hope, therefore, that these people do not get a look at Mr. Hicks' new book—"I Like America." If they do, their worst suspicions will be confirmed.

Not that Mr. Hicks brings any bombs or plots out into the open in this book. Far from it. He is mild, soft-spoken, reassuring. But that is just the trouble; in his quiet, unemotional way Mr. Hicks turns out to be devilishly persuasive.

He begins by voicing his deep, inbred affection for America. He comes by that affection honestly enough—his ancestors have lived here since colonial days—and he expresses it in a moving hymn to the towns, the countryside and the people of his native land.

But, he says, he loves America too much to want to see it remain a land wherein a third of the people are "ill-housed, ill-fed and ill-clad." They don't have to be; the productive capacity already available, he believes, would provide plenty for all if it were handled right.

So it is the handling of this productive capacity that he is concerned with. He argues that this capacity can be made to produce plenty for all only through socialism; and as you read his argument you may well feel that the Bostonian opposition to his appointment is quite right. He is so darned persuasive!

THAT NIGHTMARE IS HERE AGAIN

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

IN ANY DRUG STORE in the old rough-and-ready districts of New York, where the true folkways of old Manhattan haven't been disturbed, you will observe on the counter a glass globe filled with water. Inside are five or six sluggish, licorice-colored creatures about as big as your small finger, not exactly swimming but just oozing around. They are leeches.

"They're good sellers in the black-eye neighborhoods," the druggist at 410 Seventh avenue told me. So I made a round of old drug stores around what used to be known as Hell's Kitchen, spots well if not favorably known in the old days. Sure enough, there was the globe on each counter, stocked with blobby, greenish-black, thoroughly disagreeable looking little blood-suckers.

Back in the days of the old-time Tammany outings up the East river, leeches were a highly profitable line for the druggists. On Sunday and Monday, after the big Saturday celebration up the river, black eyes were thicker than stars in the waterfront firmament, and no one ever thought of using anything but a leech for treatment. The gang-fights of the Gas House Boys and the Dead Rabbits were great for the leechers.

THEY USED to get 50 cents for the loan of a leech in those days. Now, with a slackening demand, a run-of-the-bowl, catch-as-catch-can leech, guaranteed to work like a vacuum cleaner, costs you only 35 cents—in case you need one after a Saturday night party.

"Just a lot of sissies, these lads nowadays," said a sad little old druggist, in a dingy back-water drug store in the west fifties. "I don't know what they do to amuse themselves. Sand hogs and truck drivers kick up a shindy once in a while and bring in some good old-fashioned shiners for treatment. We sell quite a few leeches. And the 'iron birds,' as they call themselves, are good customers, too. They're the structural steel workers. But there isn't much building going on now, and we don't get as much of their trade as we used to. And, do you know, a lot of those big tough babies come in here and guzzle ice cream sodas! No wonder the leech business isn't what it used to be. I suppose they spend their spare time crocheting."

There are five leech-importing firms in New York. These are wholesalers, bringing leeches from France and selling them to the retail trade. The creatures come imbedded in boxes of powdered black earth from which they are scarcely distinguishable. Living in the glass globe, they require no food. None could explain this phenomenon, but all said they could live without nourishment for an indefinite period.

ONE DRUGGIST poked his finger in the polar cap of the globe and a leech socked it with his loose rubber schnozzle like a heavyweight wrestler getting a quick half-nelson. It clung to his finger, as he withdrew it, and hung suspended with an amazing suction force. They have teeth, but it takes them about 20 minutes to get going.

Treating black eyes is by no means the only use for leeches. Thousands of New York's foreign born peoples, particularly from the Balkans, use them for all sorts of ills. Among millions of people, there persists the 17th century faith in "bleeding," unshaken by all that Galen, Vesalius, Harvey and Pare have proven to the contrary, and no doubt quite unaware of the findings of modern medicine.

Up in Harlem and over in the Red Hook and Bath Beach sections and around the Brooklyn navy yard district, you still find the "obi" men and other practitioners of black magic doing a rushing business. Dark centuries are still unliquidated. Once in a while they creep up and grab the works—as in current totalitarian backsliding.

PAUL DE KRUIF, author of "Men Against Death," is an illustrious challenger of this dark hangover of ignorance and superstition which bedevils the world. His new book, "The Fight for Life," is a heartening tale of the unending rally and attack of science against dirt, disease, squalor and stupidity; against the unseen assassins which threaten our dominance, even our stay on the planet. This book makes one realize that this is a shirt-sleeve engagement, recruiting intelligence and valor—both of which Mr. de Kruif exemplifies.

THE FEDERAL government and the state of Georgia are in a wrangle over football. Georgia resists the payment of a 10 per cent federal admission tax to games. Is football "an essential function of the states, or merely a commercial activity?" The argument is as tricky as a patent cigarette lighter.

Read Paul de Kruif's story of the deadly encroachment of the submicroscopic underworld—or just read the papers about unemployment and current economic ills. And then consider whether the federal government and the states might not pick out something more important than football for their heavy-hitting legal lineup.

STAMP NEWS

By I. S. Klein

WHEN America was young the falconoid bald eagle reigned as a monarchial bird, ruling the feathered tribes from Canada to Mexico. Even centuries before the first white man came, the Indians held the eagle in reverence and credited it with divine powers.

So by the time that America had come of age in 1776 and cast about for a symbol of its new-found power, its soaring freedom, the founding fathers chose the American eagle. The first draft of a coat of arms was made just after the signing of the Declaratoin of Independence. Not until 1782, however, was a design finally chosen, one worked out jointly by William Barton of Philadelphia, and Charles Thompson, secretary of the Continental Congress. It bore the American bald eagle.

From the seal the eagle passed to American coins in 1795. It appeared on a prepaid stamp of the 1851 U. S. series and is shown here on the 10-cent value of the series of 1869, orange color. The eagle rests on a shield.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

(Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine)

Human beings are one-sided. All of us know that we are either left-handed or right-handed. Few realize however that we are also right-eyed or left-eyed.

One eye leads the other, and the leading eye is called the dominant eye. It has been believed that this is probably due to the fact that one portion of the brain has control beyond that of another portion.

We know that it is possible to train people who incline to left-handedness to be right-handed, and that this sometimes produces difficulties of coordination in other activities. The question has been raised as to whether or not eyes may be suitably trained in relationship to control. Recent studies of this question indicate that ocular dominance is more characteristic of the higher forms of animals than among the lower forms.

Human beings usually prefer one eye or the other in sighting a rifle. It seems likely that when weapons and tools were first created in the development of mankind, they soon found that holding with one hand and sighting with one eye helped to do away with double images and gave greater accuracy.

Apparently there is a definite relationship between the dominant side of the body and the dominent eye. Right-handedness and right-eyedness are found in about 85 per cent of people.

Pure left-handedness and left-eyedness occurs in from 5 to 10 per cent, and ability to work equally with either left or right sides in another 5 to 10 per cent. One investigator who examined a great number of people found that pure right-handedness and right-eyedness occurs in 76 per cent; sinistrality, or pure left-handedness and left-eyedness,in 9.3 per cent; and right-handedness with left-eyedness in about 13 per cent.

Apparently the ocular dominance is established very early in life. The wearing of glasses does not seem to affect this condition, nor is it a peculiarty of one sex or the other.

Obviously, these are facts which must be taken into account in the training of individuals for all sorts of work involving co-ordination of movements of the hands and of the eyes.

COLLEGE BUYS MANY VOLUMES

The Northeast Center library has passed the half way mark in spending $3,000 of its Carnegie appropriation. Up to the present time, general reference books have been chiefly obtained. Included in these books are the following:

The New Larned History, The Americana Encyclopedia, Dictionary of National Biography and many others.

The largest sum was expended for American histories. The sum of $156.61 expended included $60 for the Pageant of America series which will be useful to many other classes besides those of history. Louisiana history is a special division and the library was able to purchase the Fortier and the Gayarre histories of Louisiana.

Ninety-three dollars was expended for biographies to add to the library collection. Included in this list were many volumes of the American Statesman series as well as other outstanding biographies.

Other fields for which books were purchased are: speech, religion, commerce, guidance and personality development, vocations, including the monograph series; careers, economics, sociology, history other than American or the history of Louisiana, literature, drama, poetry, humor, oratory, essays, fiction, fine arts, music, French, government, sciences, physical education, travel, grammar and mathematics.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—

A remarkable state—Pennsylvania,
Where politicos all have a mania
To leap hither and thence
Over each party fence
Whenever it enters their crania.

That's only one curious phase of the Keystone state's epic political battle, which will be decided in the primary election of May 17.

Both candidates for the Democratic senatorial nomination are former Republicans. They are Governor George H. Earle, who became a Democrat in 1932, and Mayor S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia, who was elected to his present job as a Republican but subsequently has professed to be a non-partisan. They seek the seat of a consistent G. O. P. man, Senator James J. Davis.

The probable Republican nominee for the governorship—by far the most important prize in this race—is former Governor Gifford Pinchot, an old Bull Mooser. He is opposed by Judge Arthur James. The Democratic candidates are Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy, Charles A. Jones of Pittsburgh and former Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti, who ran as a Republican four years ago but switched his support to the Democrats and subsequently was rewarded with a job in Governor Earle's cabinet—and recently fired by Earle.

More Fence Jumpers

C. I. O. Leader John L. Lewis, who insisted that the Democratic state machine endorse Kennedy—a vice-president of the United Mine Workers—for governor and thereby precipitated the great Pennsylvania Democratic split, used to be rated a Republican and backed Hoover against Al Smith in 1928. And Lewis' right-hand man, Philip Murray, head of the steel workers' organizing committee and active in the Kennedy campaign, was at least until recently a registered Republican in Pittsburgh.

Boss Matt McCloskey of Philadelphia, chief power behind the Jones-Earle ticket, recently was quoted by Senator Joe Guffey as saying, "I used to be a Republican and I can be a Republican again."

Guffey himself is a Democrat from away back, although Andrew Mellon, one of the state G. O. P. bosses, once underwrote a guarantee of $75,000 for him when the government demanded the interest on some alien property funds Joe had been holding.

Many other Pennsylvania politicians, including negro leaders, have found it advantageous to leap the party fence since the Democrats began to emerge from the wilderness.

Labor Big Factor

But all this is insignificant beside the importance of the Lewis bid for political power in the nation's greatest industrial state. Lewis wants not only a labor governor for Pennsylvania, where until a few years ago industrialists and their Republican political allies held undisputed sway; he wants a voice in the next Democratic national convention. Pennsylvania will have a bloc of 72 votes there.

With his own governor in command of the state machine and with his ally, Guffey, operating federal patronage and politics, there's no question that Lewis would have such a voice. The test in Pennsylvania will indicate the extent to which the C. I. O. and its political friends can make headway elsewhere.

The political split in labor ranks is as definite and bitter as that in the Democratic party. A. F. of L. leaders have declared war on the Lewis-Guffey candidates.

Earle Star Dims

Charges of corruption in the primary battle have become page one headlines over the nation. A result of one exposure has been to remove Earle from serious consideration as a presidential possibility, even assuming his nomination and election this year.

Rumors say that if the Kennedy-Wilson ticket is licked, Republicans Lewis and Murray are likely to switch back to the G. O. P. and support Pinchot, an old favorite of the coal miners. If Kennedy wins, other former Republican leaders now in Democratic ranks are likely to be back-flipflopping.

PASSION PLAY WILL BE PRESENTED HERE

"The Passion Play" in pictures will be presented at the Calvary Baptist church, 812 Mississippi street, Tuesday night under the auspices of the Ladies' Missionary society.

The pictures will be shown by Rev. Fred Hitchcock, ordained Baptist minister, who was privileged to see the original "Passion Play" in Oberammergau in 1930.

The "Passion Play" was first presented in 1633 and is considered the greatest play of all ages.

No admission will be charged but a free-will offering will be received. The public is invited to attend.

IL DUCE WARNS UNITED STATES

going on between Italy and France—if he did not completely drown them.

"You will permit me to be circumspect regarding conversations with France," he said, "because, even though they are in progress, it is not known whether they will reach a conclusion."

His references to Italy and France being "on opposite sides of the barricade" in the Spanish war brought hisses and insugent cries of "arriba Espana!" ("up Spain!") from the crowds in Victory square.

American antipathy toward fascism, unmistakably hinted at by Mussolini, was seen in a congressional move to have Italy named among violators of the Kellogg-Briand pact and in statements by Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior.

The United States department, fascists noted also, has not recognized Italy's conquest of Ethiopia and that issue has delayed for several months the conclusion of a new commercial agreement between the United States and Italy.

"We want peace," the premier declared, "and I can say to you that Nazi Germany wants peace in Europe no less than we.

"We want peace, but we must be ready to defend it, especially when we hear speeches even from across the ocean on which we must reflect."

While Mussolini was asserting that the toasts he exchanged with Hitler in the Palazzo Venezia last week were "solemn and definitive in history," the results of the dictators' private conversations were becoming known.

A high Italian source summed these up as follows:

1. No new commitments were made.

2. It was agreed Czechoslovakia—to whose 3,500,000 German minority Hitler has declared he will give "protection"—is Germany's affair and Italy neither will assist nor prevent any Nazi action there.

3. Hitler was told, however, not to precipitate a European war because Italy could not now say what her interests would be in such an eventuality.

4. Mutual regard was given for each other's political and economic interests in the Danubian and Balkan countries.

5. The Italian government's extreme satisfaction was expressed over the Fuehrer's exclusion of Italy's German-inhabited South Tyrol from his plans for a "greater Germany."

6. Means for relief of Trieste, South Tyrolean port on the Adriatic which suffered a loss of traffic by Germany's annexation of Austria, March 13, now are being studied by Italian and German negotiators in Berlin.

7. In general the Rome-Berlin axis was strengthened after the absorption of Austria and the establishment of closer relations between London and Paris.

JAPANESE BLOCK TWO RAILROADS

serious damages to Chinese defenses and war stores in the junction city.

Japanese planes also sprinkled bombs over several points on the Canton-Hankow railroad, in south China, the last major route left to China for munitions imports.

Japanese naval operations on the south China coast were believed to be in preparation for land operations in Fukien province, possibly toward the Canton-Hankow railroad. Within a week, Japanese forces have landed at the mouth of the Min river, 10 miles below Foochow, and have occupied Amoy, island seaport further south.

Chinese press reports said General Iwane Matsui, who was replaced as commander-in-chief of Japenese forces in the Shanghai area, had landed on Quemoy island, off Amoy, and was directing the Fukien operations. Dispatches from Hankow, temporary seat of the Chinese government, said transports from Formosa, a Japanese colony island, were landing troops at Amoy.

Despite the critical war situation, however, the Chinese high command was said still to be optimistic. It was reported confident that the Japanese forces both at Tangshan and in the south merely were flying columns that could be driven back by counter-attacks.

A new incident provoked a British protest to Japan against mistreatment of a British subject in Shanghai.

British officials declared E. S. Wilkinson, a naturalist living here, was struck, kicked in the shins and stabbed even though his attackers knew he was British. Wilkinson was detained 12 hours by Japanese authorities.

According to the Japanese version, Wilkinson attempted to hurdle a barbed-wire barricade in the Japanese occupied Hongkong district while "chasing birds."

NATION'S BREAK HELPS CARDENAS

the different positions of London and Washington in the oil controversy, in which they at first appeared to have been in the same boat.

Each nation took a strong attitude toward Mexico after seizure of the oil properties, until March 30, when United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull in Washington formally acknowledged Mexico's right to take the expropriation step.

Britain, meanwhile, on April 8 delivered a firm note to Mexico terming the expropriation a "denial of justice," and demanding prompt return of the properties.

On April 12 Mexico rejected the British contentions, and on April 21 Britain sent a second note substantially a reiteration of her first.

In contrast, on April 23, President Roosevelt and Mexican officials exchanged felicitations, and diplomatic tension over the oil incident was termed buried.

Next, on May 12, Britain, on another tack, demanded Mexico make immediate payment of an installment of 370,962 pesos (about $88,103 at current rates) due London for British losses in Mexican civil wars between 1910 and 1920.

Britain here charged specifically that Mexico was following a policy of "apparently discriminatory" treatment in favor of the United States.

This American angle was continued beneath the surface right up to the final break. Minister O'Malley was given a check for the reparations payment just before he was advised the Mexican minister was being recalled from London, and Mexico issued a note announcing the break with Britain in which she replied to Britain's stand in this manner:

"I (Foreign Minister Eduardo Hay) allow myself to call to the attention of your excellency (O'Malley), inasmuch as I deem it to be pertinent, the fact that even powerful states having at their command abundant resources can not pride themselves on being up to date in the payment of all their monetary obligations."

This was interpreted as a slap at European nations owing war debts to the United States. Britain has defaulted on these debts for five years, the last passed installment being one of $122,670,765.05 due last December 15, when Britain owed a total of $994,486,367.03 in war debts to Washington.

Hay today handed the French and Italian ministers checks for 127,184.21 pesos and 29,414.92 pesos respectively to cover unpaid installments due January 1 to their Nationals for revolutionary war claims.

Neither Italy nor France had protested non-payment, as Britain did.

BRITAIN FURIOUS AT MEXICO'S MOVE

LONDON, May 14.—(AP)—A coldly furious Britain today heard Mexico slam the door of diplomatic friendship in her face.

Imperialists called Mexico's move an "exhibition of petulance." One evening newspaper—The Evening News—attributed it to "an era of international rudeness."

Nevertheless President Lazaro Cardenas' action in breaking off diplomatic relations with Britain was a painful twist of the lion's tail—one so unheard of that research experts found no exact precedent in a century of war and peace.

Some thought there was nothing like it since the United States declared war against Britain in 1812.

Privately, persons in a position to reflect the British government's point of view minimized the economic consequences because, they said, President Cardenas' oil and cotton expropriations and other measures already had doomed once-flourishing British enterprise in Mexico.

Approximately 25,000,000 automobiles travel 500,000,000 miles yearly over 3,000,000 miles of highways in the United States.

mander of the Guanabara presidential palace guard who confessed implication in the plot, named two marine sergeants, two sailors and an army captain who he said commanded the rebels in an unsuccessful attack on the palace.

A number of Sao Paulo politicians were placed under nominal arrest and confined to their homes. The newspaper A Noite said those arrested included Vincente Rao, former federal minister of the interior; Waldemar Ferreira, former minority leader of the extinct federal chamber; Leite De Barros, former state secretary for security; and Egas Botelho, former superintendent of the political and social section of the Sao Paulo police.

More than 150 sailors were reported by the newspaper O Globo to be under arrest.

Those against whom evidence is found will be given summary trials before the national security tribunal at a date as yet to be fixed.

BRAZIL ACCUSED OF MISTREATING GERMANS

BERLIN, May 14.—(AP)—The newspaper Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung declared today that "there is no doubt that Brazil, with the support of the United States, has embarked on an anti-German course."

The newspaper listed instances in which it said German newspapers in Brazil were seized, Germans arrested, and German meetings closed down.

"Brazil's action against German citizens compels us to protest, for it is our right and our duty to protect them," it added.

the Monroe council, will preside as toastmaster at the function.

The entertainment program will include a vocal solo by Charles Biggar; violin solo, Miss Eileen MacKinnon, marimba solo, Miss Jeanette Mae Smith.

Today will be filled with activity for the visiting Knights of Columbus, who are here from all sections of the state to participate in the convention, which opened last night with a session of state officers and district deputies in Hotel Frances. A reception and dance for delegates, members and ladies was held at Cherokee terrace last night.

This morning at 8:45 the knights will form for parade to St. Matthew's church, where Rev. N. F. Vandegaer will celebrate mass at 9 o'clock. Rev. Maurice Schexnayder will preach the sermon.

At 11 o'clock opening ceremonies will be held at Bernstein place on Bayou DeSiard. District Deputy T. H. McMillan will formally open the proceedings. Mayor H. H. Benoit will deliver the address of welcome for the city of Monroe, and Grand Knight Riley will welcome the delegates on behalf of the Monroe council of the Knights of Columbus. Response will be made by State Deputy F. X. Mouton.

Following the opening ceremonies the delegates will be served a barbecue dinner, the arrangements for which are being made by C. P. Hartley.

At 2 o'clock the first business session of the convention will open in Hotel Frances on Cherokee terrace. At the same time the financial secretaries' conference will begin in the same hotel. During the afternoon the ladies attending the gathering will be entertained by a boat ride on the Ouachita river. At 4 o'clock the fourth degree district assembly will convene. The annual banquet will be held at 8 o'clock on the Virginia hotel roof.

The sessions Monday will open with attendance at St. Matthew's church, when memorial mass and communion will be celebrated at 7:30 o'clock. The business session will begin at Hotel Frances at 9:30. The final business session will begin at 1:30 in the afternoon.

At noon Monday a luncheon for the ladies will be given in the Virginia hotel, followed by a sightseeing tour of the city.

Mrs. W. J. Riley, wife of the grand knight, will serve as toastmaster at the luncheon held at Hotel Virginia for visiting ladies, and Mrs. T. L. Morris will pronounce the invocation.

bill and would not want to see the former brought up again under any circumstances.

In the house, indications were that advocates of differentials would stress President Roosevelt's recognition, in his message to the special session of congress, of "geographic and industrial diversities which practical statesmanship cannot well ignore."

Prospects of house approval of any form of differentials appeared slim for two reasons.

Organized labor's leaders are opposed to them and northern congressmen, Republicans and Democrats alike, regard lower wages in the south as one of the principal causes of the southward migration of many northern industries.

Almost A 'Wreck' Before The Gly-Cas

Had Lost Her Appetite, Kidneys Weak, Head Ached Continually, Gly-Cas Only Medicine To Help Her.

"I was almost a nervous wreck when I began using this new Gly-Cas," said Mrs. Lawrence Guerrero, 1023 Market street, Shreveport, La. "I had no appetite, my kidneys were acting too freely, my rest was disturbed at night and it was impossible for me to get any sleep. I was very badly constipated, suffered pains continually in my back and sides and was also bothered with intense headaches. I became so discouraged as everything I tried was worthless as far as getting any benefit from it and it was not until I began Gly-Cas that I was helped in any way."

"Gly-Cas wasted no time in restoring my health," she continued. "My headaches and backaches left me at once, kidneys seldom bother me at all any more, nerves quieted and bowels are regulated. I consider Gly-Cas the one real medicine of them all and it should not be confused with the ordinary medicines of today. Never before have I seen a medicine with such quick effective action."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug company, 348 DeSiard street, this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns. —Adv.

OIL WELL BREAKS LOOSE

LAKE CHARLES, La., May 14.—(AP)—The Zwolle Oil company's Sabine Lumber company No. 1 well in the Blue lake area of Sabine parish broke loose this afternoon and spouted oil above the derrick at an estimated rate of 20,000 barrels daily. Robert J. Boudreau, vice-president of the concern, said there was some fear the oil would catch fire.

The greatest length of Brazil from north to South is 2,660 miles, and from east to west 2,700 miles.

Knowledge

A little knowledge is a dangerous thing. A complete knowledge of any one thing is valuable. And rare. Men and businesses today who have gained as complete a knowledge as possible about those things which affect their businesses and their cultural lives are the happiest—and the most successful.

Particularly is that true in business. That business which has a complete knowledge about its product, but which is always searching for improvements, will be the most valuable to the world. That knowledge, imparted to many potential buyers, will make that business the most successful.

Mistakes in business are costly. The firm or man who knows the most about anything makes the fewest mistakes.

Be sure you are right, then go ahead.

Come, Let Us Reason Together

To the Qualified Voters of West Monroe:

Of course you are all aware of the fact that we are to have another primary election to be held on Tuesday, May 17th, for the purpose of determining who shall be our mayor for the next four years. Now, read the announcements of these men and see if each of them didn't say "subject to the action of the Democratic party." Then get out your Gentry and Company's mud slinging literature and read where they say "Harry Williams just shan't handle the affairs of West Monroe, due to the fact that he is Lloyd Warren's tool."

Isn't it a pity Harry had to disgrace himself by co-operating with Lloyd Warren in the disposition of a bunch of mules, harness, wagons, and tools and cut what overhead expenses they didn't need and by so doing put Ouachita parish out of the red and on a cash basis. And by way of parenthesis I want to say that our deceased friend, Pat Hamilton, put the clerk's office out of the red on his first report and handed over to the police jury hundreds of dollars to aid in other causes, and more, any time a good man is needed for service, call on West Monroe—we have them. We don't have to import them and when outsiders undertake to direct our affairs we resent it as an insult to the intelligence of our people.

Jimmie, What is it to you as to who shall be West Monroe's mayor? What do you get out of it? Is it possible you have an understanding that in case other men want to come here to discuss public issues that you will have a permit to put on a heathenish demonstration? Do you suppose as long as our people will stand for such outrages we will ever be considered worthy of having a high school in West Monroe?

Mr. Gentry, I really think you have made a fatal mistake in allowing Jimmie to have any part in your campaign, since his weapons of warfare consist of mud-slinging and he doesn't know the first principles of statesmanship. I can't see for my life why good people will allow themselves to be duped by any such influences.

Now, in behalf of Governor Leche I want to say he's a real man, a friend to mankind, a peace-maker and a statesman. That old slush that he sent $10,000 to be used in this campaign is just another big old lie, born of seething corruption. Young men, I appeal to you as the fathers of the rising generation, should anyone offer to buy your vote, take it as an insult and tell him where to head in. Read the story of Esau and see what an awful mess he made by selling his birthright. Now, in conclusion, I refer you to the 17th chapter of First Samuel for your final conclusions.

Here's for a bigger and better West Monroe.

Signed:

W. A. BURT

'The Adventures Of Tom Sawyer' At Paramount Today

Mark Twain's Classic Ends Monroe Run

Tommy Kelly And Stellar Cast Featured In Entertaining Picture

VIA the genius of David O. Selznick and the magic of technicolor, Mark Twain's famous characters step from the pages of his imorrtal story and on the screen of the Paramount theater today, where Mr. Selznick's inspired technicolor production, "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," has its final showing.

Tom Sawyer, Huckleberry Finn, Joe Harper, Becky Thatcher, Aunt Polly, Injun Joe, Muff Potter and all the rest came to vivid life again in the little Missouri town along the Mississippi, which is where Tom and his friends achieved immortality.

David O. Selznick, who has scored outstanding successes with the filming of such classics as "David Copperfield," in which he brought Freddie Bartholomew to fame; "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and the later smash hits, "A Star Is Born" and "The Prisoner of Zenda," has surpassed even his own great record with "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer." It is a triumph of marvelous entertainment and one of the finest things that has ever been done. In black and white it would be a great picture. In technicolor it is superb. The subject is one that lends itself to color and some of the shots are breathtakingly magnificent, especially those where Tom and Becky are lost in the cave. It is said to be the first time a cavern with its stalacties and stalagmites has been shown in natural color. Moreover, the pictorial effects of the quaint settings of the small town and the background of the Mississippi against which the colorful and interesting characters play out their drama, are all heightened by the use of color.

It is apparent that no effort was spared by Mr. Selznick in transferring this classic to celluloid. Meticulous care has been exercised in capturing the spirit of Mark Twain's story. As this heart-warming drama unfolded on the screen, the audience alternately chuckled at the adventures and escapades of the irrepressible Tom and his cronies, laughed at the pranks that plagued Aunt Polly and the neighbors, thrilled to the drama of Injun Joe and Muff Potter, glowed with the young romance of Tom and Becky Thatcher, gasped at their flight for life in the bat-infested cave and grew misty-eyed as the picture awakened poignant memories of the past and made them relive again similar scenes in their own lives.

Tom Sawyer, who has come to be the embodiment of all American boyhood and a beloved hero to millions the world over, was recreated by Tommy Kelly, who was chosen by David O. Selznick out of 25,000 aspirants for the role.

Those who recall the Selznick nation-wide talent hunt will realize when they see the picture, why Tommy Kelly was picked. He is a natural, typical American boy who possesses to a marked degree that elusive quality known as screen personality, and his portrayal of the famous "Tom Sawyer" would thrill even his creator could he witness it.

The cast is an impressive one and includes May Robson, who gives one of her finest performances as Aunt Polly; Jackie Moran is the ragged Huckleberry Finn; Becky Thatcher, red hair, blue eyes, freckles and all, is played by Ann Gillis; Walter Brennan is the town derelict, Muff Potter; Victor Jory makes a sinister and menacing Injun Joe; Cora Sue Collins is convincing as Amy Lawrence and David Holt is excellent as Tom's brother, Sid Sawyer. In the school scene presided over by Donald Meek as the severe schoolmaster, a host of 50 or more juvenile extras are seen.

Norman Taurog, who is considered Hollywood's outstanding genius in the handling of juvenile talent, directed, and he has done a perfect job.

Death again calls a halt to the wedding of "Captain Drummond" and his fiancee, played by John Howard and Louis Campbell in "Bulldog Drummond's Peril," which plays Tuesday at the Capitol theater.

Jack Crosby directed the dance sequences of the new Bing Crosby-Beatrice Lillie-Mary Carlisle musical comedy, "Doctor Rhythm," which plays a four-day engagement starting Monday at the Paramount theater.

Myrna Loy does her darnedest to pretend that she's "Man-Proof" in the picture of that name showing at the Capitol theater next Wednesday, but Franchot Tone and Walter Pidgeon soon disillusion the star of any such idea. Rosalind Russell also plays an important part in the proceedings of the new romantic comedy.

Ann Sothern and Brugess Meredith take the leading roles in the Capitol's Tuesday attraction, "There Goes the Groom."

Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy are co-starred for the fourth time in "The Girl of the Golden West," which plays next Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Paramount theater. Their earlier co-starring musicals were "Naughty Marietta," "Rose Marie" and "Maytime."

TWO MUSIC COURSES OFFERED AT NORMAL

NATCHITOCHES, La., May 14.—(Special)—Two special five weeks' schools of music will be offered by the Louisiana State Normal college here during the summer session which opens on May 30, Professor Paul Thornton, head of the department of music at the state teachers' college, announced today.

The second annual band school and clinic will be offered from June 1 to July 2, under the direction of Dr. Paul Yoder of Chicago, and L. Bruce Jones of Little Rock, Ark.; while Dr. George Howerton of Hiram, O., will conduct the vocal school and clinic during the same period.

Other special teachers in the band school and clinic will be Dwight Davis, bandmaster at the C. E. Byrd High school in Shreveport, and Howard Voorhies, director of the Lafayette High school band.

Courses in band conducting, class-instrument teaching and band and orchestra arranging will be offered in the band school and clinic, with work in school choir's problems, choral conducting and class voice presented in the vocal school and clinic. Each course will carry a three-hour credit, officials stated.

The special courses will be open to music teachers and supervisors as well as high school music students. Weekly concerts will be staged in the open air theater of the college, the vocal school students scheduled to appear each Friday evening and the band school students each Saturday night during the short course.

Other courses in the music department of the State Normal college will be taught by the regular members of the music faculty.

CLUB ENTERTAINS

JENA, La., May 14.—(Special)—The Jena Home Economics club entertained with a "slumber party" at the high school building. Chaperons for the club were Mrs. Sam McCarroll, Misses Mildred Proctor and Vivian Proctor.

The earliest known system of written laws was the code of Hammurabi, king of Babylonia, promulgated about 2,350 B. C.

SOX BEAT HELENA 4-1 FOR 5TH STRAIGHT WIN

Sports Chatter

By GEORGE V. LOFTON

NUGENT OKAY

Those who were fortunate enough to see Tex Nugent on the mound last night were asking why Marshall sold him to the White Sox.

There is a little secret behind the transaction that the general public does not know. The East Texas league adopted the Worth ball for the 1938 season and the Worth ball is a smooth seam ball and Tex had trouble working his curve with it.

When the Marshall club learned that the Sox needed pitching they felt out the local club officials on the possibility of selling them Nugent. Naturally the local club wondered why they wanted to sell him. Hence the 15 day look angle. After last night's game the Monroe officials were just about satisfied that maybe it was the ball he was trying to pitch with and not the league he was in.

Nugent's work last night was superb. He didn't walk a single batter and allowed only eight hits. Given a lead, he was master of the situation. Incidentally, behind Nugent's fine performance, the Sox looked like a championship team.

The Monroe club as a whole made a most impressive record during the past week. Last night's 4-1 victory over the league-leading Helena club was the fifth straight for the Sox. Last week, the club started off by dropping a double header to the Seaporters. Then they chalked up five straight to give them a mark of five won and two lost for the week. One game was rained out.

From all indications, the local club is ready to make a drive for a first division berth. The addition of Curt Fullerton and Tex Nugent, two seasoned campaigners, apparently was just what was needed to spark the drive that seemingly is well under way. It looks like full steam ahead.

LITTLE NEMO IS HERE

Harry (Nemo) Liebold, who leads his Clarksdale Red Sox in their first invasion of Casino park today, has had a colorful baseball career.

Liebold, who has never played the game as a regular except in the majors or the AA leagues, broke in with Milwaukee in 1911, went up to the big show in 1913 and subsequently participated in three world series. And one of those world series provided baseball's greatest scandal, and Nemo undoubtedly could tell some interesting tales if you could get him to talk.

Liebold was in the 1919 series as a member of the "Black Sox," but, of course, had nothing to do with the shenanigans that rocked the baseball world. Nemo's record was as clean as a hound's tooth. But several of his mates, who were charged with throwing the series to the Cincinnati Reds, were outlawed from baseball for life.

Nemo was a member of the team that several experts have called the greatest aggregation in baseball history. He alternated with Shano Collins as right fielder for the Chicago Sox, and was leadoff man. No less an authority than Eddie Collins, himself a member of the Sox, termed the team the best he ever saw.

"They were the best," said Collins, their captain and second baseman. "There never was a ball club like that one, in more ways than one. I hate to say it but they were better than the Athletics I played with from 1910 through 1914. Offensively, from top to bottom, there wasn't a breather

RED SOX RALLY TO BEAT NATS IN 11TH INNING, 10-9

Foxx Hits Homer In Second Extra Inning To Win Free-Hitting Game

BOSTON, May 14.—(AP)—Jimmy Foxx topped off a wild-hitting ball game today with a long-range homer into the center field bleachers in the 11th inning that gave the Red Sox a 10 to 9 win over the Washington Senators and boosted the Sox into first place in the American league.

Overcoming the Nats' early lead, which had been compiled by old man Al Simmons, who clouted two homers, a triple and a single and drove in six runs, the Sox tied the ball-game with a three-run outburst in the ninth and won out in the second extra frame on Jimmy's jolt.

The victory climaxed a triumphant week-long drive by Tom Yawkey's gold-plated hose, stretched their winning streak to seven straight, and bounced the Senators out of the league lead by half a game.

Six homers were hit altogether. In addition to Foxx and Simmons, Gene Desautels, the Sox catcher; Joe Vosmick, their outfielder, and Joe Cronin, their shortstop-manager eached parked one out of the lot.

FOXCATCHER ACE WINS EASILY BY SEVEN LENGTHS

Cravat, Rank Outsider, Second And Menow Finishes Third By Nose

By Orlo Robertson

BALTIMORE, May 14.—(AP)—Dauber, the horse that didn't start running in the Kentucky Derby until it was too late, found the shorter distance of the 48th Preakness at Pimlico's rain-soaked course made to his order today and romped to an impressive victory.

Flying the silks of William du Pont, Jr.'s, Foxcatcher farm, the chestnut son of Pennant-Ship O'War, second in the Derby, lived up to his reputation as a great mudder. He went to the post the 3 to 2 choice of the rain-soaked and chilled crowd of 25,000 and he didn't disappoint.

Under the guidance of Maurice (Moose) Peters, the Foxcatcher ace tossed slop and mud in the faces of eight worthy rivals, finishing the mile and three sixteenths of America's richest race for three-year-olds with seven lengths to spare over Townsend B. Martin's Cravat, a rank outsider. Hal Price Headley's Menow ,the early pace setter as he was in the Derby, was third, losing runner-up honors by a nose as Jack Westrope brought Cravat from far back in the final drive.

Backers of Dauber received $5.00 for each $2.00 invested in a win mutual ticket and du Pont, of the Wilmington, Del., du Ponts, pocketed $51,875 of the gross purse of $69,500. The victory, Dauber's second in six starts since being purchased out of the C. V. Whitney dispersal sale for $29,000 last fall, ran the colt's earnings for the year to $69,175. He finished in the money in each of his four other races, losing the $50,000 Santa Anita Derby by a half-length to Stagehand and the Kentucky Derby a length to Lawrin.

Despite the sloppy track, Dauber stepped the distance in 1:59 4-5, only three seconds slower than the track record hung up by Pompoon in winning the Dixie handicap on Wednesday. He stamped himself as the horse to beat in the mile and a half of the Belmont Stakes on June 4 and worthy of matching strides again later in the season with his Derby conqueror.

Once again Fighting Fox and Bull Lea disappointed. They were not as heavily-backed as in the Derby but the Fox was the luke-warm second choice. But again the Fox quit after laying close to the pace for six furlongs and finished seventh, a notch back of Bull Lea, which never seriously threatened.

Myron Selznick's Little Can't Wait, third in the Derby, again closed fast but had to be content with fourth money, five lengths back of Menow. Sun Egret, A. C. Compton's mud-running colt, was fifth. Hypocrite and Bull Whip brought up the rear back of the Fox and Bull Lea.

The payoff on the first three horses was as follows:

Dauber $5.00, $3.70 and $2.70; Cravat $35.20 and $13, and Menow $4.50.

CROWD WAGERS $734,691

BALTIMORE, May 14.—(AP)—The crowd that saw Dauber splash to victory in the Preakness wagered a total of $734,691 on the seven races and daily double at Pimlico today. Wagering on the Preakness alone totaled $172,405.

On Preakness day last year, when War Admiral won the event before 45,000 fans, wagering totaled $1,059,677 for the day, with $236,635 placed on the big race.

WINS RICH PREAKNESS

Dauber, above, who finished second to Lawrin in the Kentucky Derby last Saturday, won the Pimlico Preakness yesterday on a muddy track. Dauber beat out Cravat, a rank outsider, with Menow third. Dauber paid $5.00, $3.70 and $2.70.

Neville Announces 10-Game Football Schedule For 1938

Lake Providence And Rayville Left Off And Bolton, Vicksburg Added

The Neville High school Tigers, with the promise of having their best football team in years, will play a ten-game schedule next fall, it was announced yesterday by Coach Percy Brown. Only four of those ten games will be played on the local gridiron.

The new Bengal schedule is minus two old standbys, the Lake Providence Panthers and the Rayville Hornets, and in their places appear Bolton of Alexandria, Carr Central of Vicksburg, and Winnfield.

The Bolton Bears appear on the Neville High school schedule in their first regularly scheduled game since the city school system ceased to put out a joint eleven with the parish system in 1928, although the Bengals met the Bears in 1936 in a play-off game for the northeast district class A crown. The Bruins nosed out the locals, 6 to 0, in that battle and then joined the double A division last year.

The Vicksburg aggregation has been signed again for the first time since 1935 when the Greenies walloped the locals, 20 to 0. The Winnfield Tigers are old rivals but were left off the schedule last year. In 1936 they held Neville to a 19 to 0 victory.

The schedule also includes the defending class A champions of Homer, the Istrouma Indians, runner-up for the class A title. The Bolton aggregation was among last season's top-notch class AA aggregations.

The Neville season opens on September 16 in the Louisiana State university stadium against the Istrouma High school team.

The schedule is a follows:

September 16: Istrouma, at Baton Rouge.
September 23: Bolton, at Alexandria.
October 1: Greenville, Miss., here.
October 7: Lake Charles, at Lake Charles.
October 14: Bastrop, here.
October: 21 Haynesville, at Haynesville.
October 28: Ruston, at Ruston.
November 4: Winnfield, here.
November 11: Homer, here.
November 18: Carr Central, at Vicksburg.

According to the present outlook, Coach Brown will lose only three regulars from his 1937 team. But three number one reserves will also be graduating, and from all indications the matter of reserves will be Neville's big trouble next fall, Coach Brown said.

John Ernest Cole, tackle; Ed Stroud, center; and Robert St. John, end, are the regulars stepping out. "Cotton" Ruple, guard; Louis Masur, tackle, and Ernest Pierce, back, are the graduating reserves.

The Bengals should have their best backfield in years and with room to spare with six veterans to lead the pack. Ray Spicer, veteran fullback; Vaughan Payne, quarterback; Jack Lanham and Don Stewart, halfbacks, will all be back.

In addition to their holdovers from last season, the Bengals have acquired a new addition who was an Arkansas sensation last year. He is Bilbo Duke, highly touted as a back for Eudora last year. Duke entered Neville last winter when his family moved to Monroe. R. C. Rivers was a dependable back last year, and John Luffey and George Fulton will be among the favored substitutes next season.

The line will see some changes to make up for the three losses, but Coach Brown believes he will be able to fill those gaps with good material. Billy Jones will replace Ed Stroud at center. "Scotty" Scott, guard, will be moved to St. John's end, and Perry Snyder, Downing, Jr., who lettered as an end and tackle last year, will get Cole's tackle job. Ed Endom, tackle, Hurlan Beaumann, guard, and Doug Haynes, end, will be at their usual places. John Wood, Carlton McKeithen, Julius McKnight and Earl Vigg are reserves that show promise of bolstering Neville's strength.

The Tigers recently completed eight weeks of spring training.

AND NOW THE COURT TURNS AGAINST UMPS

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., May 14.—(AP)—Police Judge J. J. Quinlan ruled here that it is the "inalienable right" of a baseball player to "get mad and have a fight with the umpire."

Roe Johnson, 24, husky pitcher in a twilight league, was arrested when he took a punch at an umpire following an argument.

"Tell me about it, son," Judge Quinlan said in court yesterday.

"I was at bat, your honor. The pitch was wide. A strike was called. The argument followed," Johnson replied.

"Case dismissed," said the judge. "It is the inalienable right of a baseball player to get mad and have a fight with the umpire."

PAM BARTON TO START COMEBACK

Holder Of British And U. S. Titles Opens Bid To Regain Both Crowns

BURNHAM-ON-SEA, Eng., May 14.—(AP)—She has a magazine-cover smile, red hair and freckles. She is at the end of a year's illness and ready for a come-back.

She is 21-year-old Pamela Barton, 1936 British and United States women's golf champion, who starts next week her bid to regain both titles. Play in the British championship starts Monday but Pamela already is in the third round, without hitting a shot. She drew a first round bye and her second round opponent, Nan Duncan, withdrew.

Five years ago, before she had been to her first dance, Pam Barton won the French women's championship. A year later, she went to the finals of the British title tournament. At 18 she lost again in the finals but the next year, 1936, she became the queen of the links.

Last year was disastrous. Her family gave a three-months' trip to India as a reward for winning the "double." She came home nervous and ill.

Mrs. Andrew Holm, Scottish star, beat Miss Barton in an early round of the 1937 British tourney. Pam lost in the first round of the French championship. Then followed a complete nervous collapse, which kept her from defending the American crown.

A six-months' layoff and thorough rest put Miss Barton back in good health.

Her diversions are hockey and tennis. She plays golf weekly in the family foursome, made up of her father (handicap 8), her mother (18) and sister Mervyn (3). They'll all be here to watch Pam's progress.

MRS. MOODY'S ESCORT TO SAIL FOR ENGLAND

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—(AP)—Tallant Tubbs, former state senator who has been a frequent escort recently of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, left last night for England, where the tennis star is competing.

Both have declined to discuss reports linking their names in a romance.

Mrs. Moody, who obtained a Reno divorce last year from Frederick S. Moody of San Francisco, recently gave up the apartment where she had lived for many years. Tubbs, who also is divorced, recently moved from an exclusive hotel to larger quarters in a fashionable apartment building.

3 RECORDS FALL IN A. A. U. MEET

Louisiana State Wins Southern Team Championship With 83 Points

BATON ROUGE, La., May 14.—(AP)—Three records fell and one was equalled in the annual southern amateur athletic union's senior track and field championships here today.

Two of the records broken—those for the quarter mile and the two-mile run—had been in the record books for two decades.

Frank Church, Louisiana State sophomore, set up the new quarter mile record at 48.3 seconds, breaking the old mark set in 1916 at New Orleans by Dana Jenkins of the Young Men's Gymnastic club.

Randall Stelly, Southwestern Louisiana institute, ran the two-mile distance in 9:43.8 to shave almost a minute from the 10:38.4 mark set in 1917 by Henry Weiss of the East End athletic club at New Orleans.

A third record set up today was made in the high jump by Joseph Devall, Istrouma High school senior. A sensational leap over the bar was measured at six feet, five and one-quarter inches. It bettered the old mark of six feet, four and one-half inches held by Jim Vickery of the University of Texas.

Jake Waterer of Louisiana State skimmed over the 120-yard low hurdles in 15 seconds flat to equal the meet record for the event. John Case of Texas Tech, who ran in the mile, two-mile and half-mile races in the space of an hour, won the mile in 4:24.7, just a tenth of a second under the meet record.

Jesse Hardin, Louisiana State sophomore, won the 440-yard low hurdles in 56.5 seconds, three-tenths of a second under the record time. Jesse's brother, the famous Glen (Slats) Hardin, holds the world record for the event.

Louisiana State won the meet with a total 83 points. Southwestern Louisiana institute finished second with 17 points, Loyola of New Orleans third with 13 and Central High school of Oklahoma City and Texas Tech tied for fourth place with six points each.

NUGENT PITCHES EFFECTIVELY TO TRIM ARKANSANS

Veteran Scatters Eight Hits As Mates Make 11; Double Header Today

By George V. Lofton

Tex Nugent, making his debut as a Monroe hurler, scattered eight Helena hits last night to beat the Seaporters, 4 to 1, and enable the White Sox to chalk up their fifth consecutive victory. The game was the only one played between the two clubs, Friday night's tilt having been rained out.

Nugent, recently purchased from the Marshall club of the East Texas league, was master of the situation throughout. The only Helena run came in the ninth inning. He fanned two and didn't walk a Seaporter. His control was perfect and when it was necessary to use the cunning that he has learned throughout his long career as a professional baseball hurler, the veteran righthander was "there" with the goods.

Nugent was in trouble in only three innings during the game. In the second frame Helena, the league-leaders, got two singles in succession after two were out but Tex forced the next batsman to roll out. Again after two were out in the sixth, the Seaporters got to him for a pair of singles but to no avail. Then in the ninth the Arkansans scored their only tally, but left two stranded on the bases.

Monroe took the lead in the second inning. With one out, Fred Bennett lashed a double to left field. Hackney skied to first but "Pudge" Webb slapped a single to left, the first of three hits, to score Bennett.

Monroe got their second run in the last of the third. Beauford Rhea, who

DOUBLE HEADER TODAY

The Clarksdale Red Sox make their first invasion of Casino park today to meet Monroe's White Sox in a double header. The first game will start at 2:15 o'clock.

Manager "Red" Harvel said last night that he was undecided on his hurling assignments but indicated that Al Bronkhurst, big righthander, would pitch the first game, with Lefty John Gotter, who pitched a one-hitter against Hot Springs last Wednesday night, hurling the seven-inning nightcap. "Red" Andrews and Dale Richardson, both righthanders, also are ready and the Monroe skipper may switch his selections.

The Red Sox, under the direction of Harry (Nemo) Liebold, are considered one of the strongest clubs in the circuit.

DOUBLE MAIN EVENT BOOKED FOR MAT SHOW

LAY AND POWELL MEET IN FEATURE MATCH ON CARD

Reynolds And 'Cyclone' Burns Billed For Semi-Final; Ladies Free

Neal "Red" Lay, the Boston bully, will meet "Chuck" Powell, another roughhouse artist, here tomorrow night at Bruscato arena in a double main event wrestling show that will also feature "Cyclone" Burns, a newcomer to the local arena, and "Wildcat" Reynolds, of Texas, an old favorite.

Lay, who has appeared on the local mat several times, will meet a "bird of feather" when he tangles with Powell. The redheaded Boston grappler has bullied his way through his matches here for the past several weeks, but Powell, an Alabama product, is practically the same style of wrestler as Lay.

Both Lay and Powell are plenty rough and their ability to take punishment is insurance of a good show.

"Cyclone" Burns, of Detroit, Mich., is a newcomer to wrestling arenas of this area, but Business Manager Tom Moore, who signed Burns during the past week, states the Michigan light-heavy is just entering this territory after a successful tour of eastern states where he ran up an impressive string of victories.

While Burns is considered ace-high in the light-heavyweight wrestling department, he can be preparing himself to meet one of the meanest and most merciless wrestlers in the business when he tangles with "Wildcat" Reynolds.

Despite Reynolds' reputation as a merciless grappler, however, he is one of the followers of "scientific" wrestling, and otherwise is a proven glutton for punishment. Burns, despite his impressive eastern record, has yet to prove himself in the southern fields.

Promoter Moore announced last night that all ladies would be admitted free tomorrow. There will be no advance in the usual admission prices.

Aldin "Butch" Martin will referee both matches. J. B. Swanson will be the announcer.

NORMAL ATHLETES END WINNING YEAR

Demons Win Three 'Little Four' And One S. I. A. A. Championships

NATCHITOCHES, La., May 14.—(Special)—With three "Little Four" and one S. I. A. A. conference championships listed on their books, Louisiana State Normal college athletes put away their togs for the year this week when Coach Harry Turpin's spikemen handed in their equipment following a cancelled engagement Saturday, with two Mississippi colleges.

Winning in their feature engagement of the season over the Southwestern Bulldogs of Lafayette, 7 to 0, on Thanksgiving day, the Demon gridmen topped the "Little Four" elevens to cop the crown in the small college circles in the state.

Following closely on the heels of the football squad, Coach H. Lee Prather's "Silver Jubilee" cagers made a clean sweep of quintets from Louisiana college, Southwestern and Louisiana Polytech to gain the "Little Four" cage crown for the fourth successive season.

Prather's five and the Centenary Gents of Shreveport represented this district at the S. I. A. A. conference meet at Bowling Green, Ky., in March.

The 1937-38 sports calendar at the State Teachers' college was completed this month when Coach Turpin's thinclads came through to win the S. I. A. A. conference track and field meet at Pineville by amassing 91 2-3 points to 52 1-3 for Southwestern and 19 for Louisiana college.

The Demon trackmen placed next to L. S. U. and Tulane to outpoint Louisiana college and Southwestern in a relay carnival at Lafayette in March, and defeated the Lafayette Bulldogs in a triangular meet at Baton Rouge and a dual contest in Natchitoches last month.

Three famous views are those from the Beka's plateau, seen from the Lebanons in Syria, the Vale of Cashmir in India, and the Mediterranean from Taormina in Sicily.

METROPOLITAN OPEN GOLF TITLE TAKEN BY HINES

Plays Last Round In Rain But Finishes With Score Of 287

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Jolting Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, N. Y., weathered the man-made and natural hazards of the Fresh Meadow Country club course today to win the Metropolitan Open golf championship for the second straight year, this time with a 72-hole total score of 287.

Hines did more than merely repeat his 1937 victory. In a far faster field, playing over a more difficult layout, with all of the last round played in the rain, he finished with a score only one stroke higher than Gene Sarazen's 286 that won the 1932 United States Open title on the same course.

Hines' closing rounds of 73 and 72, five over par, brought him home three strokes in front of Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Ralph Guldahl, United States Open champion, kited from a morning 71 to an afternoon 77 that put him in third place at 292. Horton Smith, 36-hole pace-setter with 139, found trouble everywhere, closed with 79 and 77, and had to be content with 295 and fourth place.

A stroke behind Smith, at 296, came Tony Penna of Dayton, O., and husky Walter Kozak of Bayside, N. Y., while three men tied for seventh at 297. They were Fromer Champion Paul Runyan, Siege Gun Jimmy Thomson and Ben Hogan, 24-year-old Texan, playing his first tournament in the metropolitan area. Ted Turner of Clementon, N. J., posted 298 for the tenth and final money place.

Hines, whose victory was worth $750 and boosted him from ninth to seventh place among the 1938 money-winners, singled out the eleventh hole on the final round as the sign post that showed him the way to the title.

He and Guldahl, playing in the same threesome, had finished the morning eighteen at 215, three ahead of the field. At 63 holes Hines, out in 36, had pulled a stroke ahead. On the tenth, both took 5's and the Long Islander still had his advantage.

Then came the eleventh. Hines, in the rough with his approach, put his third twelve feet from the pin, then canned the putt for a scrambling par 4. Guldahl, with two good shots to the green, three-putted for a 6.

"That's where I stopped thinking about him," said Jimmy, "and when I led another 12-footer for a birdie on the short twelfth while he was taking a four, I knew I had him."

Behind Hines in the prize list came Snead, with $350; Guldahl, $200; Smith, $125; Penna, whose final 36 hole 143 won him an extra $100, and Kozak, $87.50 each; Runyan, Thomson and Hogan, $41.66 each, and Turner, $25. Snead's winnings brought him up from sixth to fourth place for the season, behind Harry Cooper, Johnny Revolta and Henry Picard.

Cooper was one of the disappointments of the tournament. Hardly ever out of the money, the wiry Chicagoan finished with 300 blows, only one shot in front of the low amateur, Frank Strafaci, former national public links champion.

GOLFERS FROM 4 STATES ENTER MERIDIAN TOURNEY

MERIDIAN, Miss., May 14.—(AP)—Golfers from Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Tennessee and Arkansas were on the entry list today for the Mississippi Open Golf tournament here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Pro-amateur team matches on Monday will be a warmup for the open tourney, with 26 holes to be played Tuesday and 36 on Wednesday. A $250 purse is offered.

E. C. Neil, Vicksburg, president of the Mississippi State Golf association, said today after playing the course that the greens were in "perfect condition." He predicted keen competition and good scores.

Winnie Cole, Monroe, La., pro, and Fred Haas, Sr., and Henry Thomas, New Orleans professionals, were among the latest to file entries. Gene Vinson, three times state amateur and open champion, playing over the Northwood course where he learned the game, will be Meridian's chief hope.

VON CRAMM GETS YEAR IN PRISON

World's No. 2 Tennis Ace Convicted On Morality Charge In Germany

BERLIN, May 14.—(AP)—Baron Gottfried von Cramm, the world's number two amateur tennis player, was convicted of immorality today in a secret, three-hour trial and sentenced to one year in prison.

A jury in Moabit criminal court found him guilty of improper relations with an 18-year-old Galician Jew, Manasse Herbst.

Von Cramm denied that he knew Herbst was a Jew. Neither court nor attorneys dwelt on this point, but in many Nazi trials defendants plead "I did not know he (or she) was Jewish" or "he said he was Aryan" to counteract the Nazi attitude that relations with a Jew aggravate an offense.

German sport circles saw the complete ruin of their 28-year-old ace's career.

His name in German tennis, however, was recognized by the presiding judge, along with his youth and "frank and earnest confession of guilt," as extenuating circumstances in the case.

The jury over-ruled the state prosecutor's demand for an 18-month jail term by deciding on a one-year sentence and deduction of the two months the baron spent in jail during the investigation of the case.

The charge against him was of continued violation during 1935-36 of section 175 of the criminal code, which makes homosexuality punishable.

The jury held the baron's association with the Galician Jew, who emigrated to Jerusalem March 15, 1936, was grave and severely incriminating evidence especially in light of "the Roehm affair" of June, 1934.

(Captain Ernst Roehm, chief of staff of the storm troops, was among those killed in Hitler's sweeping "blood purge" which began June 10, 1934. Roehm was charged with plotting against Hitler and of indulging in immoral orgies.)

The court opinion disclosed that Herbst had blackmailed von Cramm for between 20,000 and 30,000 marks ($8,000-$12,000).

The presiding judge declared von Cramm admitted being driven into Herbst's company because of unhappiness over his divorced wife.

EVANGELINE LEAGUE

(By Associated Press)

The swooning Lake Charles Skippers, who have skipped winning ball games for more than a week, took another pasting Saturday night in the Evangeline league.

The Skips, still hanging to the league leadership after winning 12 straight shortly after the season opened, dropped their eighth straight to second place Opelousas. The Indians shellacked Joe Bratcher's mystery boys 6 to 2 to pull within half a game of the top. Roy Mackey held the baffled Skippers to eight hits while the Indians rang up 17.

Bratcher announced tonight that Lake Charles had acquired two new righthand pitchers, Rufus Head from Rome, Ga., and Kennon Black from Harlingen, Tex.

Rayne trimmed Abbeville, 5 to 4, to waltz into third place. The game was a neatly played affair, with the Rice Birds breaking a tie to win in the ninth.

New Iberia defeated Lafayette, 7 to 5, as each team called on three pitchers. Each club made nine safeties, the Cardinals finding their punch in the final innings.

Alexandria trounced Jeanerette, 8 to 5. The Aces and Blues produced another hitting stalemate, with eight blows apiece, but Jeanerette's defense fell apart in the seventh.

KENTUCKY STAR RALLIES TO COP THRILLING MATCH

Up-Hill Fight Provides Victory Over Mrs. Page In Birmingham Final

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 14.—(AP)—Miss Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., won the Southern Golf championship today in a thrilling one-up decision over Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, N. C., the national title holder.

Marion Miley

After an up-hill fight for 34 holes, the Kentuckian rallied to win three holes in a row with birdies and blast the titular hope of the North Carolina champion on the 37th hole.

Spectacular was the game finish of the Kentuckian, who was two down with two of the 36 holes to be played. Mrs. Page, collecting 12 birdies on the long par-five holes, missed putts of five feet on the 35th and 36th holes to blow away the title.

Mrs. Page, recently named to the United States Curtis Cup along with Miss Miley, Western champion, threatened to overwhelm the 24-year-old Bluegrass star, running up a six hole margin through the 23rd hole.

Then the Kentuckian settled down to great stroking that kept the gallery of more than 4,000 on edge. The match had reached the 33rd green before the national golf champion had won another hole, and during that stretch the Kentucky stylist trimmed Mrs. Page's lead to one up.

It took Miss Miley just that many holes to settle down and put on her victorious garrison finish.

After firing birdies at the national champion on the 35th and 36th holes by sinking putts of six and four feet, Miss Miley was ten feet short with her chip at the extra hole but walked up and rolled the ball into the hole after Mrs. Page's putt from around 18 feet rimmed the cup and stayed out.

Under the disadvantage of being dormie, Miss Miley fired a tremendous drive at the 35th but her approach was too strong. She pitched back, however, six feet away and won the hole as Mrs. Page missed from five feet. Mrs. Page three-putted the 36th green when she had what looked like a second halve and victory. She stroked a second shot that rolled to the back edge of the green about 25 feet of the flag.

Miss Miley was short with her approach and then chipped beautifully within four feet of the cup.

The North Carolina star hit her first putt too lightly and was five feet short. She had to putt again and the ball broke off to the left of the cup and trickled eight inches past. Miss Miley stepped up and rammed hers down to send the match to the extra hole.

The vanguished national champion was one stroke under par for the 37 holes.

The Kentucky veteran, beaten for the title two up over 36 holes by Miss Mary Rodgers of Jacksonville, Fla., at Louisville in 1935, was even par.

Miss Miley was two over standard figures in the morning round with 82 as compared to Mrs. Page's 72. But the young Kentuckian stroked the afternoon round in 78 and then knocked off a birdie on the extra hole.

The new champion was a victim of Mrs. Page in last year's tournament at Atlanta, losing to the North Carolinian by a 2 and 1 decision in the quarter-final round.

SOUTHERN LEAGUE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 14.—(AP)—The Birmingham Barons slammed the offerings of three Chattanooga hurlers here today to win an 11-6 decision and take the series, two games to one.

Murray Howell hammered out a home run to score two men ahead of him in the first inning. Henry Majeski continued his heavy slugging with a single, double and triple.

OUACHITA VALLEY

VOLS SHADE HODGE

HODGE, La., May 14.—(Special)—In a free-hitting ball game here today, the Ruston Volunteers increased their Ouachita Valley league leadership by a full game over the Brown Paper mill aggregation as they nosed out the Hodge Wa-Ha's, 8 to 7.

Five home runs were knocked out during the game, along with nine doubles and a triple. Seven singles were spliced in between.

Hodge was leading, 7 to 6, at the beginning of the eighth frame when the invaders came through with two runs to win the game.

The locals got only eight hits, but three of them were circuit blows and two were doubles.

TWO GAMES AT CROSSETT

CROSSETT, Ark., May 15.—(Special)—Business Manager Lester Mason announced the Crossett Millers will play six games here next week. The Ruston Vols will come here Sunday to play a double header in the Ouachita Valley league schedule.

The Millers meet the Monroe Brown Paper mill team here Wednesday afternoon and again Wednesday night in league games. On Thursday and Friday nights the Millers tangle with the powerful, highly publicized Mt. Pleasant, Tex., semi-pro nine.

Manager Moore announced he had signed Mike Griswold, husky hurler, released by the Monroe White Sox of the Cotton States league. "The addition of Griswold," Moore said, "gives us a dependable five-man pitching staff. While we can't use Griswold in first half league games, we can pitch him in non-league games. That boy has plenty of stuff."

Griswold let the Camden Kraftsmen down with only four hits in his initial performance as a Miller when the Kraftsmen beat Crossett 5 to 3 in Camden's season opener there Thursday. Besides Griswold, the Miller hurling staff now consists of Young, Messina, Rorie and McGregor.

CARDINALS COME FROM BEHIND TO SHADE REDS, 7-6

Birds Rally In Ninth And Again In Tenth To Win On Slaughter's Homer

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—(AP)—Trailing in the ninth inning and again in the tenth, the St. Louis Cardinals fought today to an uphill 7 to 6 victory over the Cincinnati Reds, the winning tallies coming on Rookie Enos Slaughter's home run with Joe Stripp on base.

After the ninth, when the Cardinals rallied with four runs to tie the score at 5-all, Manager Bill McKechnie announced the Reds were playing under protest. He argued Dusty Cooke's drive in the sixth against the edge of the pavilion roof in deep right-center, which went for a triple, should have been ruled a homer.

AUBURN TRACKMEN WHIP GEORGIA TECH, 79 TO 47

ATLANTA, May 14.—(AP)—Auburn's crack track team climaxed its undefeated season here today with an impressive 79 to 47 triumph over Georgia Tech.

Charlie Belcher, Tech speedster, topped the 220 yard low hurdles in 23.6 seconds and toured the 440 yard distance in 47.6 seconds to set new records in both events for Grant field.

Jim Swanner of Auburn was clocked at 1:55.5 for the half-mile event to set a similar track record, while Dickenson of Auburn bested all listed 1938 conference performances in the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet 5 1-2 inches.

ROSS IMPRESSIVE IN 6-ROUND DRILL

Welterweight Champion Batters Three Sparring Partners In Workout

GROSSINGER LAKE, N. Y., May 14.—(AP)—Barney Ross, prepping for his defense of the world welterweight title May 26 against Henry Armstrong, the dusky dynamiter from the west coast, put on an impressive six-round ring workout today for the benefit of a critical gallery.

The black-haired Chicagoan gave three sparring partners a thorough going-over. His speed, stamina and hitting reminded onlookers of Ross at his best as he took on Pete Gallano of Baltimore, Augie Gonzalez of Puerto Rico and Pete Cara of New York. There was no evidence that Barney is bothered in the least by the effects of a thumb fracture sustained in his title bout last summer with Ceferino Garcia on the "Carnival of Champions" card.

Gallano, essaying Armstrong's favorite rushing tactics, got a good pasting in return for his aggressiveness. Gonzalez employed bobbing and weaving tactics while Cara slugged for all he was worth but Ross returned all they offered, with interest.

D. Walker Wear, Binghamton, N. Y., member of the state athletic commission, gave Barney a boost. He said: "He looks ready to fight next week and reminds me of the Ross of five or six years ago. His age does not seem to have slowed him. He is hitting as sharply as ever."

Ross is down to the weight stipulated for the match, 142 pounds, five under the welter limit. Armstrong, who holds the feather or 126-pound title, expects to spot Barney no more than five pounds.

D'MAGGIO LEADS JUNIOR BATTERS

Yankee Outfielder Tops American League Hitters With Mark Of .422

CHICAGO, May 14.—(AP)—Slugging Joe DiMaggio, off to a late start in the American league batting race as a result of holdout tactics, hasn't been dallying since he got into action—not at the plate, at least.

Semi-official averages including games of Friday disclosed the New York Yankee outfielder had played in enough games, not only to qualify for the "first ten," but to assume leadership of that select group.

In 11 games DiMaggio has rapped out 19 hits in 45 times at bat for an average of .422 to depose the former pace setter, Hal Trosky of Cleveland. The Indian first baseman's average slumped along with the Indians' fall in the standing and he wound up in third place with .408, one point behind Frank Hayes of Philadelphia.

Other leaders included Pete Fox, Detroit, Earl Averill, Cleveland, and Bill Werber, Philadelphia, all at .376; Cecil Travis, Washington, .366; Buddy Myer, Washington, .351; Ben Chapman, Boston, .349; Joe Cronin, Boston, .348. The last five jumped into the first ten when the averages of such previous leaders as Bill Dickey of New York, Ken Keltner of Cleveland, Hank Steinbacher of Chicago, Roger Cramer of Boston and Dario Lodigiani of Philadelphia dipped downward.

Despite his hitting decline, Cramer wrested the lead in runs scored from Trosky by boosting his total to 23. The advance of Boston in the league race also was reflected in the other individual departments. Jimmy Foxx continued his runs batted in leadership with 35 and joined Hank Greenberg of Detroit in a tie for most home runs. Each had seven, meanwhile Boss Joe Cronin increased his two-base hit mark to 11. Detroit's Fox held first in total hits with 35.

John "Buddy" Lewis of Washington topped base stealers with seven thefts and had three triples to tie with Mel Almada, also of Washington, and Mike Kreevich of Chicago.

Boston's veteran, Bob Grove, paced the pitchers with five successive triumphs and Vern Kennedy of Detroit followed with four. Bob Feller of Cleveland and Charley Ruffing of New York, also had four victories; but had been defeated once.

Washington took over team honors in batting and fielding, with a .284 mark at the plate and .975 afield. St. Louis continued to

LAVAGETTO, OTT LEAD IN BATTING

Brooklyn Outfielder And Giant Star Hog Honors In Senior Circuit

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Cookie Lavagetto, the Pittsburgh castoff who landed with Brooklyn's daffy Dodgers, and Master Melvin Ott, the Giants' little fellow with the big bat, took the spotlight in the National league's batting show during the past week.

Lavagetto, getting back into action after an early season injury, climbed past Ducky Medwick and the rest of the wallopers into the top spot in the batting race with a .422 average through Friday's games. Ott, finding the range on the Giants' highly successful western trip, hit the top in three other individual divisions, runs, runs batted in and homers.

In runs, he went further than ever out in front, with 25 for the season, compared to 20 for second-place Billy Herman of the Cubs, who took that position from his teammate, Joe Marty. In runs batted in, Ott wound up deadlocked with Augie Galan of the Cubs at 23 each. Galan was second a week ago, but Ott was way down the list. And in homers, Ott, like old Tony Lazzeri of the Cubs pushed his way to the top to make it a five-way tie with Hank Leiber and Johnny McCarthy of the Giants and Ival Goodman of the Reds, each with five round-trip wallops.

The batting standings were shaken up from top to bottom as last week's pace setter, Chuck Klein, nose-dived completely out of the first ten. Lavagetto sported an 18-point lead over his nearest rival, dangerous Ducky Medwick, who climbed 59 points to .404. Otherwise, the first ten hitters were featured by the continued listing of three rookies—Rosy Rosen of the Dodgers, Johnny Rizzo of the Pirates and Country Slaughter of the Cardinals—and three of the Giants' big guns.

Rosen was third in the race, with a .385 mark and Rizzo was sixth with .368. Slaughter dropped to ninth with .349. Between Rosen anad Rizzo were Jojo Moore, the Giants' leadoff man, fourth with .374, a 36-point bulge over last week, and his heavy-hitting mate, Hank Leiber, fifth with .370. Lloyd Waner of Pittsburgh climbed to a tie for seventh with Lazzeri, each with .355, while Ott made tenth, with .346.

In addition to Ott's pace-setting spree in run-scoring, runs batted in and homers, the Giants' runaway over the National league was reflected in their leadership of three other departments. Jojo Moore took first place in total hits with 34, to 33 for Buck McCormick of the Reds; Lou Chiozza was deadlocked with Brooklyn's Ernie Koy in stealing bases, each with three, and those southpaw aces, Cliff Melton and King Carl Hubbell, were way out in front in pitching, Stringbean Cliff with an undefeated run of six victories, and King Carl with four.

In fact, the only offensive departments in which Bill Terry's Terriers did not have a hand were doubles and triples. In the former, the Cubs' Bill Herman retained first place, but was tied by Dusty Cooke of Cincinnati, each with nine. In three-base belting, Johnny Rizzo, Pittsburgh rookie clouter, held onto the top with five, one more than second-place Ival Goodman of Cincinnati.

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—The Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics played to a 1-all draw today in a game which ended midway of the sixth inning because of rain.

Lynn (Line-Drive) Nelson gave the Yanks one hit in their five innings at bat, a triple by Bill Knickerbocker, who scored on Red Rolfe's fly.

LAZZERI BECOMES CUBS' SPARK PLUG WITH FAT AVERAGE

By Earl Hilligan

CHICAGO, May 14.—(AP)—He's a hard man to put down, this "Poosh 'Em Up" Tony Lazzeri.

For a ball player whose active playing days were supposed to have been counted out by old Father Time, Signor Lazzeri is doing a bang up job of proving to the Chicago Cubs that he still is a mighty handy man to have around.

Last October, Tony was unconditionally released by the New York Yankees after starring for the Ruppert Rifles for more than a decade. Within two weeks he was signed by the Cubs, precipitating one of the hottest arguments of the winter hot stove league season.

The fans argued (1) that Tony would take the managership away from Charley Grimm (2) that he would become assistant manager (3) that he'd be used only as just another pinch hitter and coach and (4) that Owner P. K. Wrigley was letting sentimentality get the better of his baseball business judgment.

The fans agreed on one point: That Tony was just about through as a player or the Yanks never would have let him get away. On this point and every other, the fans have been neatly "crossed up" by the taciturn Italian-American veteran.

Thus far Grimm still is manager; Tony isn't the assistant manager; he isn't just another pinch hitter or coach because he's been almost a full fledged regular and he's making Boss Wrigley look good as a judge of diamond talent.

Always known as a great "money player," at his best when the going was hardest, Tony has filled in at second base, shortstop and third base and played brilliantly. His hitting during the few weeks of the season was largely responsible for getting the Cubs away to a good start. And when the team slumped, Manager Grimm fell back on the dependable Lazzeri and his .350 plus average by making him clean up man in the batting order.

In his first appearance as No. 4 hitter, Tony banged out two hits in four trips. The next day he hit "four for four" to drive in five runs and almost single handedly snap a Cub losing streak of three games. On Friday his fifth homer of the season, which has him up among the circuit leaders in that department, kept the Cubs in their ball game with Pittsburgh until the Pirates won in the tenth. In addition, he fielded well.

The only person Signor Tony appears to have failed to cross up is Owner Wrigley, who obtained him because he'd always liked Tony's aggressiveness with the Yanks. Old "Poosh 'Em Up" is doing a good job of not letting the boss down.

NEW S. A. A. U. MARK FOR HIGH JUMP SET BY BATON ROUGE BOY

BATON ROUGE, La., May 14.—(AP)—An 18-year-old high school youngster drew applause here today in setting up a new Southern Amateur Athletic union record for the high jump.

Joseph Devall, lanky Istrouma High school senior, made a leap—sensational for his age—of six feet, 5 1-4 inches to better the existing S. A. A. U. mark of six feet, 4 1-2 inches.

Devall uses a new modification of the "western roll" similar to one adopted by many of the modern high jump stars.

Instead of approaching the bar from the side, Devall runs straight toward it, throws his right leg up and over and kicks his left leg underneath his body and over the bar.

Devall goes over on his side. Exponents of the "western roll" style skim over on their stomachs.

"My coach, Wedge Kyes, made me change to this way of jumping," Devall said. "I find it much easier."

A. A. U. officials at today's meet said his style is perfectly legal.

A few weeks ago the six-foot three-inch boy jumped six feet, 6 1-2 inches at the Bolton High school invitational meet at Alexandria, La.

Devall broke his right ankle last spring competing at Hammond, La., but he has been jumping higher than ever since the ankle mended.

He says he will enroll either at Louisiana State or Southern California this fall.

RICE WINS TRACK TITLE AS WALCOTT LEADS WAY

DALLAS, Tex., May 14.—(AP)—Tousle-headed Freddie Wolcott took the iron man role today as Rice institute won the annual Southwest conference track and field meet.

He won three first places, breaking records with two of his performances, and anchored the Owls in their 440-yard relay victory.

Wolcott cleared the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.1, bettering the conference record by four-tenths of a second and won the 220-yard low sticks in 23 seconds, breaking the six-year-old conference mark by two-tenths of a second. His other victory was in the 100-yard dash.

Rice won with 35 2-5 points. Texas, champion for six years, was second with 33 1-5 and Texas A. and M. third with 25 1-5.

She is a former national girls' hard court champion and holds the Canadian and Washington state crowns. These girls will add to the attractiveness of eastern competition. They have all-court games, and it would not surprise California observers if one or both followed in the footsteps of illustrious predecessors from the golden slope—May Sutton Bundy, Mary K. Browne, Helen Wills, Helen Hull Jacobs, Alice Marble, and some more. The sunkissed shore certainly turns them out. Perhaps it's the weather.

STATE TOURNEY IS 'WIDE-OPEN'

Freddie Haas' Absence Assures Merry Battle; Downing One Of Favorites

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(AP)—The 1938 Louisiana State golf championship will be a wide-open affair in the annual tournament opening Thursday over the Metairie Golf club course.

Freddie Haas, Jr., who won the state title last year at Shreveport will not be here to defend his crown since he is on the high seas headed for England, Scotland and the Walker Cup matches.

Predictions, therefore, were for a merry battle during the four days of the 19th annual tournament for the throne vacated by Haas as an unusually talented field entered competition for $800 worth of trophies.

One of the outstanding entries is Paul Leslie, captain of the Louisiana State university golf team. Leslie is former western amateur champion and national collegiate runner-up for two years in succession.

Walter Evans, president of the association, said New Orleans would enter more than 100 players and the remainder of the state was expected to run the list to more than 150.

Many of those who entered have been shooting a fine game which indicated the keenest competition and made the picking of favorites difficult.

In addition to Leslie, dangerous competitors included Vincent D'Antoni, of Tulane and two young likelies, Ben Downing, Jr., of Monroe and Delmar "Red" Wheeler of Lake Charles, an L. S. U. freshman golfer.

Nelson Whitney, playing his home course where he has a handicap of two, was a leader among the favorites.

The 18 holes of the qualifying round will be played Thursday and the finals on Sunday.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—What well-known horse-playing golfer has been taken for one big ride by the bangtails? . . . Young Bob Feller was getting pretty well fed up on that "scientific pitching" they were giving him at Cleveland. . . . But after that five-hit win over the Yanks he's decided to hang on a few more rounds. . . . Dominick Mecozzi of the Danbury (Conn.) trade school nine has pitched two no-hit, no-run games within a week's time.

Note to Bill Gossard, Niagara Falls (N. Y.) Gazette: The answer is "no" according to his manager. . . . Add "I picked Lawrin to win": Krupnick, Lawrenceville (Ill.) Daily Record and Jerry Liska, Fremont, (Ohio) Messenger. . . . Latest from the coast is that Shanty Hogan, better known as "the One-Man Crowd," who recently caught on with the San Diego Padres in the Coast league, is about to eat President Bill Lane out of house and home.

Only reason scouts aren't rushing to sign Max Wilson, star pitcher for Oak Ridge institute down in North Carolina, who recently twirled two no-hit, no-run games in nine days, is because he only weighs 153. . . . He fanned 25 in his first no-hitter and 18 in the second. . . . The fine Georgetown U. baseball team Coach Joe Judge brought north this week had won 25 of 26 games against such schools as Harvard, Navy, Michigan, Temple, etc. . . . But it's latest winning streak ended at 19 straight when it ran up against Fordham's Hank Borowy Friday.

Here's another of those funny things you hear about with the Dodgers. . . . In a game at Pittsburgh, Lloyd Waner hit a homer into a deserted tier in the right field stands. . . . An usher went over, picked up the ball and turned it in. . . . It was found to be one of Larry MacPhail's "rocket balls" used during batting practice. . . . Pirate officials immediately went into a huddle but finally decided the ball must have been banged into the stand during practice and overlooked until after Waner's smack.

Printers simply ruin you sometimes. . . . Recently the following appeared in Sid Ziff's column in the Los Angeles Herald-Express: "Even if Henry Armstrong loses to Barney Ross and Lou Ambers, he'll still be the world's fatherweight champion." . . . Where's Popper Dionne? . . . Problem of reserves has Pitt's coach, Doc Sutherland, talking to himself. . . . Jake Gimbel, member of the well-known merchant family, who gives awards for outstanding performances in colleges, can crochet with the best of them. . . . Next stop is Ferndale to see what Barney Ross is doing for himself. . . . Choo, choo.

for an opposing pitcher in the lineup; and when it came to pitchers, Cicotte, Williams, Kerr and Faber were tops as hurlers in the American league at the time—and all on one club."

Nemo was a member of that great club, and he's putting his baseball knowledge to good use in directing the Clarksdale Sox. Liebold has his youngsters in the first division, and the tip is out that Clarksdale is going to be tough to beat this season.

Liebold has his own baseball philosophy. For instance, catcalls from the bleachers often are a pain in the neck to other baseball managers, but Nemo can take it. He admits a booming anvil chorus is music to his ears and an indication that cash customers are getting something for their nickels.

"When the fans aren't razzing they're usually disinterested," said Liebold. "And nobody wants to play to a stand full of dead pans."

Nemo is courageous if nothing else. Not many managers would come into a new league with such a frank statement, but the Red Sox pilot has been before the public for many years and his hide is tough.

Liebold came to Clarksdale after managing Columbus, O., Reading, Syracuse and Rocky Mount, following his long and illustrious career in the majors, spent as an outfielder for the Cleveland, Chicago and Boston clubs in the American league. He's considered an important cog in the Boston Red Sox farm system.

The statement that Liebold never played as a regular in baseball below AA classification is true, believe it or not. Although he appeared as a pinch-hitter several times when managing Reading in the old New York-Penn league, he was never a regular. And his playing days are over, so the little fellow will not get any powder burns in the Cotton States league.

played a spectacular game in center field, scratched a single off Vinson's glove. Conway rolled out, Rhea going to second, and then Bobby Schang slapped a single to left on a hit and run play that scored Rhea. Rock also scratched a single but Harvel hit into a double play to end the rally.

The Sox added their final two runs in the fourth. Bennett led off by working Celey for a walk. Hackney promptly smacked a double down the right field foul line to score the outfielder. Webb followed with another single and Hackney scored.

Monroe threatened often thereafter but Celey, a holdover from Helena's 1937 club, tightened down in the pinches and prevented further scoring. The White Sox had ten men left stranded on the sacks.

The only Helena run came in the ninth inning. Hicks led off with a double to the right field wall that Bennett almost caught. Sutherlin got an infield single, sending Hicks to left, and then Houska skied to Harvel in left field and Hicks scored after the catch. Tennant flied out to Rock and after Savage had singled to right, Summers forced him at second.

Rhea made six putouts in center field and three of them were difficult catches. Beauford made one sensational catch in the sixth inning when he went back almost to the fence to take in Hicks' drive. The entire team played bang-up ball that has marked their efforts during the present home stay.

Webb led the Sox attack with three hits in four trips to the plate. He drove in two runs. Schang got two safeties for the Sox. Hicks, Sutherlin and Savage each got two hits for the Seaporters.

Greenville shot to the top of the Cotton States league standings Saturday night by tripping Hot Springs while the Monroe White Sox knocked off the Helena Seaporters, leaders for a day.

The peppery Buckshots from Greenville used 11 hits in two big innings to defeat the Hot Springs Bathers, 9 to 8. The Bathers gathered 14 bingles, but let the ball trickle through them for four costly errors.

The Clarksdale Red Sox went into a tie for third place with El Dorado, erstwhile kingpins of the loop, by downing the Lions 4 to 2, although outhit ten to eight.

Greenwood slammed Owens of Pine Bluff around the lot to trounce the Judges 10 to 1. Radney gave Pine Bluff only three hits.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(AP)—Cotton prices moved within a narrow range here today, influenced mostly by easier cables, and closed steady net 1 to 2 points lower.

The May option ended at 8.78 bid to 8.81 asked, July at 8.86, October 8.93, December at 8.95-96, January 8.97 and March at 9.02.

There was some selling for foreign accounts but the offerings were absorbed readily, principally by trade interests.

The census bureau reported domestic cotton consumption for April at 414,392 bales against 510,941 in March of this year and 718,975 in April of last year.

Mill stocks were set at 1,703,045 bales at the end of April against 1,771,937 bales at the end of March this year and 1,986,694 bales at the end of April last year.

April consumption of linters was estimated at 57,852 bales. The consumption for the nine months of the present season was given as 4,972,104 bales against 6,625,228 bales last year.

The weather map showed the belt was wet except in the northwest and temperatures were normal to somewhat below.

The bureau of entomology said cold-dry weather in April delayed emergence of the boll weevil but that the pests were moving into the fields at present.

Wall Street reported continued activity and prices on the upturn. Sales of gray cotton goods for the week were estimated at more than 25,000,000 yards.

The turnover yesterday was 40,150 bales and open commitments 352,550 bales, a decrease of 600 bales from the previous day.

Exports for the day were 3,017 bales.

Cotton futures closed steady at net decline of 1 to 2 points.

New York

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Cotton fluctuated irregularly today over a narrow range. Opening losses on easier cables were later recovered but the market again reacted owing to disappointing consumption figures and under foreign selling.

October, which had advanced from 8.77 to 8.82, closed at 8.78, with final prices 1 to 4 points net lower.

Cotton futures closed 1-4 lower.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Most stocks drifted to moderate lower levels in today's market although selling pressure was exceptionally light.

Losses of fractions to a point or so predominated in early dealings, but mild support came in just before the close and lifted the majority of leaders from low marks and estabilshed a number of modest advances.

Real trading action was absent in virtually all departments, and total transfers for the two hours dwindled to around 250,000 shares.

Further cashing of profits in utilities tipped the scales on the downside after a slightly mixed opening, these issues apparently finding scant stimulation in the remarks of Federal Reserve Chairman Eccles urging cessation of government subsidized compensation with private power companies.

Bonds and commodities were uneven and, with major foreign markets shut down for the Saturday holiday, inspiration from abroad was lacking.

The rupture of Mexican-British diplomatic relations as a result of the petroleum dispute did nothing to improve financial temperaments.

Steels held up fairly well notwithstanding estimated next week's mill operations might register another dip.

at 11:50 a.m. will arrive in Washington, D. C., at 9:40 p.m., and at New York City at 11:10 p.m. the same day. A letter that leaves by air mail from Monroe at 10:20 p.m. will reach Los Angeles, Calif., at 7:50 a.m. the next day. A letter leaving the Monroe postoffice at 7:37 p.m., will reach Jacksonville, Fla., 3:10 a.m., the next day, New York at 8 a.m., Philadelphia at 7:25 a.m., Washington, D. C., at 5:15 a.m. the next day.

Explaining the remarkable facilities of air mail and its possibilities, Postmaster J. R. Wooten has issued the following letter:

"Dear Patron:

"You and I remember when deliveries were made to and by you by use of horsedrawn vehicles. I wonder if you have ever thought about whether you would like to return to that method of delivery. I believe you would think it rather antiquated and that it would not be profitable to your business to resume it. Had you ever given though to the fact that the use of ordinary mail to distant points is just about as antiquated today as the horse and delivery cart would be? If you were to use the old horse and cart, it would probably take an hour to deliver your merchandise to patrons in the northern or southern part of the city. When you use the ordinary mail to New York, it takes a little more than two days and nights to get your letter to its destination. By using the air mail service, it reaches its destination over night. The airplane today and the air mail service now in existence is just as important to the efficiency of your business as is the automobile delivery service.

"The air mail stamp on your letter is a mark of distinction. It indicates that it contains something of importance. It shows that the mailer of that letter is an enterprising and progressive business man. The postoffice department is operating air mail service at a loss to the government, but it realizes that this is strictly a "service" and that it is filling a long felt need. The air mail service has made the whole United States one neighborhood. Your letter can be delivered overnight to almost any city of importance in the whole country. You transact part of your business with New Orleans, Memphis and Dallas because you feel that these places are close to you. The air mail service has placed New York, Los Angeles and Chicago just as close to you as these other cities.

"The postoffice department is making an earnest effort to bring these and various other facts to the business people during Air Mail week and to attempt to get all business interests to give this service a trial. May we have your cooperation next week in our efforts to demonstrate to you that air mail is an important factor in the nation's affairs; that it is truly the "Thief of Time." We hope to have mailed in the Monroe postoffice next week at least one letter for every person in Monroe. It would be a great thing for business concerns to send all their mail via air for one day next week. There is only one reason why the air mail is not used far more now than it is—people have not taken the time and the opportunity to familiarize themselves with its advantages and possibilities."

Sincerely yours,
"JAMES R. WOOTEN, Postmaster."

ell members in approving, condemned the use of poison gases.

France's delegate, Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, took the lead at the end of the day by declaring in a speech that China had "shown herself worthy" of the world's admiration and moral support.

Viscount Halifax, British delegate and foreign secretary, backed Bonnet and Jacob Souritz, speaking for Soviet Russia, said he only was sorry the resolution did not go further.

What sent Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, the Chinese delegate, out of the council room with his face wreathed with smiles however was the promises of individual aid from league members.

Chinese declined to say exactly what they obtained but previously they declared they were given credits in London to buy arms and munitions with assurances the league powers would help get the material into China.

Other than Koo's victory, which did little to bolster the league itself, most of the week's sesion marked an open desertion of the bed where the ideal of collective security lay dying.

The rearmed members of the organization were engaged in a rush toward the more tangible goal of reaping the fruits of "realist" diplomacy.

HEYMAN, FERGUSON GO ON TRIAL TOMORROW

Only two cases are scheduled for the second week of district criminal court which opens here tomorrow after a relapse of one week since work of the first week's term was completed.

Scheduled to go on trial tomorrow are Jacob Heyman and P. M. Ferguson, white men.

Heyman is accused on two charges of obtaining money by means of a confidence game, while Ferguson is charged with attempting to obtain money by means of a confidence game. The cases of Heyman and Ferguson are not connected in any way.

MARRIAGES

ROBERTS-HARVEY

MANGHAM, La., May 14.—(Special)—Miss Merle Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Harvey of Archibald, and Claude Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Roberts of Archibald, were married recently at the home of Rev. P. M. Gaddis of Alto.

CHAINED

The mystery of the chain-laden corpse, identified as that of 23-year-old Sophie Kujat, above, which floated to the surface of the Passaic river at Newark, N. J., was declared solved by local police who arrested the girl's former sweetheart, Edward Holle, 24, below, in connection with the murder. Police say Holle, married ten months and an expectant father, desperate at the persistent advances of the girl after his marriage, strangled her, trussed the body in chains and dumped it in the river.

against the couple by the claimants, Isaac Zerkowsky of Natchez. Sam Zerkowsky of Louisiana and Mrs. Jeanette Habas of Pittsfield, Mass. The case is due for hearing in July.

The deed of trust was executed by Miss Dockery, who was named guardian for Dana when a court declared him mentally unbalanced. Dana now contends Miss Dockery was not legally empowered to sign the deed. Dana is a descendant of Charles Dana, publisher of the New York Sun, and Miss Dockery the daughter of a Confederate brigadier-general.

Miss Merrill was killed six years ago at her home on a neighboring estate, "Glenburnie." She was a wealthy recluse. Dana and Miss Dockery have been living on admissions tourists pay to go through "Goat Castle" and view its antique furnishings.

The total indebtedness claimed against the estate, including taxes and other costs, is now between $7,000 and $8,000.

MEXICO GUARDS AGAINST REVOLT

retary of agriculture in August, 1937, in a dispute over the president's agrarian policy and Cedillo's future course then became the subject of speculation.

(A usually reliable political source predicted last October the federal government would move to oust the government of San Luis Potosi state, considered loyal to Cedillo.

(That prediction came after the assassination at San Luis Potosi of Tomas Tapia, agrarian leader, state legislator and newly named chairman of the national revolutionary (government) party.

(Tension developed from rumors that Cedillo was ready to lead his own army of 17,000 in revolt against the central government if it challenged his two-decade rule of San Luis Potosi, which covers an area of 24,415 square miles and has a population of 579,000.)

A reliable informant said three of four hundred Cedillista agrarians slipped into the state capital in small groups in the last several days.

The army garrison there at the same time was said to have been quietly doubled to 500 soldiers.

The garrisons throughout the state were increased by 3,000 troops within the last year while those of neighboring states were reinforced.

Dr. Lawson H. Cooke will succeed Dr. Henderson as secretary and move the headquarters to Memphis, Tenn.

Dr. Ralph A. Herring, Winston-Salem, N. C., elected first vice-president yesterday, at his own request exchanged offices with Dr. W. W. Hamilton of New Orleans, elected second vice-president. Dr. Herring, a young preacher, said the more experienced man should have his position.

WALLACE TO CAPITAL FOR AIRMAIL WEEK

Hugh Wallace, superintendent of mails at the Monroe postoffice, leaves tonight for Washington, where he expects to remain throughout the observance of National Airmail week. Prior to leaving, Mr. Wallace will spend today putting the finishing touches on the plans for the observance here during the week, details of which are in the hands of a local committee. His trip to Washintgon is made at the instance of the postmaster general, who asked Mr. Wallace to report at the postoffice department as early this week as possible.

ATLANTA BOY WINS $300 SCHOLARSHIP

ATLANTA, May 14.—(AP)—Roger P. Stokey, boys' high school senior, made the highest grade of 916 students from high schools in eight southeastern states competing in the Emory university alumni scholarship contest, it was announced today.

The Atlanta youth will receive a $300 scholarship to Emory. Twenty other competitors also will receive scholarships.

The awards were made after a "basic preparation test" designed to cover every phase of high school instruction, and also to provide an index to leadership and personality traits.

Winners included:

Mississippi: Charles J. Carney, Natchez.

MOON IN ECLIPSE

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Black shadows of the earth, cast 240,000 miles through space, eclipsed the moon for 51 minutes early today. Although the satellite was in total eclipse less than an hour, it was partly veiled for six hours—from 12:44 a.m., eastern standard time, to 6:43 a.m. The earth's shadow covered the moon completely at 3:18 a.m. and began sliding slowly off the moon's face again at 4:09 a.m.

TO BE DAUGHTER WITHOUT ADOPTION

Miss Raye Paige, 24-year-old former store clerk, plans to enter the home of Dr. C. C. Bolender as his daughter, but there will be no legal adoption, she explained. She is shown in Clearwater, Fla., with the 76-year-old retired physician, who promised in his advertisement that the girl selected would receive a big reward after his death.

DEATHS

E. C. DREW

E. C. Drew, about 86, former resident of Monroe, died yesterday at Birmingham, Ala., where he had made his home for the past several years, according to information received here last night. The body will be returned to Monroe this morning.

Mr. Drew was born and reared in Monroe, but he had lived the past 12 or 14 years at Birmingham with his family. He is survived by his wife and one son, Reese Drew, also of Birmingham.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed late last night, but interment will be made in Hasley cemetery.

American exports to Soviet Russia amounted to $42,900,000 in 1937, mostly in machines and industrial equipment.

CITY OFFICIALS EXPRESS 'PRIDE'

Letters To Publisher Voice Appreciation Of Recent Feature Editions

The following letters addressed to the publisher of the News-Star and Morning World, expressing appreciation of Mayor H. H. Benoit and C. R. Tidwell, commissioner of parks and streets, for the character and quality of the recent editions of these papers featuring Louisiana's "March of Progress," were received Saturday, and are printed herewith, with the hearty thanks of Wilson Ewing, the publisher, as well as of the entire newspaper organization:

May 14, 1938

Mr. Wilson Ewing, Publisher
News-Star-World Publishing Corp'n.
110 North Second Street
Monroe, Louisiana.

Gentlemen:

It is with a great deal of pride and satisfaction that I have read the editions of the News-Star and the Morning World, featuring Louisiana's industrial progress in recent years.

Without question, these editions have brought to Monroe a wealth of favorable advertising which could not have been developed in any other way. The fact that such newspapers, so richly and profusely illustrated, and containing such a wealth of informative material dealing with the resources, industries and educational facilities of our state, could be produced in a city the size of Monroe is in itself a source of gratification to every citizen of this community.

Permit me to offer to you publishers, editors, advertising department and mechanical force, who all contributed to this noteworthy enterprise, my warmest congratulations on its success in contributing to the progress of our community and the state at large.

You have performed a wonderful service, worthily and well.

Sincerely yours,
H. H. Benoit
(Mayor)

May 14, 1938

Mr. Wilson Ewing, Publisher
News-Star—World,
Monroe, Louisiana.

Dear Mr. Ewing:

May I take the opportunity, as a citizen as well as a public official of Monroe, to express to you and the members of your organization my sincere appreciation of the splendid editions of the News-Star and Morning World devoted to Louisiana's "March of Progress."

In my estimation no finer contribution could have been made to the men and the agencies who are responsible for putting Louisiana in the front rank of the states of the union.

It is especially gratifying that the newspapers of Monroe had the inspiration and the enterprise to foster and produce such a worthy demonstration of journalistic endeavor.

May I offer my hearty congratulations to you and all those who had a share in helping the entire state to become conscious of the progressive spirit characteristic of Monroe and its citizenship.

Sincerely yours,
C. R. Tidwell
(Commissioner Streets and Parks)

1938 CITY DIRECTORY TO BE ISSUED SOON

C. B. Page, representing the Interstate Directory company, who has been engaged with a staff of workers in the preparation of a new city directory for the Twin Cities, announced Saturday that the book will be ready for distribution in three or four weeks' time.

The volume will be slightly larger than the one issued in 1936 and will prove helpful to business houses and the general public as there have been many changes of residence and business locations in the past two years in both Monroe and West Monroe.

The new book will be published by the Monroe Printing company, which also was publisher of the 1936 directory.

During the siege of Paris in 1871 there were 64 balloons sent up with 91 passengers, 354 pigeons and 3,00,000 letters.

GOING TO ITALY

MARGARET CUPP

RUSTON, La., May 14.—(Special)—In recognition of her accomplishments in the study of Romance languages, Margaret Cupp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Cupp of Ruston, has been awarded a graduate fellowship to the University of Rome, it has been announced here.

The award provides for tuition and maintenance at the university in Italy, where Miss Cupp will specialize in Italian, during the period from November, 1938, to July, 1939. A provision also includes a reduction of 30 per cent in the cost of steamship passage, arranged by the Institute of International Education in New York City. The scholarships are granted under an exchange arrangement between American and foreign universities.

Miss Cupp was graduated from Louisiana Tech in 1933. She taught English in Haynesville for two years and at present is working on a master's degree in languages at Louisiana State university, as the recipient of a fellowship.

While attending Tech, Miss Cupp was prominently identified with various student activities, having been editor of the Lagniappe, college annual, in 1933.

Miss Cupp plans to sail for Europe on August 30, in company with five other L. S. U. girls who have received awards to European institutions. A five-day tour of Paris and other activities have been arranged for the university students by Dr. James F. Broussard, professor of Romance languages at L. S. U.

BRISTOW WILL AGAIN PERFORM AT AIRPORT

Jes Bristow will again be at Selman airport this afternoon and tonight to do stunts with his tri-motored airliner. Some unusually daring feats will be performed with this powerful 82-foot plane.

Passengers will be carried for short trips over the city and flights by night will be featured giving passengers opportunity to see Monroe and West Monroe by night when electric lights are all aglow.

Many people took trips last Sunday and as many more were unable to visit the airport to watch Bristow's stunt flying and to take rides, he has decided to repeat the performances and afford additional rides this afternoon and tonight.

MARGUERITE CLOWER INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Marguerite Clower, 13, daughter of E. B. Clower, 3015 Lee avenue, was slightly injured about noon yesterday when a bicycle she was riding collided with an automobile being driven by Mrs. C. W. Connelly, 3706 Lee avenue. The accident occurred at the intersection of Lee avenue and Thomas street.

Police Captain Frank Pettit, who was driving behind Mrs. Connelly's machine at the time, rushed the girl to St. Francis sanitarium where attending physicians said she had suffered only bruises. She was allowed to return to her home, but was confined to her bed last night.

Real Estate Transfers

Real estate transfers recorded yesterday at the office of the clerk of court of Ouachita parish were:

Alcide B. Gaude sold to D. B. Berry lot 3 of square 12 of the Alexander Land company's addition to Monroe for $225 cash.

The People's Homestead and Savings association sold to B. C. McCurdy and J. C. McCurdy lots 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 of block 3 of G. O. Dooley's subdivision for $800.

B. T. U. PROGRAM

JENA, La., May 14.—(Special)—An associational B. T. U. program will be rendered at Jena Baptist church Sunday, May 15, at 2:30 p.m. The association meets every third Sunday and the program is arranged alternately by the Sunday school and B. T. U.

BACCALAUREATE PLANNED MAY 22

Exercises Will Be Held At Northeast Center; Ayecock Will Speak

Plans have been completed for the holding of the sixth annual commencement at Northeast Center, according to an announcement made by Dean C. C. Colvert Saturday.

The baccalaureate services will be held in the college auditorium Sunday, May 22, at 5 p.m.

The program will be as follows:

Processional—"War March of the Priests"—Mendelssohn.

Northeast Center orchestra, Lowry Jefferson, director.

Invocation.

Hymn—"Jesus Shall Reign," Duke street—Congregation.

Scripture reading.

Soprano solo—"How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings," Liddle—Miss Johnette Register.

Sermon—"A Universal Ideal," by Father Leon A. Ayecock, assistant pastor, St. Matthew's church.

Doxology—Congregation.

Benediction.

Recessional—March—Tracy.

A special student choir will sing with Dallas Goss and Roger C. Frisbie, both of the Northeast Center music department, in charge.

The commencement exercises will be held May 30 at 10 a.m. The speaker of the occasion will be Dr. Doak S. Campbell, of George Peabody college. Dr. Campbell is head of the department of field studies and surveys of this college and is also secretary of the American Association of Junior Colleges.

MODERN WOODMEN PLAN WEINER ROAST AT PARK

A wiener roast will be held by the members of the Modern Woodmen at Bernstein park Monday at 8 p. m. All members are expected to attend with their families.

Plans will be made for the holding of a dance at Rainbow inn, Thursday night. Eddie Vann and orchestra will furnish the music.

NEGRO HELD FOR STEALING BABBITT

George Turner, negro employe of the Brown Paper mill, was arrested here early yesterday morning by Police Officers H. L. Tolbert and Garland May on a charge of larceny of 50 pounds of babbitt metal from the paper mill.

Turner, who was transferred to the Ouachita parish jail, reputedly told the police, who arrested him as he was carrying the babbitt on DeSiard street, that he had taken it to "use to stake out my cow."

SEVENTH CLINIC FOR CRIPPLED YOUTH HELD

The seventh of a series of clinics being conducted by the Forty and Eight of the American Legion in Monroe was held in the Caldwell parish health unit at Columbia, Friday.

Dr. Scott Hamilton of the clinic examined 13 crippled children.

Only one case in Caldwell parish examined by the clinic was in need of immediate operative correction. Most of the cases examined in this clinic were turned over to Miss Stewart, physiotherapy nurse for home treatment and home training.

Commander Leonard Jackson, of the Columbia post, American Legion, attended the clinic and assured complete Legion cooperation. A group from the Monroe Forty and Eight was also in attendance.

LASALLE WELFARE UNIT ISSUES PROGRESS BOOKLET

JENA, La., May 14.—(Special)—A booklet on the progress made by the local public welfare department of LaSalle parish for the past year has just been released. It is complete in every detail, containing maps, drawings, and tabulated figures on the accomplishments of the unit.

The unit is under the direction of J. E. Stewart. His staff is composed of the following: Mrs. J. E. MONROE TIRE DEALERS MOBILIZE TO MILLIONS of MOTORISTS are driving on tires that are UNSAFE!

A survey, just completed, indicates that 59 million tires now in use are smooth or will become smooth during 1938. Many of these are unsafe. Unless these dangerous tires are replaced, millions of motorists will be taking needless chances. Why risk human life for those last few extra miles?

Let us Replace OLD SMOOTH TIRES NOW

IF you have even one old, smooth tire on your car, you're courting disaster—serious injury to yourself and others.

Why take this needless risk? Smooth tires can't be trusted! They attack when you least expect it! They give no warning!

Look over your tires now, and if they are old and smooth, let us equip your car with safe new tires. And remember, when you buy tires in America today, you get ten times longer tire life than you did in the old days for one-quarter of the cost! Come in! See us today!

Thoughts Of Monroe Society Turn Toward Vacations As Summer Days Deepen

Numerous Residents Are Planning Trips

Five-Suit Bridge Gaining In Popularity; Local Citizens Write Home From Europe

By Eve Bradford

SUMMER has fairly begun and all thoughts are turned to the pleasure-packed months ahead. Up pop visions of lazy hours of swimming, boating, early morning golf and tennis, of supper parties in shady nooks, of hours spent in preparation for vacations and for entertaining guests. The travel folders are all out now, and very colorful they are with painted pictures, pretty chatter, superlatives luring you to see the wonders of the world. The lucky ones will be off to far away places and others who are not so lucky will have to play the game of "pretend" and dream of imaginary trips that they would like to take.

Something diversifying for the stay-at-homes will be the new five-suit bridge game which promises to outshine in popularity the old game of contract. Frances Smeiser has a set of these new cards and has already introduced the game among her cohorts. She says it has enough familiar points to make it interesting to those who cling to old habits. The cards with which this game is played were originated in Austria and were introduced in England early this year. From there they have spread far and wide. The presence of three extra cards in each hand makes possible so many more combinations that this new game allows for much more initiative and originality of play than contract. The extra card in this 65-card deck is placed in the center and is called the widow. The declarer can use it to replace a poor card in his own hand or the dummy after the opening lead has been made.

News comes trickling in of travelers who are already off on vacations. Johnnie Smith Elbert and members of her party sailed down the Bay of Naples last week. Later they boarded a ferry for the famous Isle of Capri and the almost equally famed Blue Grotto. The ferry put in at Sorrento, which is built in a small elbow of rocky mountains. Summer hotels are built along the edge with zig zagging steep steps going down to the water. The water lashes the bluff and there are practically no beaches. Five miles out from this point is Capri. Viewed from a distance the outline of the isle resembles a man with a big chest lying flat on his back. In size it is nine miles around. Beautiful views in all directions are offered from balconies of the old stone buildings. Women in smart men's attire, numerous at this resort, rather startled Mrs. Elbert, who is the very essence of femininity.

A returned traveler who fairly exudes enthusiasm is Mary Stuart Kellogg, just home from Washington in company with her mother, Louise Kellogg, and her grandmother, Mrs. O. M. Grisham. She shook the hand of Eleanor Roosevelt at the White House reception—she saw the Unknown Soldier's tomb at Arlington—she walked through the congressional library—she visited Valley Forge—crossed the Delaware—visited the Williamsburg galleries and then came the climax—a visit in New York City.

Patsy Druburgh, who is convalescing from an emergency appendectomy that almost scared her mother and father to death before they reached her bedside at the University of Alabama where she is a freshman, is glad to be rid of the offending appendix, as her plans to spend the summer on a dude ranch in Colorado will now materialize.

Like the perfume that lingers after the flower has faded is the memory of Pargie Hudson's wedding last week. A perfect wedding ceremony does not happen by chance. Lilies, fragrant and exotic, were to the right and to the left, forming an enclosure on the white canvas covered dais. All the beauty of the picture was reflected in the immense antique mirror in the background. Pargie, having a yen for old lace, wore a gorgeous Brussells lace veil that completely enveloped her slender figure. It was one her mother, True Hudson, brought home from Brussells several years ago.

The organ was quieted following the staccato notes of the wedding march, the lights were lowered, the candles flamed high. The bride, standing in the shimmering candlelight in her billowing tulle and lace, was almost ethereal.

The reception following the ceremony was very gay. Large collections of wedding gifts were shown in an ante-room just off the ballroom where the ceremony was performed. One of the most featured gifts was the silver, quite unlike the ordinary run. It was manufactured in Copenhagen and is unusually heavy and unique of design. Pargie selected for her going away tailleur a smart British tan figured crepe model with beige coat and accessories. Later when she boarded the steamer for a cruise in southern waters she trotted out those summery frocks with which her trousseau abounded. Before departing she sent her gorgeous bouquet to Frances Keenan, who was unable to be present at the wedding due to injuries sustained in a recent automobile accident.

Weddings, as old as the hills, yet ever new no matter who is getting married, are always thrilling. Almost as interesting as the wedding pageant was the throng of fashionables milling in and out of the crowds at the reception. We saw Mary Black in black lace and chiffon with her wide-eyed little daughter clutching her hand. Daisy Haas was there in a sophisticated model just the color of her dazzling pansy blue colored eyes. Louise Kellogg was wearing black net ruffled in black velvet. Layton Lamkin, always lovely to look at, wore a striking evening gown of flowered satin with her hair high on her head. Nellie Walke of Shreveport, we are inclined to believe, purchased the gown she was wearing during her recent visit in Mexico. It was rather bizarre in coloring, made severely plain and most becoming. Mamie Dell McGeorge, home from Memphis on a visit, was wearing a turquoise blue lace evening model. Her contagious smile was dimmed, however. She received word earlier in the evening that her young daughter had been hurt in an automobile accident. Nothing serious but nevertheless disturbing and necessitating immediate return to Memphis.

Tommy Sandridge has no superstitions about Friday 13. It was his natal day and just to show those youngsters who predicted disaster what a charmed life is his, he walked under ladders, ran after a black cat, picked up shining pins, spilled salt and looked at the moon over his shoulder. Tommy did everything but drop a mirror just to prove how false the superstition about Friday the 13th. His birthday party would have taken place on Friday but he preferred to have it on Saturday when the whole day was devoted to a good time. Coals burned brightly in the barbecue pits in the Sandridge gardens where Tommy and his pals feasted on sizzling hot steaks, cut a birthday cake after they had spent two blissful hours at the theater.

The Junior league style revue and luncheon on the Cherokee terrace of the Frances hotel on the 19th brings to mind how truly heartbreaking clothes are this season—so feminine and so frilly and lacy. Tweeds are out of the picture after many years and chiffons are most definitely in. There's an old saying that men with tweed sisters marry chiffon wives. Suzanne Kellogg, the indefatiguable Junior leager, is in charge of the revue.

Miss Lorenza Hayes Weds Leslie Cowley

Nuptials Held Last Sunday At Jonesboro Baptist Church; Couple To Make Home At Shreveport

Prominent among the recent weddings in Jonesboro was that of Miss Lorenza Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Hayes of Jonesboro, and Mr. Leslie A. Cowley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie A. Cowley, Sr., of Mansfield, which was celebrated at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Baptist church in Jonesboro with Rev. Guy M. Hicks of Ruston performing the ceremony. A large gathering of friends and relatives were present. Southern smilax and palms interspersed with clusters of white stock and peonies formed the background for this impressive event.

Tall baskets of white peonies flanked the aisle and adorned the arch in the background, where white candlesticks were grouped on either side.

The nuptial music embraced two vocal solos sung by Mrs. Ellie Shepherd of Mansfield, who wore a lovely blue marquisette model and carried a muff corsage of gladiolas. She sang "Because" and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." "Indian Love Call," a violin solo, was rendered by Mr. Ansley Colvin. Mrs. Jack Harrison of Monroe, wearing pale green marquisette with a gladiola corsage, accompanied them at the piano.

Mrs. Billy Hargrove, sister of the bride, wearing pink sheer organza with a full skirt, was matron of honor. The maids, Miss Sarah Robinson in green organza, and Miss Leo Cowley, sister of the groom, wore blue organza models. They carried large bouquets of pink sweetheart roses tied with matching bows of satin ribbon.

Little Harriett Michaud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Michaud of Hodge, dressed in blue taffeta, served as flower girl. Little Jerry Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Mitchell, was the ringbearer.

Mr. Johnny Rogers, of Baton Rouge, served as best man. Mr. Mercer Scott of Natchitoches, and Mr. Dewel Hayes, brother of the bride, were the ushers. The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown of Duchess white satin was made on princess lines. The neckline was high and of hand-made lace fastening at the neck with an heirloom diamond brooch which has been in the Hayes family for over a hundred years.

Triangles of lace were set in the long satin train. Her waist length veil was caught with a tiara of pearls. She carried a cluster of Calla lilies.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Only the bridal party and the immediate members of the family were present. Miss Pauline May, Mrs. Frances Johnstone of Ithaca, N. Y., Miss Evelyn Corbett, Miss Cloteal Irvin, Mrs. Dalla Henry and Mrs. Ed Crowley of Monroe assisted in the dining room. Low bowls of Shasta daisies and white carnations were used in the candle-lighted reception rooms. Later in the evening Mr. Cowley and his bride left on a wedding trip. The bride's traveling dress was a navy alpaca, three-piece model with navy accessories.

After the wedding trip they will make their home in Shreveport, where Mr. Cowley is associated with the parish demonstration agent of Caddo. Mrs. Cowley is a graduate of the Louisiana State Normal, and for the last three years she has been a teacher in the Hodge elementary school. Mr. Cowley holds a degree from the State Normal and also a degree in agriculture from the Louisiana State university. A number of out-of-town guests from Monroe, Ruston, Arcadia, Mansfield and Shreveport were among the guests for the wedding.

St. Joseph's Club Crowns Queen

Members of the St. Joseph's club crowned their queen, Miss Angie Danna, at the May day fete at the Columbus Social hall. Senator James A. Noe officiated.

It was a gala event for members of this club who entertained on a lavish scale and spared no expense in decorating the hall with beautiful flowers. A throne was erected for the coronation of the queen and the king, Mr. Peter Dispensa.

Miss Danna wore a white chiffon and satin model and a crown of white roses. A beautiful arm bouquet of white roses and valley lilies was carried.

Last year's queen, Miss Frances Ann Miano, wearing a beautiful white lace model and an arm bouquet of white lilies, ascended the throne with her escort, Mr. Joseph Cascio, last year's king.

The queen was surrounded by her maids and their knights as follows: Miss Rosalie Marchese and Mr. Philip Embanato; Miss Nona Ticheli and Mr. Charles Miller; Miss Annie Fontana and Mr. Dominic Ladart; Miss Lorethia Ladart and Mr. Darnell Fase; Miss Lena Embanato, Miss Rose Bruno and Mr. Nick Danna.

The flower girls, in pastel shaded organdie gowns, were Phylis Jo Nastasi, Mona Lee Ticheli and Mary Ann Savana. The maids and flower girls all carried arm bouquets of carnations.

The knights all wore white linen suits with boutonnieres of white roses.

Club Meets With Mrs. R. W. Ensminger

Nearing the close of a most profitable and enjoyable year members of the Current Literature club attended with great enthusiasm the inspiring program held at the home of Mrs. R. W. Ensminger last Wednesday afternoon.

"The Seven Who Fled," by Fredric Prokosch, was reviewed in a most enlightening manner by Mrs. J. E. Kersh. The power and poetic beauty of Prokosch's writing, described by Mrs. Kersh, coupled with the tremendous scope of his subject, made this definitely one of the outstanding books reviewed during the club year.

The seven questionable foreigners who for different reasons are forced to flee from a city in the center of Chinese Turkestan, and who join the caravan of a wealthy Chinese merchant, include, a French wanderer and his Spanish wife, an Austrian, a German, a Belgian, an Englishman, and a Russian exile. After crossing the desert and arriving at Aqsu, the party divides, and the fate of each is related in separate books.

Each recalls the pleasures of his youth, and in retrospect, sees the turning point in his life. Gradually there comes the realization that man "is the instrument of his surroundings, no crime or shabbiness is to be condemned absolutely; everything is relative; one can never know everything—if one could, then no doubt one could bring oneself to love even the most hideous, the most contemptible and the most corrupt."

Depth, profoundness, and extreme originality characterize this Harper prize novel. It is a story of extremes in both beauty and horror. Here is a man's awe at the magnificence of frozen mountain peaks, the disgusting filth of a plague-infested city, the peace of a lonely cabin in the forest and the hungry thousands patrolling the banks of the Yangtze river.

Sinclair Lewis' impression of this book was given as follows: "A distinguished novel of great beauty. It embodies all of western man's long dream about the mystery of the dark adventure and feverish color of the Orient, told in style of which any writer would be proud."

Mrs. Kersh closed with this illuminating remark: "Its exquisite prose, its imaginative splendor, and its profound emotional content mark 'The Seven Who Fled,' as a memorable novel."

Refreshing delicacies were served by the hostess to the following members: Mesdames R. L. Conway, Jr., G. W. Guerriero, V. S. Garnett, R. W. Ensminger, Mike John, Jr., Raymond John, J. E. Kersh, J. M. Menefee, Louis Peters, V. T. Porter, Dudley Stone, F. T. Harkness, J. C. Kramer, Jr. Guests of the club were Mrs. Warren Gregory and Mrs. W. L. James.

Mrs. Blanche Oliver Honored At Supper

The cast of "House Shoes and Party Slippers," recently produced by the Little Theater of Monroe, entertained Friday evening in honor of Mrs. Blanche Oliver at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Church.

Cocktails were served in the drawing room and were followed by a delicious buffet supper.

Later in the evening the cast presented Mrs. Oliver with a beautiful azalea plant.

Mrs. Oliver contributed much to the pleasures of the evening when she responded with customary graciousness to the request for a dramatic reading.

The guests were also entertained with several interpretative dance numbers by Rita and Basil Church.

In addition to the guest of honor, those enjoying this charming affair were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Church, Miss Sue Hefley, Miss Elizabeth Benton, Miss Mae Reade, Mr. S. A. Moss, Mr. Henry Haas, Jr., Mr. Eugene Booth, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mayo and Miss Rosalia Kusin.

Charm And Simplicity Characterize Norwood-Hudson Marriage Ceremony

Hotel Virginia Scene Of Impressive Rites

Young Couple Leave On Honeymoon Trip To Central America; Will Live At Lafayette

A wedding of distinctive charm and characterized by elegant simplicity was that of Miss Pargie Hudson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gray Hudson, Jr., of this city, and Mr. Francis Herbert Norwood, son of Mrs. Edwin Louis Norwood of New Orleans and the late Mr. Edwin Louis Norwood of North Carolina and Mississippi, on the ninth of May.

The impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward F. Hayward, rector of Grace Episcopal church, in the presence of a fashionable concourse of relatives and friends in the crystal ballroom of the Virginia hotel at eight o'clock in the evening.

The entire wedding party walked down the white-carpeted aisle to a white canvas-covered dais where Rev. Hayward in his ecclesiastical robes stood with the bridegroom and his best man, Mr. Albert Norwood, to await the bride.

A gold-framed mirror of baronial proportions formed the background and reflected the myriad Madonna lilies, fragrant and exotic, overflowing from classic-shaped, white wrought iron floor standards. A dramatic color note was injected into the bridal theme by the placement of wide-flaring urns filled with American Beauty roses. The cathedralesque atmosphere and ceremonial sanctity were impressively maintained throughout the service, performed by candlelight. The lighting of the candles in tall, white, seven-branched candelabra, arranged in tiers in the background, was an impressive feature.

A white satin prie-dieu, upon which the bride and bridegroom knelt to receive the benediction, was placed before the altar.

Mr. Don Breitenmoser, organist, and Miss Eileen MacKinnon, violinist, rendered a nuptial concert, using Andante Cantabile from Tschaikovsky's string quartette and Second Movement of Mendelssohn's concerto. Lohengrin's wedding march was used for the processional. Mr. Lionel Billeaud, violinist, rendered most impressively "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" during the ceremony.

The wedding party walked down the aisle to the altar. The groomsmen, walking two abreast, were: Messrs. Colvin Gamble Norwood of New Orleans, Mr. Sidney Magee of New York City, Mr. Dean McCormick and Mr. Henry Bernstein, Jr.

The bridesmaids, Miss Leigh Russell and Miss Mary Ed Norwood, wore diaphanous frocks of aquamarine blue tulle over shimmering blue satin. The skirts were long and full and the bodices draped in "V"-shaped neckline with puffed sleeves. They carried arm bouquets of crimson Hollywood roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Sidney Magee, sister of the bride, wore a frock similar to those worn by the bridesmaids and carried an arm bouquet of crimson roses.

The flower girls, Arabella Bancroft and Marguarite Lamkin, wore aquamarine tulle frocks, exact replicas of those worn by the bridesmaids. They wore shining satin ribbons in their hair and carried gilded baskets filled with rose petals which they scattered along the aisle.

The ringbearer, Louisette Trousdale, was also attired in aquamarine tulle over blue satin, with skirt long and full and tight-fitting bodice. She carried the rings attached to a circle of valley lilies tied with silver ribbons.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiantly beautiful in a diaphanous wedding gown fashioned of silvery tulle. The wedding veil of Brussels lace, purchased in Belgium by the bride's mother, swept the floor and billowed far beyond the tulle draperies. It was caught to the head cap fashion, with a spray of orange blossoms. The wedding bouquet was superbly fashioned of orchids and valley lilies with lengths of silver tulle and ribbons.

Immediately following the ceremony a receiving line was formed and the guests pressed forward to extend well wishes.

Mrs. Hudson, the bride's mother, wore an aquamarine chiffon model of charming simplicity. Mrs. E. M. Hudson, the bride's grandmother, wore black lace and an orchid corsage. Mrs. Norwood, the bridegroom's mother, wore pale gray chiffon with a corsage of orchids.

Guests thronged the Cameo room where the bride's table, resplendent with silver, old lace and shimmering candlelight, had for central decor a heart shaped cake with the letters "H. N." inscribed across the surface. Floral designs of considerable finesse encircled the luscious confection. Stately, antique candlesticks graced the four corners. Silver compotes held wedding ring mints and other confections. The cutting of the cake by the bride and bridegroom was a charming and never-to-be-forgotten ceremony.

The guests were served salads, sandwiches, iced frappe and assorted heart shaped gateaux by a corps of white-clad attendants.

Assisting in the courtesies were the bride's aunts, Mrs. Hal Yaeger of Denver and Mrs. Harry Russell. Both wore lovely models of blue chiffon with corsages of roses and valley lilies.

A lavish collection of wedding gifts was on display in an ante-room. Conspicuous among the gifts was the handsome George Jensen silver, made in Sweden, and of most skillful design and workmanship. A full set of silver was noted with considerable heirloom silver, intermingled. A full set of Royal Copenhagen china was noted and many odd pieces of silver, including silver goblets and trays. A full set of Swedish crystal was also noted.

The bride changed her wedding raiment for a smart ensemble of British tan figured crepe with beige coat and all accessories in perfect harmony. A corsage of orchids added a note of distinction.

Mr. and Mrs. Norwood left for New Orleans and sailed on Wednesday for a honeymoon cruise to Central America including a visit in Havana. Upon their return they will be at home in Lafayette where Mr. Norwood is engaged in business.

The bride, a lovely girl of culture and charm and unusual talents, attended Sophie Newcomb college in New Orleans where she was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. She also attended the Chicago Art institute where her talent for drawing was developed. She is widely traveled. In company with her mother, the former Miss True Marshall of Vicksburg, and her sister who is now Mrs. Sidney Magee of New York City, she traveled extensively in Europe.

Mrs. Norwood was born and reared in Monroe where her father is a prominent attorney. Her paternal grandfather, the late F. G. Hudson, was a distinguished member of the bar and a senior member of the firm of which his son is now the senior member. The ante-bellum gardens where the Hudson home, known as Sycamore Hall, once stood, are among the most beautiful in the city.

Mr. Norwood attended Wentworth Military academy at Lexington, Mo. His mother was formerly Miss Mary Majors.

Guests from out of town attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Magee of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Yaeger of Denver, Colo.; Mrs. E. E. Matteson of Weehawken, N. J.; Dr. and Mrs. Frank Walke and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Redding of Shreveport; Mrs. A. D. Long of Jackson, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Billeaud of Broussard, La.; Mrs. Harold McGeorge and Mrs. Verna Watts of Memphis, Tenn.; Mr. Robert Magee and Miss Annie Majors of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Allen G. Thurmon II of El Dorado, Ark.; Mr. Edward LeBreton of New Orleans; Miss Mary Ed Norwood and Mrs. Edwin Louis Norwood, Sr., of New Orleans; Mr. Albert Majors Norwood of New Orleans; Mr. Scott Hammond of Oklahoma City; and Mrs. Louis Cowan, Mrs. Henry Starling and Miss Louise Starling of Greenville, Miss.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell were summoned to the bedside of their daughter, Miss Hazel Mitchell, a student at the state university in Baton Rouge. Her condition is greatly improved.

Soiree Given By Music Guild

A musical soiree at the Lotus club last week attracted friends of the Music guild who entertained during the tea hour.

Mrs. J. Norman Coon, assisted by members of the guild, welcomed with characteristic graciousness the guests who assembled in the flower-banked lounge where punch was served by Mrs. R. W. Cretney from a crystal bowl imbedded in a mound of flowers. A coterie of beautifully gowned young matrons served a variety of delicious confections.

The highlight of the program was the opening number by a chorus of voices directed by Mrs. Dallas Goss. "Nightfall in Granada," by Bueno, was charmingly rendered. "Morning," by Grieg, was presented as an encore.

The musical program was diversified with a dramatic reading by Mrs. Coon, who introduced the program as follows:

Piano solo, "Polonaise Militaire," by Chopin, played by Mrs. E. Everett Lawson.

String trio, "Brahms Lullaby," played by Mrs. F. C. Holden, Mrs. Louise Averett and Mrs. Raymond Spence.

Vocal solo, "Still as the Night," by Bohm, sung by Mrs. Lockwood Webb.

Two pianos, selection from Tschaikowsky, by Mrs. Charles Gaushell, Mrs. Raymond Spence, Mrs. F. C. Holden and Mrs. R. Hopkins.

Violin solo, "Concerto No. 9, Adagio," by Charles De Beriot, played by Mrs. Louise Averett, piano, Mrs. Raymond Spence.

Reading, Mrs. J. Norman Coon.

Vocal solo, "Estrelita," by Ponce, sung by Mrs. Wilfred K. Scroggin.

Piano solo, "Toccata in D Minor," by Bach, played by Mrs. Dallas Goss.

Chorus, "In a Luxembourg Garden," by Manning-Baldwin, and "Through the Starry Night," by Repper.

Federated Clubs Back Youth Movement

"Draw youth into the club" was the most avidly discussed theme in the meeting of the state presidents from the forty-eight states, at Hotel Muehlebach, in Kansas City last week.

Most of the state presidents were women who long ago had won their laureis in club circles. Their personal ambitions were behind them. Ahead lay the growth of the general federation as their aim in club work. Mrs. Merrill Procter Ludlow, Vermont, president of the Vermont federation, presided, assisted by Mrs. George Marshall, Mt. Airy, N. C., who guided the discussion sympathetically.

The junior club movement, started more than a decade ago, caught the prospective clubwomen early. In fact, in many states young women of 16 years often join the junior group and are graduated into the senior clubs at the age of 30.

The attendance of Lena Masden Phillips, president of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, was significant in bringing the interests of the young career women in harmony with those of the general federation. The junior club membership numbers 70,000 throughout the nation. More than 150 junior delegates attended the federation.

"We must aim for a common meeting ground between the junior and senior clubs, in order that the life of the clubwoman is uninterrupted from the junior group into the senior group," a speaker said. "The events of marriage and a career should be binding influences to the young woman in her club life. Every senior clubwoman should foster in her heart as well as in her club work the building of junior club members into senior club members."

The mature clubwoman realizes that today there are many organizations for the young woman to consider. In the older woman's youth there were only one or two clubs in any community that could offer the advantages of club life. Today the federations offer continuity and national scope.

"Win them early," is the slogan of every clubwoman's heart and she means by that to see that the young women of her family, of her community and of her state are enrolled early in the junior groups and from that she keeps her eye right on them until they are in the senior clubs and active in federation projects.

"Gone is the day when a woman joins a club after she gets her children in college and her husband is a success in business," said Mrs. David Long, Harrisonville, Mo., general chairman of the convention, who herself was one of the most ardent champions of the junior club work of Missouri. "Today every community should have a junior club as well as a senior federated club that forms the ever-marching army of women who are champions for everything good for their homes, states and nation."

P.-T. A. Groups Hold Last Meeting Of Year

Sherrouse Organization Gives Lawn Party To Honor Dr. Phillips For Work Accomplished

The Sherrouse P.-T. A. gave a beautiful lawn party at the school Thursday. This was given in appreciation of Dr. Hosea Phillips' service to the pupils of the third and fourth grades. Dr. Phillips has been teaching them, by direct method, conversational French.

This experiment, suggested by the state superintendent of education has been carried on very successfully throughout the year. At this meeting Dr. Phillips explained in a very interesting manner, the initiation of the project and gave detailed plans for the completion of the year's work.

As a token of their appreciation for all the work and time that Dr. Phillips has devoted to this experiment, the third and fourth grade children presented a gift to him. Edward Brown made the presentation of the gift.

Mrs. Clifford Benson and Mrs. H. M. James were responsible for the details of the social hour. The table was covered with beautiful Venetian lace. Sweet peas and Queen Anne's lace were used for the floral decorations. Small cookies beautifully embossed in pastel colors were served with deliciously refreshing punch.

The children who assisted in serving and extending other courtesies during the afternoon were Dorothy Virginia Younse, Elizabeth Siegle, Betty Benson, Jacquelyn James, Ruth Horton, Dorothy Marie Saucier, Johnny Lou McCarthy, Jean Hemler and Lucille Brossett.

Among those present besides the P.-T. A. members were Mr. E. L. Neville, Miss Marjorie Oliver, and Miss Myrtle Rogers.

Miss Carrie Williams was declared winner of the safety poster, and Billy J. Bagwell winner of the birdhouse building contests.

The room mother count was taken and the third grade won the prize for most mothers present.

Oak Ridge P.-T. A. Holds Last Meeting

The Oak Ridge school P.-T. A. held its final meeting of the term Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Clarence Wasson, past president, installed the officers for the coming school year as follows: Mrs. Joe Cater, president; Mrs. John Jordan, vice-president; Mrs. Sam Smith, secretary and treasurer; and Mrs. Earl Barham, publicity chairman.

Mrs. Robert Hathcox's room received the dollar for having the greatest number of mothers present. Mrs. Earl Barham received the certificate for "roundup" work for the second time. A white lily was presented to eight members for a perfect yearly attendance.

A social hour was enjoyed after the business session when refreshments were served.

Miss Eve Bradford Feted On Birthday

Mrs. Walter J. Meyer and Mrs. Thomas J. Sandridge entertained members of their night card club on board the Brown Kraft Friday afternoon and named Miss Eve Bradford, whose birthday anniversary was observed on this day, the guest of honor.

Beautiful gifts were showered upon the celebrant by those present, those who were unable to attend and others who remembered the date of the celebrant's anniversary.

The trip up the river, on board the Brown Kraft, was one of the highlights of the afternoon. Later anchor was dropped in D'Arbonne and cards enjoyed until the refreshment hour. A supper course, unusually delectable, was served at green linen, silver appointed tables to Mrs. Thomas Sullivan, Mrs. Janet Powell, Mrs. Alice Nelson Briggs, Mrs. Bert Williams, Mrs. Samuel Ivy, Mrs. J. T. Conger, Mrs. Travis Oliver, Mrs. Arthur Dryburgh, Miss Olive Martin, Mrs. R. R. Beaman, Mrs. Charles Reid, Miss Bradford and the hostesses.

Barkdull Faulk P.-T. A. Holds Final Meeting

The Barkdull Faulk P.-T. A. held the last meeting of the school year on the afternoon of May 12.

Mrs. C. W. Williams presided over the business session. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Douglas Jenkins. Reports from the chairmen of the standing committees showed a most successful year's work.

At this time Mrs. Carl Couch, fifth district chairman, installed the officers to serve for the coming year: Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, president; Mrs. M. S. Hortman, first vice-president; Mrs. Douglas Jenkins, secretary, and Mrs. R. G. Stewart, treasurer.

Mrs. N. N. Colburn, who has served as treasurer for four years, was presented with a gift in appreciation of her competent work in this position.

Mrs. R. G. Stewart, program chairman, presented the school band, led by Lawrence Colburn in the absence of Mr. Gaushell. They gave three of the numbers which they recently played at Baton Rouge in the state band contest and for which they were awarded a superior rating.

Three members of the band, Nettigene Williams, Ardath Sammons and Barbara Crowe, entertained as a saxophone trio.

Miss Barr, of the Ouachita parish health unit, spoke on the "Value of the Summer Roundup." She told of an interesting experiment carried out in Kansas City at an "open-air school" for the correction of a pre-tubercular group. The information obtained in the summer checkup was used to determine those children whose defects needed correction.

Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, who represented this organization as a delegate, gave a report of the state convention held in New Orleans April 21, 22, 23.

At the conclusion of the program the parents were counted. Mrs. White's first grade won the attendance award. A social hour, was enjoyed in the school cafeteria with the hospitality committee serving as hostesses.

W. R. Mitchell P.-T. A. Holds Final Meeting

The Parent-Teacher association of the W. R. Mitchell school, West Monroe, held its final meeting of the current school year last week.

The announcement of the resignation of Mrs. John Ward, who was elected president at the April meeting, necessitated another election, which resulted in the elevation of Mrs. O. T. Taylor as head of the association for the 1938-39 school year.

Mrs. Taylor previously had been elected secretary. Mrs. Ralph White was elected to that post.

Among matters discussed at the session were the summer round-up and the care of the school yard during the summer months. The association showed a balance of over $30 in the treasury.

Betty Jean Gentry rendered a piano selection.

The first grade won the prize for having the most mothers present. The total attendance was 40.

ARE YOU planning to celebrate the opening of Monroe's swimming season, Sunday, May 22, when the new R. D. Swayze natatorium in Forsythe park will be available to the public for the first time? That will be an event which every merchant who deals in aquatic togs is elaborately preparing. And it will be something to write home about, that you were among the first to take a dip in the cool, sparkling waters of Monroe's magnificent $130,000 natatorium—finest of its kind in the south. You should be proud of the efforts and the enterprise our city commission have displayed in making this wonderful recreation facility available to the people of this city. I can think of nothing that will give our "Queen City of the Ouachita" more favorable attention throughout the country than our beautiful natatorium.

MONROE HAS never seen such a display of bathing suits before as Ferd Levi Stationery company is showing this season . . . and with such a swimming season ahead of us, every man, woman and child should invest in a good GANTNER swim suit. I especially noticed the new satin elastic for men and women in all colors that looked too beautiful to "duck" into the water, but water only makes them more attractive . . . so, if it's "class" you want, Levi's is the place. Graduation and bride gifts are also ready for your selection at Levi's. Phone 208 . . . located at 107 DeSiard street.

WALGREEN DRUG STORE has brought to us that very popular perfume called TRIOMPH from Grasse the perfume city of the Mediterranean. I am told this perfume is made from a tiny little jasmine flower simular to an orange blossom that grows in abundance on the mountain side. Its fragrance is exhilarating and has lasting odors that improve with age. Walgreen has the exclusive dealership in Monroe on TRIOMPH perfume and it sells for $1.00 per dram, individual bottles $2.75, $5.00 and $8.50. For the graduate: Leon Laraine cosmetics, dusting powder, manicure sets at $2.85, vanities $1.00 and $2.50, complete sets, etc. Visit Walgreen . . . it's the shopping center of the city.

DID YOU notice the very attractive photograph in Griffin's Studio window this week? . . . Yes, it carries a blue ribbon winner . . . from the Southwestern Photographers association which is just another proof of the high type work that our own, Griffin's Studio produces. Of course, you graduates are planning to have your photographs made at Griffin's in your various new gowns that you have planned for this event? . . . Nothing is too good for the graduates and a GRIFFIN portrait is a necessity to the girl or boy who wants this occasion worked out to the finest detail. Phone 6, make your appointment.

MY! And are we getting the latest and finest commodities in our community! . . . Air-conditioned bread is the newest on the list . . . BUTTER-KRUST has given it to us . . . Already a good bread . . . made better. Have you tried it lately? Get it fresh at any grocery store, restaurant or sandwich stand . . . in the black and white wrapper. You'll agree with me that it is the best bread on the market and meets the approval of every particular housewife.

HEY . . . YOU fellows! Remember tomorrow is the day to get that bathing suit at D. Masur's. Sunday is the day to show it off! Gee, but you're going to have fun . . . and how! D. Masur is ready with all the new styles in Jantzen bathing suits for men and boys. While you are there, ask to see the new graduation suits. Yes, now is the time to attend to this important matter. From now on . . . lots will be on your mind . . . so get busy and see D. Masur & Sons tomorrow.

GRADUATION DRESSES . . . only $1.00! Think of that . . . My! My! How fortunate the graduates are this year . . . The Orchid Shop is a new store established in our shopping district and are offering unheard of values that the thrifty graduate cannot afford to pass up. They have brought to Monroe shoppers, values and savings that make history. Here is a hint, girls: The Orchid Shop is staging their dollar sale again and, by the way, is the very last one of the year . . . so buy your graduation and baccalaureate dresses—both for the price you ordinarily pay for one dress. Buy any coat, dress or suit in the store at regular price and get another of equal value for only $1.00.

HAVE YOU HEARD? Or will I be the designated one to tell you about it? . . . Anyway, the community is simply infested with "THIEVES." . . . Yes, they're a secret lot working in every closet in Monroe where there is a fur coat hanging . . . Now that you know . . . I might as well tell you straight from the shoulder, it's MOTHS . . . those pests that steal the beauty from every woolen or fur garment. In fact . . . the hungry things eat their fill without any warning . . . So, here is a deadly weapon . . . Phone 102 and 103 . . . The Monroe Steam Laundry features that certified COLD FUR STORAGE and it works like magic in the protection of those expensive garments.

National Hospital And Homecoming Day Celebrated At St. Francis Sanitarium

Many Guests Attend Elaborate Tea Affair

Doctors, Their Wives And Members Of Auxiliary Serve As Hosts For Occasion

One of the most auspicious and eventful days in the history of St. Francis sanitarium took place on Wednesday when National Hospital day was celebrated in conjunction with Homecoming day.

Doctors and their wives and members of the St. Francis auxiliary welcomed friends who thronged the corridors of the sanitarium. A silver tea in the main lobby attracted the guests, who were served luscious confections. The tea table, developed entirely in white, had for central ornamentation a handsome silver ornament encircled with gardenias. White tapers in silver candelabra burned at intervals along the board.

All guests were requested to register in a beautifully bound book designed and executed by Mrs. L. V. Tarver, one of Monroe's most gifted writers. The book bound in silver was beautifully designed and inscribed with verses inspired by the twenty-fifth anniversary of the sanitarium.

The corridors and ante-rooms of the sanitarium were banked with gift flowers overflowing from beautiful baskets, sent as an expression of appreciation from friends in every walk of life.

In the main auditorium, St. Francis graduate nurses were hostesses to all who were born in the sanitarium during the past twenty-five years. The guest of honor on this occasion was Faulkner Blanks, the first child born in the sanitarium. He was introduced to the assemblage by Dr. J. Q. Graves, who was a conspicuous figure on this occasion. He has been prominently identified with the sanitarium ever since he first established his medical practice in this city.

The nurses in immaculate uniforms extended numerous courtesies to the young mothers, hundreds of them, who were delighted to show their interest in homecoming day and to manifest their appreciation of the attention received at the hands of the nurses.

Everyone who called during the receiving hours felt a personal interest in the nurses who, through one type of work or another, come in close contact with that most universal interest of mankind—health. Doctors carry a less personal association. They arrive like a gust of fresh air, take the temperature, count the pulse, write some strange characters on a sheet of paper and depart. But the nurse is on hand throughout the day and night, giving orders, listening to troubles, serenely superior in impeccable white.

Naturally unusual public interest was attracted by the observance of homecoming day at St. Francis sanitarium, as the nurses were in charge of the details and responsible for the atmosphere of congeniality radiating in every section.

Handsome gifts of silver were on display, prominent among them being a silver tea and coffee service, silver bowls and trays, silver platters, pitchers, and candlesticks. These gifts were presented to the sanitarium by the doctors and nurses on the staff.

One department, of unusual interest and the most widely visited during the day, was the children's ward where countless children whose parents are unable to give them the proper care and medical attention are cared for lovingly and skillfully. This ward, sponsored by St. Francis auxiliary, is their main project and by far one of the greatest humanitarian gestures of which any organization is capable. The ward, large and sunny, is equipped with confortable little beds, beautiful pictures, toys and above all surrounded with an atmosphere of peace, comfort and good will.

Oak Grove

Miss Nina Love Gunter and Thurman Pippin were host and hostess to the Commercial club of the Oak Grove High school at the home of Miss Gunter.

J. Hollis and children, Miss Earnestine Hollis, Charles Lamar Hollis, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Colvin, Charles Edward Colvin, Hugh Colvin, of Bernice; George Hollis of Farmerville.

Special services commemorating Mother's day were held at the Baptist church here. Beautiful baskets of flowers were given to Mrs. J. M. Odom as the oldest mother present, Mrs. J. B. Hollis as the mother of most children, Mrs. C. T. Sally as the mother of most children present, Mrs. Truett Sally as the youngest mother.

Frock For General Wear

Molded on Empire lines with a full skirt and slenderizing waistline, this charming dress of fine swiss cloque organdy with delicate multi-color floral motif would be ideal for the maid of honor at a garden wedding. In plain white and with appropriate hat or headdress, the bride herself might like it for an at home or garden ceremony.

Clarks

The annual mother-daughter banquet was held in the home economics cottage with members of the Clarks Junior Homemakers club, and Miss Elsie Sutton, home economics teacher, as hostesses. The affair was held this year in commemoration of Mother's day. Because of the unusually large number of mothers present and the well planned program, the occasion proved to be one of the most enjoyable socials sponsored by this department in many years.

The state club colors, purple and yellow, were carried out in the floral arrangement and in the appointments of the banquet table. Miss LeTaine Knowles, program chairman, presided as toastmaster.

The program was as follows: State club song, club girls; toast to the mothers, Miss Carmon Gerlach; response, Mrs. V. E. Lewis; song, "Little Old Lady," Miss Elaine Ferguson; "The Bond Between Mothers and Daughters," Mrs. Paul Jones; "Value of Home Economics From a Man's Viewpoint," H. O. Cooksey; pledge to the mothers, the daughters; pledge to the daughters, the mothers.

An interesting feature of the affair was the ability and the pride in service shown by a group of young men students selected from the high school who served as waiters, pantrymen, chefs, and kitchen-aides for the banquet. This group included Bobbie Corbin, W. E. McKenzie, Jr., Junior Antley; Stuart Richman, Ronald Sellers, Laurence Rogers, Willie B. Perkins and John Edward Nethery.

Those present were: Mrs. Beulah Cobb, Miss Harrietta Cobb, Mrs. W. N. Johnson, Miss Juanita Johnson, Mrs. A. R. Crabtree, Miss LeTaine Knowles, Mrs. Evans Reitzell, Miss Virginia Reitzell, Mrs. V. E. Lewis, Miss Le Verne Lewis, Mrs. M. D. Ballard, Miss Mildred Ballard, Mrs. E. M. Carter, Miss Elsie Carter, Mrs. J. D. Richman, Miss Winnie Richman, Miss Dorothy Richman, Mrs. C. C. Present were Miss Louis Bonnett, Janie Wallace, Juanita Frith, Willie Laine Fowler, Bernice Hobbs, Wilda Phillips, Fred Clark, Bernard Head, Rayville Fuller, and J. B. Taylor. Chaperons were: Mrs. L. W. McBride, Mrs. H. P. McBride, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Walters, and Mrs. Jimmie McCormick, Miss Helen McCormick, class sponsor.

Mrs. Mary Bonnett, who recently underwent an operation, for appendicitis at the St. Francis sanitarium, is now convalescing.

Shoe factories within a 150-mile radius of St. Louis produced 72,000,000 pairs of shoes in 1937 with a wholesale value of $165,000,000.

GRADUATION DRESSES FOR 1938

Swirling skirts and intriguing bodices contribute to the femininity of these 1938 graduation frocks. Dotted swiss (white peppered with blue) makes the one at left, designed with one of the new long sweater bodices and piped in blue. At right is a frock of white shadow-printed swiss cloque organdy trimmed with lace edging and accented with a black velvet bow and buttons.

Tullos

Mrs. C. H. Timberlake and daughter, Charline, and Georgia Younger, of Alexandria, were the week-end guests of C. H. Timberlake.

Mrs. J. M. Beebe and little son, Ronnie, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sedberry in Crossett, Ark.

Mrs. Jimmie Bardin and little daughter, Mary Ann, are visiting Mrs. W. A. Taunton in Marion.

Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Bird returned to their home after a visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dannell, of Sherman, Tex.

Miss Lonnie Parker returned to her home in Clarks after a visit with Miss Mildred Roy.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Tyson had as their guests, Mrs. Sam Curry and Mrs. W. G. Tyson of Stephens, Ark., and Mrs. Dave McCoy of Magnolia, Ark. Tommy Dave Tyson returned home with them for a visit.

Mrs. M. M. Thompson and children spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ultzsch, in Monroe.

The Tullos Methodist Missionary society met at the church for the regular monthly business meeting and to study the last two chapters of "Rebuilding Rural America." The meeting opened by singing "Bringing in the Sheaves," followed by prayer led by Mrs. H. E. Mayes. After the roll call and reading of the minutes, Mrs. Hal DePriest read a letter from Mrs. Dunford, urging all members to attend the district meeting in Alexandria, Tuesday, May 10. Joann Gathright was the child selected to be made a life member. Mrs. Coleman appointed on the cook book committee, Mrs. Tyson, Mrs. Weaver, Mrs. Mayes and Fern Benson. Mrs. Mayes taught the mission study and asked that the findings committee be prepared to make a report. After singing "Blessed Assurance," the meeting was closed with prayer led by Rev. E. W. Day. Members present were Mrs. C. E. Coleman, Mrs. Glen Tyson, Mrs. H. E. Mayes, Mrs. Hal DePriest, Mrs. Herbert DePriest, Mrs. Herbert Russell, Mrs. W. O. Weaver, Mrs. E. R. Brewer, Mrs. Karl Thompson, Mrs. E. O. Brown, Mrs. J. C. Biggs, Fern Benson and Rev. E. W. Day.

The Tullos Baptist W. M. S. met at the church for the regular monthly business meeting. The roll was called and the various committees gave their monthly report. Members present were Mmes. J. N. Waddell, I. G. LeBaron, Dave Young, T. L. LeBaron, Dot Weems, Julia Guinn, W. D. Peters, A. H. Carver, T. M. Higdon, A. F. Harp, Delia Holmes, Pauline Craddox, A. H. Keene, Corley, W. B. Bamburg, Lizzie East, E. O. Brackman, P. A. Craig, O. C. Reed, W. Allbritton, L. D. Flanagin, A. J. Norsworthy, Hargrove, Dot Craddox, G. B. Norris, Sam David, F. W. Hart, Floyd, A. Morris, Hawthorne, Gammill, Chevallier, Duke, and one visitor, Rev. Hart's mother.

Mrs. Sam David and Mrs. I. G. Le Baron entertained the Rebecca circle of the W. M. U. The meeting opened with prayer after which Mrs. Tommy Marshall of Joinerville, Tex. gave an inspiring devotional. After discussion of business matters and roll call the members and visitors were served with refreshments. Members present were Mesdames N. C. Thompson, M. A. McAdams, W. A. Albritton, A. J. Norsworthy, L. M. Matthews, Sam David, E. O. Brackman, W. C. Hollaway, D. W. Taylor, Anna Thompson, Verda Thompson, I. G. LeBaron, Mrs. C. C. Duke, Mrs. L. R. Duke, Miss Maude Scarbroughm, Mrs. James Crutchfield and Mrs. Tommie Marshall.

E. O. Brackman is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Brackman, in Shreveport.

Mrs. Tommie Marshall and little son, Tommie Wayne, returned to their home in Joinerville, Tex., after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Brackman. Her sister, Mrs. Norman Thompson, and children returned home with them.

Mrs. Lynn Steed entertained members of the Placid Bridge club in her home. Mrs. Glen Tyson was awarded high score prize and Mrs. Hayden Mallory the traveling prize. Refreshments were served to the following guests: Mrs. H. L. Allbritton, Mrs. J. O. Payne, Mrs. T. E. Watts, Mrs. Hayden Mallory, Mrs. Karl Thompson, Mrs. Norman Thompson, Mrs. W. B. Thompson, Mrs. Glen Tyson, Mrs. H. H. Stewart, Mrs. T. M. Rabb, Fern Benson and the hostess, Mrs. Lynn Steed.

Miss Mavis Flowers spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Flowers, in Summerville.

The New York Philharmonic society in 1842 organized the first symphony orchestra in the United States.

Waterproof

Mr. and Mrs. Blanton Evans, Mrs. Lucille Watson and Dalton Watson spent the week-end in Crowley, La., as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roth.

Miss Doris Naff, Salvo Testa, Miss Anna L. Rogillio and William Greaves made a tour of the southern part of the state. Among the places visited were Alexandria, Crowley, New Iberia, Lafayette and Avery's island.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Coleman spent several days in New Orleans.

Rev. and Mrs. S. N. Harris entertained the senior and junior classes of the Presbyterian Sunday school with a wiener roast. About 25 young people enjoyed this affair.

The Woman's Missionary society met in the home of Mrs. L. B. Hunter with Mrs. M. Tims as hostess. A short business session was conducted by Mrs. Mitchell after which the third lesson of "Rebuilding Rural America" was presented by Mesdames Smith and Lancaster. The fourth lesson was assigned the Mesdames Collins and Tims.

During the social hour, a "Flower" contest was presented by the hostess. The prize winner was Mrs. Boykin.

Refreshments were served by the hostess at the conclusion of the meeting.

ELECTRICAL REFRIGERATION AND HOME APPLIANCE WEEK FEATURED

Science Devises Equipment To Relieve Much Drudgery

Local Dealers Stress Values Of Various Items For Household Use

Emancipation from drudgery is science's gift to modern women and has at last outmoded the old adage that "a woman's work is never done."

In order to bring this fact forcibly before the housewives and the menfolk of Monroe, local merchants have designated the week beginning today as "Electrical Refrigeration and Home Appliance Week," and have arranged for special displays of all home appliances which contribute so much to the comfort and economy of the modern home.

Monroe merchants have long been noted for their progressiveness and were among the first in the south to exploit mechanical refrigeration and other mechanical household appliances and to offer their advantages to the buying public. Marching with the times local dealers have consistently kept abreast of all new developments in the line of mechanical refrigeration and home appliances and this week dealers engaged in the marketing of mechanical refrigeration and household appliances are staging individual "shows" in their respective places of business during which they are displaying the latest developments in these scientific and modern home appliances which have done so much during the past decade to emancipate the modern women from the old-time household drudgery.

Visitors to the stores included in the group will have opportunities to view the latest in mechanical refrigeration and home appliances and to receive useful gifts. The individual "expositions" will be very attractive and instructive and residents of Monroe and the surrounding trade territory are urged to visit the stores.

Mechanical home appliances have dealt a knockout blow to the endless monotony of back-breaking and nerve-wracking tasks that faced the old-fashioned housekeeper. Due to science's marvelous new contrivances, the housewife served by these mechanical robots has an opportunity for relaxation and rest and consequently is able to enjoy her home and family in a more fulsome manner than was the case when the day's end saw her all "tuckered" out, cross and ill-tempered.

While these marvelous mechanical contrivances make the woman's task about the house infinitely easier and pleasanter, they also loom largely in the matter of economy by reason of the fact that they accomplish many of the household tasks much quicker and easily and at the same time replace old-fashioned gadgets which not only were inefficient but had to be constantly replaced. It is no longer a question as to whether these appliances are money-savers. The question today is how much money does such and such an appliance save the housewife and the family budget.

The modern kitchen today provides for the step by step purchase of refrigerator, range, water heater, and other appliances, so that when the entire equipment cannot be purchased at one time the several appliances can be added a few months apart until the kitchen is completely furnished. Thus the electric refrigerator, which makes possible many savings in the food budget, actually pays for itself in a relatively brief period. The electric refrigerator saves by enabling the homemaker to take advantage of quantity buying and special week-end sales. Then there are the savings which accrue from being able to keep "left-overs" until they can be used, and the saving in being able to keep milk and other perishables safely at temperatures constantly below 50 degrees.

The electric range, too, contributes a saving to the family budget. Because the oven of the electric range is tightly closed, meats and other foods are less likely to shrink and lose weight in cooking. There is a saving in the household cleaning bill because the electric range does not smoke up the house or cover curtains with soot. Painting and redecorating need be done less frequently.

There is actual economy for the housewife in the saving in time which she gains from oven meals, because her automatic electric range requires no constant watching. Public approval of the electric range has definitely been established as shown by a recent check which indicates that the growth of this industry in the last few years has been nothing short of phenomenal. It is estimated that most conveniences require a 20-year period to become popularized and to reach the first million users. The remarkable recent growth indicates that while 50,000 electric ranges were sold during 1933, a total of more than 400,000 were sold during last year.

In the earlier days when electric refrigeration and home appliances were new to the general public these scientific developments were conceived of as individual devices that only the rich could hope to own. But the passage of time and exhaustive study of engineers specializing in this particular field have changed the picture so that the average homeowner can now possess not one, but all the home appliances which go to equip the modern kitchen and home.

Woman's workshop is primarily her kitchen where she spends most of her time and most of the family's funds. And it is with the problem of equipping woman's workshop that the engineers have been most concerned.

Starting with the automatic refrigerator, they moved on to the electric range, and from the range to the dishwasher, and from the dishwasher to the garbage disposal unit, while they interspersed such equipment as automatic washing machines, electrically operated mixers of tremendous labor-saving versatility, and other smaller appliances.

The equipment for woman's workshop is virtually complete. The organization of the workshop into an efficient labor and money-saving unit was the next step, and the time has now come when the modern kitchen may be viewed by every husband as a proud possibility for his wife.

The new home appliances which go on display during Electrical Refrigeration and Home Appliance week here reflect that possibility strongly. Beginning with the refrigerator which for 1938 has been developed into an amazingly efficient device, to the electric range which in its turn has won wide acceptance on sheer merit and economy, the panoramic picture of modern housekeeping will be presented.

Cost of the fuel necessary to operate these devices has been reflecting a downward trend. Efficiency of the appliances themselves has been greatly enhanced; terms on which units may be bought individually or collectively are liberal and may in some instances have the benefit of government aid under FHA terms.

To achieve a modern kitchen need not mean that all of the appliances have to be bought at once. The housewife should select those needed most and plan to acquire the balance for the home over a period of time.

Into the scheme of the home and of housekeeping has come a new note. With the development of modern appliances has come a concommitant enhancement of their appearance. Take the electric washing machine for example. Once the laundry was relegated to the basement or the outhouse. Design of new electric washers, however, has reached that state of artistry where they are being rolled into the home workshop—the kitchen—to complete the unit.

The modern family owes itself a home equipped with modern appliances.

HOME APPLIANCES TO BE FEATURED

Modern Appliance Company To Have Special Display During Week

General Electric home appliances will be well featured during the present Electrical Refrigeration and Home Appliance week by the Modern Appliance company, located at the corner of DeSiard and North Grand streets, owned and operated by Colonel A. J. Sichterman.

Included in the special displays for the week are the 1938 General Electric refrigerators, featuring new convenience features and now operating economy. These refrigerators are popularly priced and distributors claim they save the purchaser in three ways—on low first cost, low current cost and low upkeep. The General Electric refrigerator is oil cooling for enduring economy. This feature contributes to fast freezing, more cold with less current, long life, and the simple, quiet, sealed-in-steel Monitor mechanism is the product of 60 years of electrical experience.

The Modern Appliance company owns exclusive franchise for Ouachita parish for General Electric home appliances featuring all lines, including General Electric refrigerator units, washing machines, ironers, dishwashers and disposables, radios, attic ventilation represented by the Ventura fan, manufactured by the American Blower company and distributed by General Electric, as well as minor accessories, including electric roasters, ice cream freezers, electric clocks, etc.

The personnel of the concern besides Colonel Sichterman, includes Captain C. J. Hutson, sales manager; R. B. Owen, Mrs. Warner Hume and A. R. Scott.

Representatives of the Modern Appliance company have been appointed at Bastrop and Ruston to serve customers in Morehouse and Lincoln parishes, Colonel Sichterman stated.

Visitors to the Modern Appliance company's store during Electrical Refrigeration and Home Appliance week are invited to register for the free one-gallon electric ice cream freezer to be given away Saturday, May 21.

FOOD ECONOMY

One of the greatest economies that can result from having ample and modern automatic refrigeration in the home is in the purchase of foods which may be bought in quantities when market prices are low, and stored safely for long periods.

ELECTRIC RANGE WINNING PUBLIC FAVOR RAPIDLY

Public approval of the electric range has definitely been established as shown by recently available figures which indicate that the growth of the industry in the last few years has been nothing short of phenomenal.

It is estimated that most conveniences require a 20-year introductory period to reach the first million users and this has been the experience with the electric range which ended this period in 1933.

The second million are usually not expected to be in use until the end of the next five-year period, but during the four years from 1933 to 1937, well over a million additional electric ranges were sold.

The remarkable recent growth is shown by the following figures which were supplied by a Westinghouse official.

Year	Electric Ranges Sold
1933	50,000
1934	123,000
1935	215,000
1936	318,000
1937	400,000

ATTIC VENTILATION ADDS TO COMFORT

Bar-Brook attic ventilation is the answer to sensible summer comfort. With Bar-Brook installed one receives summer comfort and sound sleep the economical way. It is stated that during the day with the outside temperature 100 degrees the dead air in your attic reaches 135 degrees and your whole house becomes an oven with an inside temperature of 105 degrees. At night the outside temperature drops to 75 or 80 degrees, but the attic gives off heat very slowly. As a result, the inside of the house is still 100 degrees. With attic ventilation, all the accumulated warm air is exhausted through the attic and the temperature will register around 75 degrees. Bar-Brook ventilation is sold in Monroe by the Home Appliance company.

FOR THE FARM

Electrical conveniences for the farm include refrigerators, ranges, water heaters, water pumps, washing machines, ironers, vacuum cleaners, sewing machines and all the small appliances like mixers and toasters.

QUICK DRIVE TO FAIR

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—(Special)—World's fair sports programs on Treasure island next year will be only 10 minutes from downtown Oakland and San Francisco via the new $77,000,000 bay bridge.

NEW 1938 NORGE MUCH IMPROVED

Passman Equipment Company Introduces Latest Models Here

The Norge division of Passman Equipment company, located at 110 St. John street, announces improvements for its 1938 line of mechanical refrigerators that include 12 different interior shelving arrangements, and with the use of a new adjustable insert shelves large objects can be stored without sacrificing space.

Another new feature for the 1938 Norge which will be demonstrated to visitors at Passman Equipment company during Electric Refrigeration and Home Appliance week, is the completely sealed odor-proof ice compartment. Ice cubes are now produced 25 per cent faster and removed much quicker from the new convenience trays.

Other 1938 Norge features include a nine-point cold control on the panel above the ice compartment, an automatic floodlight which eliminates blind groping for articles on the rear shelves, and newly designed accessories such as utility baskets, left-over dishes, water bottles, individual dessert containers, etc. There is a new defrosting tray which allows ample variation for height of contents.

As before, the Norge Rollator compressor runs less than one third the time.

The manufacturers assert that perishable foods can be stored from three to five times longer in the Low-Temp models than customary. Temperatures under 40 degrees are combined with high humidity in these refrigerators.

A new level of beauty is reached in this year's Norges. There is still the classic white with black base, but in addition some of the models are produced in a striking mother-of-pearl. There are now eight models in the Norge standard line produced in white Norglass finish with black base. They range in size from 3.16 to 13.12 cubic feet capacity. The five all-porcelain De Luxe models range in size from 4.17 to 8.11 cubic feet, and the two Low-Temp models are eight and 12 cubic feet respectively.

Otto Passman, president of Passman Equipment company announced that registrations will be taken during the entire week for a free Norge electric roaster to be given away Saturday, May 21.

Automotive exports from the United States to Colombia rose from $199,243 in 1932, to $3,489,860 in 1936—an increase of 1,652 per cent.

LAUNDRY DONE BY ELECTRICITY

Old Back-Breaking Work Now Done Quickly And Without Heavy Labor

Ranking as an indisputable first among the important aspects of the modern new electrically operated laundry equipment for the home, is the fact that it eliminates the worst of the backbreaking physical effort the average housewife is called upon to expend in the normal discharge of her most distasteful routine task.

But almost equally important is the money saving economy which modern laundry equipment introduces into household management through the elimination of the necessity for hiring outside help, through the elimination of dependency upon expensive professional laundry services, through the lowering costs of current necessary to the operation of the electrical equipment and through the longer life which is the benefit derived by clothes when laundered at home.

A third important new phase of the modern laundry equipment is being injected into the picture with the presentation of the improved and refined 1938 models. It arises from the streamlined design which converts the old-fashioned laundry equipment into compact cabinet-like devices as attractive in appearance as are the modern new refrigerators and ranges.

Progress in this direction is prompting leading home economists to suggest consideration of the new laundry equipment as a part of the equipment necessary to woman's natural workshop—the kitchen.

They point to the fact that design of the new laundry equipment, which includes putting washers on rollers and ironers on rollers, also, means that both may be rolled in and out of the workroom with ease instead of being located permanently in dark, damp cellars. One manufacturer points with pride to the fact that his home laundry equipment will find an admirable position in the family bathroom, it is so compact.

Progress in the development of laundry equipment has been aimed at economy of operation, with the problem of labor saving definitely disposed of. Washers may be purchased at amazingly low prices, as may ironers.

The amount of current necessary for the operation of these labor-saving devices has been reduced through refinement of motors and precision manufacture of all parts. Savings thus effected, it has been determined, plus the savings resulting from lack of outside laundry bills, will in a short time pay for the original cost of the equipment.

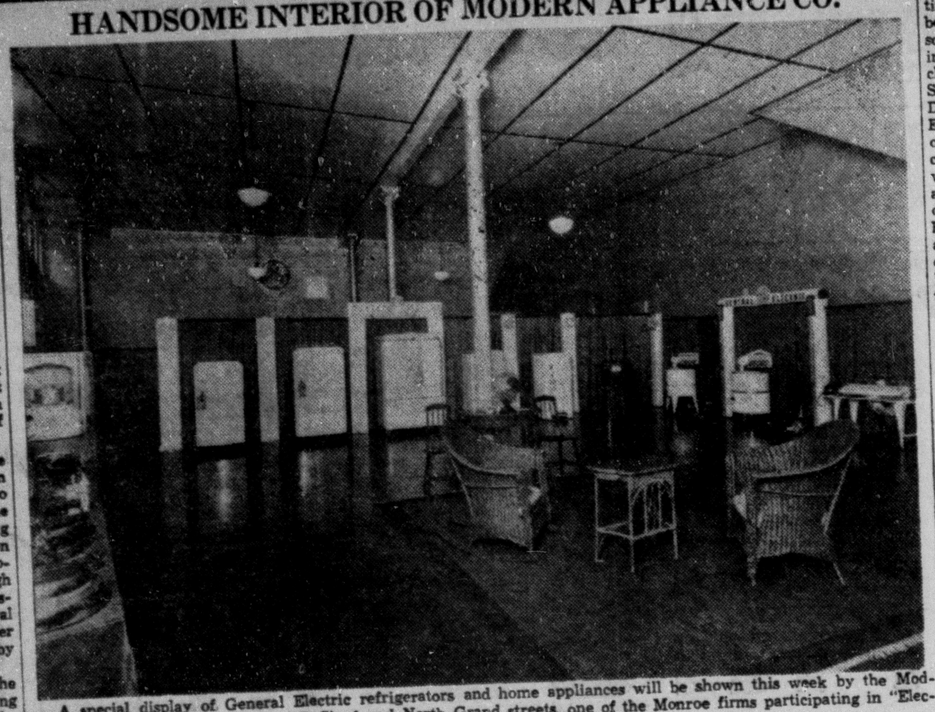

The new machines are almost uncanny in the gentleness with which they operate. They are adjusted to handle the finest as well as the heaviest of family wash, and in some instances their design is so carefully worked out that, following the washing process, they deliver clean clothes almost entirely dried and ready for ironing.

The electrical ironers likewise have been greatly refined. Their consumption of current has been lessened. And greatest boon of all, their design is invariably of a type which enables a woman to sit at ease before them, merely feeding the sheets and clothes into their automatic devices, whereas, in times gone by and with antiquated equipment, a woman had to stand on her feet throughout the ironing process and expend much elbow effort on her job. The new devices eliminate all that effort.

As appliances with which to complete the equipment necessary for the complete modernization of woman's workshop, modern electrical laundry equipment is now being looked upon as an investment which yields revenue in health, happiness and money savings for the modern family.

The new laundry equipment will form an important part in the city-wide automatic refrigeration and electrical appliances exhibit, starting here tomorrow.

HANDSOME INTERIOR OF MODERN APPLIANCE CO.

A special display of General Electric refrigerators and home appliances will be shown this week by the Modern Appliance company, corner of DeSiard and North Grand streets, one of the Monroe firms participating in "Electrical Refrigeration and Home Appliance week."

BULKY FOOD IS EASILY STORED

The problem of how to find room in the refrigerator for storing large things like watermelons and turkeys, the old bane of the housewife's existence, is solved by practically all of the new 1938 models.

Almost all the new refrigerators are equipped with adjustable shelves which may be shifted around, raised or lowered, tilted up, or completely removed.

Bulky foods can now be stored conveniently without taking up space that belongs to those everyday articles such as butter, milk and lemons which are always on the shelves.

Tell me Thy secret; help me to bear
The strain of toil, the fret of care.

"Teach me Thy patience; still with Thee
In closer, dearer company,
In work that keeps faith sweet and strong,
In trust that triumphs over wrong.

"In hope that sends a shining ray
Far down the future's broad'ning way;
In peace that only Thou canst give,
With Thee, O Master, let me live."

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

We had the largest congregation of the entire year, Sunday night, when the pastor preached to a full house and received three more new members, bringing the total to 26 since the annual conference. A very fine audience was present at the noon hour for a Mother's day service. All the interests of the church continue to grow with the attendance beyond the 100 mark in the Sunday school. E. K. Reeves, general superintendent, will have charge of the church school exercises which open Sunday morning at 9:45. Mrs. H. D. Dennis, Mrs. J. M. Alford and Miss Eleona Brinsmade are superintendants of the adults, young people's, and children's departments The two Epworth leagues will render programs at 7 p .m. Uriah Pickens is president of the senior league and Mrs. J. H. Branch is counselor for the intermediate league. The pastor's subject Sunday at 11 a. m. will be: "The Unhidden Forces of Christianity." At the evening hour "Following the Crowd" will be the theme. We will have good music and inspirational singing at all services. Mrs. R. G. Luckett and Mrs. Arlene Crockett will be the pianists.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
West Monroe
C. Karlos Smith, Pastor

All men have the greatest admiration for a progressive institution and more especially when that institution makes a great and lasting contribution to the civilization of its day. Truly we can say that our church can properly be classified as just such an institution. Greater progress has been made in the last several years in this church than perhaps any church in the state of Louisiana. You are invited to attend our church and see for yourself just the type of work being done at this time. We invite the public to attend every service and to take part in every phase of the service. Our Sunday school is growing under the leadership of Mr. R. M. McClendon, our very efficient superintendent. He invites parents and children to attend every Sunday morning at 9:45. The music under the direction of Mr. G. C. Williams inspires all who hear and appreciate fine music. The pastor will speak Sunday morning on "Four Interesting Faces." At the evening worship at 7:45 the subject will be "I Was Afraid." Come to the church with a welcome waiting for you.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
"The Church With The Lighted Steeple"
Jackson At Wood Street
Walter C. Scott, Minister

A confession of Sunday sickness: "Almighty God, as I sit here this lovely Sunday morning, surrounded by the Sunday paper and half-listening to one of the big preachers over the radio, it has just come over me that I have lied to Thee and to myself. I said I was not well enough to go to church. That was not true. I was not ambitious enough. I would have gone to the office had it been Monday morning. I would have played golf if it had been Wednesday afternoon. I would have attended my lunch club if it had met this noon. But it was Sunday morning and Sunday sickness seems to cover a multitude of sins. God have mercy on me. I have lied to Thee and to myself. I am not sick. I am lazy. Amen."—Northwestern Christian Advocate.

Don't let this Sunday sickness attack you. Come and worship with us. At the 11 o'clock hour we will have Dr. Pierce Cline, president of Centenary college, who will bring us the message. Our minister will preach at the evening hour. A cordial welcome awaits you at all our services. The workers' council will meet for the quarterly business session Wednesday evening at 6:30 in the church annex. The Woman's Missionary society will meet at the church Tuesday at 3 p.m. for the monthly program meeting, with circle No. 8 in charge.

CHURCH OF GOD
Corner Of Polk And Lidell Streets
John D. Carter, Pastor

The Church of God extends to the public an invitation to attend each service with us. Today we will have a special service instead of the usual Sunday morning service. There will be a Sunday school and rally with Miss Iredell Walker, state Sunday school and Y. P. E. superintendent, in charge. Service will begin at 10 a.m. and probably continue until 3 p.m. Sunday evening service at the usual hour with the pastor in charge. Everyone is invited to attend all services.

HOW TO ARRANGE MODERN KITCHEN

Since suitable and economical utilization of space to insure a minimum of wasted labor and footsteps is one of the fundamentals of modern kitchen designing, architects are devoting more and more attention to the proper placing of important pieces of equipment according to the normal sequence of the housewife's operations.

Experts on home architecture advise that the order of arrangement should be somewhat as follows:

Starting at the service door, the refrigerator should come first; then a cabinet with a top surface for preparing food; then the dishwasher, sink and garbage disposal unit; and, finally, at the dining room door, the range together with another working surface for serving the food.

REFRIGERATOR WITH RADIO

A unique feature of Crosley Shelvador refrigerators is the built-in radio which enables the housewife to enjoy radio programs while engaged in kitchen work. Above is shown a unit with the radio inserted at the top of the cabinet. Crosley Shelvador refrigerators are distributed in Monroe by Auto-Lec Stores, Inc., 111 Catalpa street.

REFRIGERATORS RADIO-EQUIPPED

Crosley Musical Shelvador Has Many Interesting Features

Among the most important of the new features of the Crosley Shelvador refrigerators is a quick release cube tray. There is a special lever which releases the ice tray, and then, with a single twist of this same lever, all of the ice cubes are immediately loosened. The cubes remain in the grids to be picked out as needed. Those not needed may be placed back in the tray.

The Musical Shelvador, introduced last year, proved so successful that many more models of this refrigerator may be had with or without the Crosley radio this year. In all except the smaller models, the specially designed 5-tube superheterodyne receiver may be installed in 15 or 20 minutes. This feature has proved to be extremely popular with housewives who spend most of their working time in the kitchen and who find time passing more pleasantly with music always available.

The manufacturer stresses the outstanding feature of this refrigerator s the extra storage capacity of the helves in the door. Numerous small rticles can be placed in these shelves hus leaving the main shelf area of he refrigerator available for larger, ulkier items. Of added convenience are the specially designed glass leftover jars which fit into the shelves of the door.

Other features are an eighteen point cold control which permits one to vary the temperature according to every type of weather, a built-in thermometer, an Electro-saver unit which can be defrosted without interruption of refrigeration, a special crisper which keeps fruits and vegetables crisp and appetizing for days, and a large glass storage tray.

The shelf space of all Crosley refrigerators is adjustable according to the size and shape of the articles to be stored.

Of special importance is the closefitting door to the food compartment which is specially insulated with a cushion of rubber. The cabinet itself is insulated with glass wool of extremely low conductivity.

New improvements in the Electrosaver units make the new Shelvador very economical to operate, according to the manufacturers, and the new evaporator compartment with refrigerating coils running between the shelves is said to assure lightning-fast freezing and greater refrigerating efficiency.

The Crosley Storadrawer, a non-refrigerating extra storage space for bulky goods is provided in the deluxe models.

DISCONTINUES SALE OF GIBSON REFRIGERATORS

Massey Service station yesterday announced it will discontinue its sale of Gibson refrigerators and will close out its present stock at factory prices.

Many models of Gibson refrigerators in all sizes are on hand and the firm offers many bargains in slightly used refrigerators, it was announced.

VENTILATOR FANS MADE IN MONROE

Monroe Armature Works Specializes In Fine Cooling Systems

Special prices on residential ventilator fans will be featured by the Monroe Armature works, 2019 DeSiard street, during the current Electrical Refrigeration and Home Appliance week in Monroe which starts Sunday, according to an announcement by M. S. Harrison, general manager.

Monroe Armature works is now specializing in the manufacture of windcw fans, made to fit any standard size window and for use preferably in rented houses where permanent installations cannot be made, Mr. Harrison said. In this respect a 28-inch fan with a capacity of 7,700 cubic feet per minute, sells for only $77. These fans are easily installed and can be moved from one room to another.

Ventilator fans distributed by the Monroe Armature works are known as Harrison fans and are manufactured in Monroe by Monroe people. The fans are made in three sizes to meet any type of installation or cooling problem, whether large or small.

In order to determine the size of ventilator fan required for cooling a room it is necessary to determine the cubical contents of the room or other space to be ventilated—width by length by height—then multiply the result by the number of air changes per minute needed to get total minute air-movement required. In other words the fan selected should be of a size to move that volume of air.

Besides manufacturing ventilator fans for residences, Monroe Armature works specializes in commercial cooling installations with Harrison fans, and all fans manufactured and distributed by this concern are guaranteed, Mr. Harrison pointed out.

Residence—homes, clubs, etc.,; 1 to 11-2 minutes.

Commercial—barber shops, beauty shoppes, groceries, clinics, stores, etc.; 3-4 to 1 minute.

Industrial—bakeries, cafes, pressing shops, laundries, factories, etc.; 1-2 to 1 minute.

The Monroe Armature Works will be glad to furnish help or suggestions on any installation problem, but always remember you can not have too much air passage area on the grill or louvers.

HOME LAUNDRY

Here is the new Bendix home laundry, a self contained automatic unit which delivers clothes thoroughly cleaned and damp dry. It is distributed by United Electric Service, Inc., 306 North Third street.

A new type of electrically operated home laundry machine, entirely automatic in its principles, has been presented by Bendix home appliances, following a survey of the requirements of some 10,000 housewives.

The Bendix home laundry is self contained in a white enamel cabinet that makes it convenient for placement in the kitchen or the bath room.

All the housewife has to do is to put in the clothes, add soap, and adjust two dials. Operation is entirely automatic from then on. After about twenty minutes, the machine stops by itself—but not before first scouring itself clean. Clothes are left in a damp dry condition.

The new laundry will handle a load of as much as nine pounds.

MAY SURPRISE CITY

CINCINNATI, O.—Cincinnati residents will be skeptical of all they see from June 14 to June 17. The 13th annual convention of the International Brotherhood of Magicians will be held here at that time.

BUILDING & LOAN PAYS SEMI-ANNUAL DIVIDEND

A semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent on all classes of shares for the first six months of the year was voted by the board of directors of the Monroe Building and Loan association at their meeting May 9, payable to stockholders of record as of June 30, being at the rate of 4 per cent per annum, stated Mr. Louis Buckner, president of the association.

During the last six months the association has made substantial progress in every phase of its activity.

The appeal to the public of insurance of savings share accounts by the Federal Savings and Loan corporation, an agency of the United States government, was credited by Mr. Buckner for the increase in volume of new share accounts. This makes available a large sum for new loans. The liberalized loan plan adopted by the association attracted a large number of persons interested in home ownership.

SERGEANT 'SILENCES' FROGS

SAN JOSE, Calif.—Sergt. Elliott F. Marrs of the police department possesses one of the secrets of the ages but he won't reveal it. He knows how to silence croaking frogs. His notation on the police blotter reads: "Answered call to the C. N. Munger home, 306 Fifteenth street. Neighbors complaining about noisy frogs. All quiet when I left."

Although cotton is grown as an annual plant in most countries, it has been cultivated in the tropics as a perennial.

LOUISIANA POWER & LIGHT COMPANY

'COLDSPOT' LEADS IN REFRIGERATORS

All-Steel Construction Makes Its Effectiveness Eminently Superior

Because its many features include a completely re-designed cabinet constructed entirely of steel, the new 1938 Coldspot is conceded to be one of the most outstanding units brought out by the refrigerator industry this season, said H. R. Hodges, manager of Sears, Roebuck and company, who today announced the arrival of a large shipment of Coldspots.

"Each year for the past five years Sears has made major changes and improvements in the Coldspot," said Mr. Hodges, "and this year is no exception. In my opinion the outstanding feature of our new model is its all-steel construction which not only strengthens the cabinet but allows space for additional insulation."

Three-inch thicknesses of Coldex—one of the most efficient insulating materials yet devised—are used on all sides of the Coldspot's storage compartment to assure operating perfection even in temperatures as high as 120 degrees. This material will not absorb moisture and is safe from setting.

Although the Rotorite mechanical unit is basically the same as that used in the past, the new unit has added refinements which will give increased economy of operation. The evaporator has also been improved so that it will produce more ice cubes—a total of 112 at one time at a faster rate.

Like its three predecessors, the new unit was designed by Raymond Loewy, famous industrial designer whose 1935 Coldspot was the first streamlined refrigerator introduced on the American market.

Mr. Loewy has used a spherical theme in his newest creation and this is emphasized in the exterior hardware. The chrome handles on the cabinet door and storage drawer are ball-shaped and fit into rounded depressions on the front of the box. While the cabinet is actually flush on the floor the chrome stripping at the base gives the impression it is resting on legs. The "touch-abar" door opener—placed horizonally—is a feature that has been retained from previous models and the door hinges are again concealed.

Four alumninum shelves which are rustless, tarnishless and corrosionless are again part of the Coldspot's carefully planned interior. One is a sliding shelf adjustable to two levels and another is a split shelf. There is also a fly shelf by the evaporator. Two aluminum covered porcelain enamel food fresheners and a utility dish set, consisting of three over-ware leftover dishes and two one-quart water bottles are part of the de luxe model equipment. Also included in this model is a new, all metal "Speedex" ice tray from which two or more ice cubes can be quickly released.

All handles on the interior of the cabinet are of delphinium blue and follow the same spherical design as the exterior hardware. The control panel on the evaporator has illuminated delphinium blue dials and each side of the cabinet has an interior light.

Stain-proof, porcelain enamel covers the interior of the box and Dulux is used for the exterior. Four, six and eight-foot sizes are available.

"The new Coldspot for 1938 is an exceptionally worthy addition to a distinguished family," said Mr. Hodges, "for it represents the combined efforts of brilliant designers and engineers who were determined to produce a unit as efficient as modern science would allow. Our Monroe customers are cordially invited to visit our Coldspot department, where trained demonstrators will gladly show the features of the new model."

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

'THUMBS DOWN'—When a gladiator was defeated, it rested with the spectators to decide whether he should be slain or whether he should live. If the spectators wished him to live, they turned their thumbs down. If they wished him to die, they turned their thumbs up. Therefore, thumbs down does not mean condemnation, but exactly the opposite. The confusion is due to a mistranslation of the proper passage in Plinius and Juvenal.

SUGAR FROSTED DRINKS DELICIOUS

Your favorite iced beverage seems twice as cold when the rim of the glass is frosted with sugar. And it's so easily done.

Use half a lemon from which the juice has been squeezed. Wipe the lemon around the rim of the glass, moistening the inside and outside edge to about one-half inch down. Then dip rim of glass in a bowl of Domino superfine powdered sugar. The sugar sticks to the rim, presenting a cool, tempting appearance.

A big sprig of mint always gives an added touch to fruit beverages or iced tea. Slightly moistened and dusted with Domino superfine powdered sugar, the mint will look cold and frosty.

The M. E. Epworth league gave a delightful program at the Monroe district meeting here. About 200 members and guests enjoyed the affair. Light refreshments were served at the conclusion of the program. Miss E. Benton was presented with a lovely vase for faithful services rendered. Uriah Pickens of Monroe was elected vice-president of the union.

The Junior-Senior banquet was held at the V. F. W. home, Bastrop. An interesting program was carried out amid a beautiful setting representing a Hawaiian garden.

PRESSURE COOKER PROVES EFFICIENT

Sears, Roebuck And Co. To Demonstrate New Appliance This Week

A pressure cooker which, it is claimed, will cook a meal in 10 minutes, will be demonstrated in Monroe every day next week at Sears, Roebuck and company store, 328 DeSiard, according to announcement made yesterday by H. R. Hodges, manager of the store.

"A nationally known demonstrator of the pressure cooker will come here especially to help our demonstration plans," said Manager Hodges. "We are going to turn a part of our store into a kitchen, or as much of a kitchen as we shall need to stage this cooking school, and we shall actually cook the meal at the demonstration. The cooking school is open to the public. We shall give demonstrations at 10 o'clock in the morning and at 2 o'clock and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. We shall also stage a demonstration at 7 o'clock on Saturday evening."

It is estimated that a million women have agreed on the Kook-Kwick pressure cooker as one of the most effective labor savers among modern cooking devices. Water is not required for cooking fruits or vegetables in the Kook-Kwick, and because no water is added these foods retain their own juices with the full flavor and valuable mineral salts provided by nature. Not only is their health value very much increased but their flavor is improved. Tough flank steaks, pot roast and brisket which have to be cooked for hours with ordinary cooking methods, require only a few minutes in the pressure cooker.

Not only has the pressure cooker shortened the time necessary to prepare a meal but substantial economies may be effected through greatly reduced fuel bills, through the preparation of less expensive foods and through the home canning of vegetables, fruits, fish, meats and poultry.

The United States bureau of agriculture, an authority on the canning of vegetables and meats, states that the only safe way to can meats or non-acid vegetables is with a pressure cooker. Ordinarily, open kettle and cold pack, hot water bath are adequate systems for canning jellies and acid fruits, but as Mr. Hodges pointed out, non-acid vegetables and meats frequently harbor harmful bacteria which escape the sterilizing effects of boiling or hot water processing and produce poisons inside the sealed containers.

"Because of this danger," said Mr. Hodges, "food chemists and home economics experts have issued the warning that except for acid fruits, pickles and similar products, it is safest to can all foods under steam pressure. The higher temperatures of compressed steam process foods completely and render them absolutely safe."

LEGION PLANS '3 WAY PARTY'

Will Be Held For Outgoing And Incoming Officers, Department Candidates

The fifth district of the American Legion will give a "three-way" party at Three Mile Inn Friday night. It will serve as a testimonial affair for Sam Orchard, district commander, and for Mark Price, of Bernice, district vice-commander. Under the leadership of these two officials, the district has reached the highest membership ever obtained, more than 1,777 members having been secured this year. The term of office of the commander and vice-commander will end when the convention is held in Lafayette, in July.

A welcome party will be given at the same time to Legionnaires Arden B. Smith, of Oak Grove, who has been nominated for district commander to succeed Sam Orchard, and P. H. Farmer, of Ferriday, who has been nominated for vice-commander to succeed Mark Price. A pledge of support and cooperation will be given and these two newly-nominated officers will give a brief outline of their plans for the district for the next two years.

An endorsing party, approving the candidacy of Dr. C. L. Mengis, of Winnsboro, for department commander, will also be included in the "three-way" party. Dr. Mengis was endorsed by the fifth district conference in Ferriday May 1.

Every post in the district is expected to send members to the party. Most of the posts' officials have invited mayors of the cities in the district where posts are located, as well as parish officers, to attend.

Mayor H. H. Benoit will deliver a short address at the party and many Legionnaires will review in short talks, the excellent record set by Mr. Orchard in the administration of his office.

The general public is invited to attend. Refreshments will be served and the evening's program will be concluded with a dance, music being provided by the Commodores of the Three Mile Inn.

Arrangements are in charge of S. E. Dodd, who is a member of the Dr. Mengis campaign committee.

RECIPES MADE POSSIBLE BY NEW RANGES

The many conveniences afforded by the use of the electric range and the versatility of its oven, broiler, top-of-range and deep well cooking facilities can best be appreciated by a random selection of recipes and menus from among the many it makes possible.

In the past, when charity bazaar or women's club has demanded mother's time from lunch to dinner hour, the family dinner has of necessity sadly suffered.

However, the oven of the electric range cooks this kind of dinner while mother is out having fun:

Standing rib roast.
Fluffed turnips.
Pan browned potatoes.
Carrots and ripe olive salad.
Apple orange cream.

Taking two and one-fourth hours to cook, at 350 degrees F. temperature, this meal can wait in a cold oven three or four hours until the time and temperature control set it cooking. On bottom rack, in shallow uncovered pan, place six-pound standing rib roast and peeled, medium-sized potatoes well greased. Season. Slice yellow turnips in thick slices, place in baking pan with salted water to barely cover bottom, cover tightly. Place at back of top rack with covered pudding in front. All foods will be delightfully ready to eat when the family assembles at dinner hour.

AUTO-LEC'S HEAD 'SOLD' ON MONROE

Richard L. (Dick) Cardozo Commends City On Its Progressiveness

Richard L. (Dick) Cardozo, who was recently named manager of the Monroe branch of Auto-Lec Stores, Inc., at 111 Catalpa street, yesterday declared business conditions in Monroe are very favorable as compared with other cities in the south of similar size.

"Monroe," said Mr. Cardozo, "is a swell town in which to live and I was very happy to have been appointed here. The people are friendly and the city itself is very progressive and has a great future."

The new Auto-Lec Stores, Inc., manager has been associated with Auto-Lec stores for nearly four years in New Orleans, Montgomery, Ala., Shreveport and other southern cities. He is a reserve officer and holds rank as lieutenant of the 347th infantry reserve regiment.

Auto-Lec Stores, Inc., offers Monroe patrons a complete line of automotive supplies, tires, batteries, accessories, radio, refrigeration and washers. The firm is a staunch supporter of Governor Leche's program for stimulating industry in the state and prides itself on being a Louisiana concern designed to meet the needs of southern people.

SINGLE BUTTON CREATES COLD

Operation Greatly Simplified With New General Electric Control

Operation is simplified in the new General Electric refrigerator for 1938 by a feature known as "one-button control." A single button controls freezing and defrosting and cuts the current off entirely. To insure safe preservation of food at all times, freezing continues during the entire period in which the refrigerator is being defrosted.

Included as standard equipment with all new de luxe General Electric models is a set of oven-proof pottery. These pieces serve the three purposes of refrigerated storage, baking and table service. They are said to look well on any table on account of their attractive design.

The cube release lever is the most important part of a new "quick tray." It frees cubes two at a time and leaves the balance intact. It can also be used for freeing the tray from the freezing surface, and serves as a handy bottle cap remover.

All General Electric refrigerators are now equipped with vegetable containers for preserving the freshness of moist fruits and vegetables. On most models the container is a sliding drawer; and on one of the larger models two such drawers are included.

Another convenience on the new General Electric is a removable part shelf in the bottom of the cabinet. This permits the storage of large bottles, watermelons and other large articles ordinarily stored with the greatest difficulty.

The finger-tip latch on the doors of 1938 General Electric cabinets permits the housewife to open the refrigerator even when both her hands are full of bottles, dishes and other articles.

Not among the least important features of the new model is the exterior design. The neat latch and hinges harmonize perfectly with the distinctive streamlining of the cabinet.

The manufacturers announce many mechanical refinements on the 1938 line. These are said to insure more quiet operation and increased freezing speed. Operating costs, it is said, are even lower than the record which General Electric claims to have established on last year's models.

To increase the popularity of air travel in Turkey, civil air lines are offering "one free flight for every five paid for," says a dispatch from Istanbul.

Heart Hungry

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN, AUTHOR OF "RASH ROMANCE" © 1930 by NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER XIX

Jordan drew the girl quickly toward him. In that swift instant Celia was conscious only of the hypnotic gaze that held her. She had no thought of resisting as Jordan's arm pressed closer. He bent his head—

At that very moment, as though timed by a stage director, the French windows were thrown back and a figure appeared silhouetted in a flood of light. Eve Brooks' throaty laughter pealed out on the night.

"Look at what I've found!" she cried. "Romeo—and if it isn't little Juliet out here rehearsing the balcony scene! Come on, everybody, this is a better place to dance than inside."

The others crowded after Eve. Celia had drawn away from Jordan in embarrassment. The young man, entirely undisturbed, remained where he was coolly smiling. Eve Brooks approached him, her eyes mocking.

"Your turn next," Jordan said casually, and as the radio orchestra again began its tempestuous blue harmonies, the pair moved off in a fox trot.

"Want to dance?" Jimmie Webster asked Celia.

She didn't want to. What Celia wanted was to slip away where no one could see how her cheeks were burning and ask herself how in the world she had come so near to forgetting herself, forgetting Barney Shields, forgetting everything! She knew Jordan had been about to kiss her. She had not even tried to stop him! The swift reaction was shame and burning remorse.

Nevertheless she let Webster lead her away to the rhythm of the fox trot. Dancing with Webster was chiefly bobbing and turning and bobbing, but at least everyone was not looking at her.

Gradually Celia was able to conquer her confusion. She danced with Walter Carr and again with Webster.

Mrs. Parsons had disappeared. Kate Duncan and Courtney Brooks were sitting in the shadows at the far end of the porch. Lisi was trying to perform a sailor's hornpipe with coaching from the sidelines.

"Try this one with me?"

The orchestra had begun another waltz. Celia did not turn her head. She knew Tod Jordan had come up behind her even before he spoke, and she had made up her mind not to dance again with Jordan.

"No, thanks," she said. "I—I'm just a little tired."

He stood in front of her then so she could not avoid his eyes. Perfectly straightforward his gaze was. One might have thought they had just met.

"Then let's sit over here," he suggested, nodding toward a rattan porch seat in the shadows.

"I prefer the moonlight."

"In that case, so do I."

The porch rail was wide enough to make a comfortable seat. Celia had seated herself and was leaning against the corner pillar. She had no idea how becoming the pose was. Jordan looked down on her for a few moments, then dropped to the rail and sat facing her. He studied her face before he spoke.

"Eve Brooks thinks I like you too well," he said in that slow, oddly stirring tone.

The girl eyed him inquiringly.

"Surely, you understand that little—scene of Eve's," he went on. "I hope you didn't let it disturb you! No one else would—that is, no one who knows Eve Brooks."

"Oh, no—I didn't mind."

Celia spoke quite as casually now as the man.

"That's right," Jordan said. "You see Eve, poor thing, is something of a cat. It's just as well to know that if you're going to be around her much. She's got the idea now that I'm interested in you."

There was a pause, timed romantically, then Jordan added softly, "There's someone else not very far away I wish I could persuade to believe the same thing."

Celia was on her feet.

"Excuse me, please," she said. "I almost forget! There's something I want to speak to Lisi about."

Then, with her heart pounding, she hurried away. Celia could not risk coming under Tod Jordan's spell again. His presence made her feel guilty.

She avoided him the rest of the evening. This, she was a bit surprised to learn, was not difficult. Jordan did not even ask her to dance again.

Celia joined Lisi and Walter Carr, who was describing his experiences as an amateur airplane pilot. Lisi declared she too was going to enter a flying school. Already she had a fund of technical information and asked Carr a great many questions.

The radio program switched from dance music to a monologue, and someone in disgust turned it off. Jordan had been dancing with Kate Duncan. Now they joined the group.

"Listen." Lisi looked up impulsively. "The party's getting stale. I know what let's do—let's go swimming!"

"But Lisi!" remonstrated her sister, "it's midnight."

"What of it? It's only two miles to the club. And there won't be a crowd around. I want a swim! Who else is going?"

• • •

Courtney Brooks and Webster were enthusiastic over this idea. There was some discussion and then the two men were off to get cars. Celia Mitchell, who had been listening in alarm, looked about for Mrs. Parsons. She was chatting with Jordan, apparently content to see her guests take entertainment into their own hands.

Celia edged away. When the opportunity came, before the cars had arrived, she touched Mrs. Parsons' arm.

"I think I'll slip upstairs," she said. "It will be all right if I don't go with the others, won't it? I'm really sleepy."

"Just as you wish, of course."

"Then I'll say good night now."

Celia disappeared. A little later from her upstairs room she heard shouts of laughter and then the sound of the cars going down the driveway.

So this was a fashionable house party! The evening had been nothing at all as Celia had imagined it beforehand. She stood by the window a moment looking out at the bright moonlight. Then she went to the dressing table, slipped her lovely pink frock from her shoulders and presently was ready for bed.

With her chiffon negligee about her Celia perched on the foot of the bed, feet curled beneath her. She took Barney's letter from her purse and spread out the pages. Then she reread the whole letter carefully.

"Barney!" she whispered softly when she had finished. "Oh, Barney!"

For a long time Celia sat looking at the crumpled envelope. Finally she folded the pages, tucked them away and put the letter again in her purse. After that she turned the light out and slipped into bed.

She lay with her eyes open, staring up at the black ceiling. There was so much in this new world that Celia Mitchell did not understand.

She went to sleep at last, but it was not Barney Shields the girl was thinking of as she dropped off to slumber. It was Tod Jordan and that unforgettable moment in the moonlight.

• • •

When Celia came downstairs next morning, wearing the little white tennis frock Mrs. Parsons had bought for her, there was no one else in sight.

Hilda, the maid she had seen the day before, told her that breakfast was ready. Celia went into the dining room and Hilda brought her fruit, toast and coffee.

After that Celia wandered out on the big porch. It was after nine o'clock, but she saw no one. The garden was beautiful in the sunlight. Celia followed the cobblestone path, pausing to watch the goldfish in their pool, and then strolling on among the flowers. It was an informal garden, perfectly suited to the rambling house and broad grounds.

The day would be warm, no doubt, but the morning breeze made it perfect. There was a path Celia had not inspected the day before. Now she followed it.

She heard a shout and looked about quickly. Over the shrubbery ahead she caught sight of a flashing bit of motion.

Tennis! Of course. These must be the tennis courts she had heard Jimmie Webster talking about last night.

Now she saw them. A man and a girl on either side of the net in frantic pursuit of the tiny, spinning ball. It was Lisi and Webster. The players were too intent on their game to note the spectator. Lisi served smashingly, and Webster's racket sent the ball spinning back into an impossible corner. Lisi returned it. Over and back again. Over and back.

Celia watched, spellbound. She had never seen such skillful tennis playing. At last when the game was finished, she waved and came forward.

Lisi paused a moment to call a cheerful greeting. and then the set was resumed. Celia sat on a bench at the side of the court and watched.

"Hello!"

She looked up. Tod Jordan, looking more bronzed than ever in his white clothes, dropped to the bench beside the girl.

"Good morning."

"I saw you heading this way, and so I followed," he said. "I hope you don't mind?"

"Why, of course not!"

"Oh? I—er, rather gathered last night that you didn't care to be friendly."

Celia continued to watch the flying ball.

"I'm sorry you thought that."

"Then it isn't true? I mean, you think you might possibly come to like me?"

"I might."

"Enough to turn around right now and smile?"

There was no use. She couldn't pretend to quarrel. Celia didn't want to quarrel with Jordan anyway. She wanted to go on talking, saying little things in a way which meant so much.

The resolves of last night were forgotten. When the tennis players were exhausted and they all walked back to the house together, Celia was addressing Jordan as "Tod."

Mrs. Parsons met them on the porch.

"Celia," she said, "I have news for you."

NORGE RANGE HAS INTERIOR LIGHT

Though the automatic controls on this 1938 Norge electric range minimize oven tending, you will have no difficulty peeking into this well-illuminated oven if you want to. Interior light goes on when the oven door is opened.

Featured as exclusive in 1938 Norge electric range is "controlled top of range cooking." This is embodied in a selector switch operated in conjunction with an electric clock which automatically controls the current in the left rear burner. The makers say that this burner may also be converted into a utility thrift cooker with the same selective control.

Also new on this year's Norge are the super-speed cooking elements which are available as extra equipment. These are said to have 400 per cent more contact area than other closed units.

Norge ranges are equipped with visual oven heat control signals. Red and green lights go on when the switch is turned on. The red goes off when the desired temperature is reached, while the green continues to signal that the oven is in operation.

These ranges are of modern design in black and white or mother of pearl. Hardware comes in red, green or delphinium blue. The manufacturers stress that the ranges are designed in matched combination with the Norge Rollator refrigerator, but, of course, the two appliances may be purchased separately.

OIL AND GAS NEWS

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(AP)—Thirteen new oil wells in Louisiana fields with total initial daily capacity of 7,146 barrels were listed in the weekly report of the minerals division of the department of conservation, issued Saturday.

Five of the wells were in the Lisbon field, in Claiborne and Lincoln parishes with combined initial flow of 3,625 barrels. The largest of the group produced 1,608 barrels through a one-inch choke, while the others flowed through smaller openings.

The department issued 29 new permits for new wells during the week, of which 10 were for operations in south Louisiana fields.

New producers listed were:

Black bayou, Cameron parish, Shell Petroleum corporation, No. 41 Mrs. J. B. Watkins, 292 barrels; Evangeline, Acadia, Gulf Refining company, No. 39 Arnaudet, 768 barrels; Superior Oil company, No. 9 William Leckelt, 591 barrels and No. 12 William Leckelt, 629 barrels; Horseshoe bayou, St. Mary, the Texas company, No. 1 St. Mary Land company, 335 barrels.

Lisbon, Claiborne parish, Hollyfield and McFarlane, No. 4 H. W. Patton heirs, 264 barrels, Magnolia Petroleum company, No. 1 Sally Lloyd, 778 barrels, Oakes, Carathers and Morelock, No. 1 C. C. Whitman, 1.8 barrels, Vaughan and Marr, No. 2-B J. T. Eppinger, 1.608 barrels, Lisbon, Lincoln, Magnolia Petroleum company, No. 3 Pollock heirs, 778 barrels.

Pine island, Caddo, Midfield Oil company, No. 2 George Wells, 130 barrels; Ville Platte, Evangeline No. 1 Opelousas-St. Landry, 394 barrels; West Hackberry, Stanolind Oil and Gas company, No. 55 state, 381 barrels.

Permits to drill were issued to the following:

Acadia, Burton-Noble-Baker, Ladak Oil company, Inc., Bossier, Union Producing company; Caddo, L. I. Davis, Magnolia Petroleum company; Nat Wissman, Cameron, W. T. Burton, Superior Oil company.

Claiborne, Harry Fotiades et al (two permits, J. H. Henry, Oakes, Caruthers and Morelock; DeSoto, W. T. Coleman et al; Grant, R. D. Bevill and Son, C. M. Bowers et al; Iberia, the Texas company.

Iberville, Shell Petroleum corporation; LaSalle, Fred Stovall, trustee; Morehouse, Union Producing company; Natchitoches, Roy A. Rains; Plaquemines, the Texas company. Sabine, W. L. McLanahan.

St. Landry, T. G. Markley; Terrebonne, Shell Petroleum corporation, the Texas company; Union, Union Producing company; Webster, Hunt Oil company, Magnolia Petroleum company.

REFRIGERATION AIDS IN REARING BABIES

Importance of automatic refrigeration to the well equipped household is never more surely appreciated than when there are babies in the family. With individualized formula for the feeding of infants being prescribed by pediatricians, the automatic refrigerator provides a safe place in which to store sufficient quantities of the formula to eliminate the necessity of making it up anew every time baby requires one of his frequent feedings.

The fruit juices and vegetable juices also so essential to the diets of small children, and the many gelatin desserts which the refrigerator can produce with such ease, are other items which will impress the value of the refrigerator to the home where there are tiny youngsters.

AWNINGS PROVIDE SUN PROTECTION

Heat In House Lowered 10 To 12 Degrees By Their Utilization

"Awnings for air conditioning is now recognized by all responsible house planners, as windows admit four times as much heat as the walls of the house," Marion Underwood, owner and manager of the Monroe Tent and Awning company, declared.

"Awnings," he continued, "keep out half of this heat. Heat kept out of the house by awnings does not need conditioning. Awnings in connection with either refrigeration or forced air draft air conditioning permit a smaller unit and a lowered cost in operation."

Mr. Underwood has engaged in the tent and awning business for the past 18 years and his place of business is at 245 South Grand street where he personally supervises the work of experts trained in accurately manufacturing and fitting all types of awnings and venetian blinds.

"Canvas is a non-conductor of heat and so is considered the most desirable material for awning purposes," Mr. Underwood said. "Other materials have been used in efforts to supplant canvas but they have not given satisfaction and the discriminate homeowner generally reverts to canvas for awnings. Canvas awnings can be taken down or raised in the winter, a conveniences which is not afforded by other types of sun protection," Mr. Underwood pointed out.

Awnings on a house without air-conditioning, it is claimed, lower the heat in the house from 10 to 12 degrees by permitting ventilation and the proper shading of window glass.

SISTERS AT SANITARIUM GIVE THANKS TO PUBLIC

The sisters at St. Francis sanitarium yesterday expressed their appreciation for the cooperation manifested by the general public in the observance of the 25th anniversary of that institution which took place Hospital day, and particularly for the many floral offerings which adorned St. Francis sanitarium during the day.

Particular thanks were extended by the sisters to all organizations who contributed to the success of the occasion.

THE FLYING SQUADRON

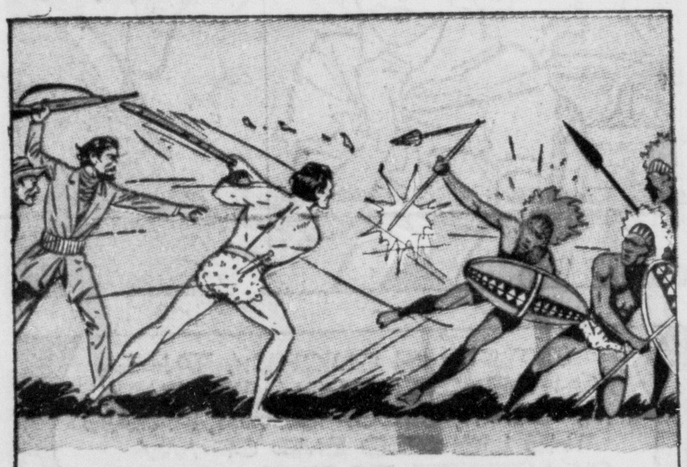

QUICKLY HE GATHERED A FLYING SQUADRON FOR A DESPERATE ATTEMPT TO STEM THE SAVAGE TIDE.

THE APE-MAN HIMSELF WAS THE THIN EDGE OF THE WEDGE THAT BIT INTO THE WARRIOR RANKS.

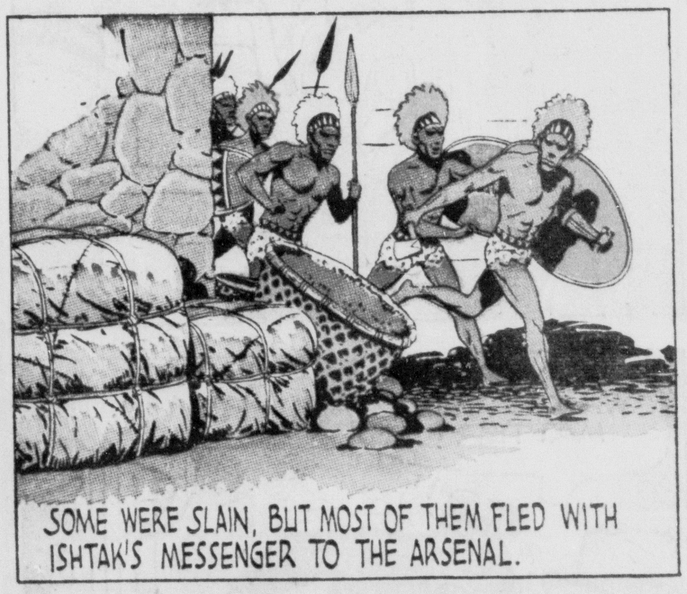

LUCKILY THE BLACKS WERE WITHOUT CARTRIDGES--- AND THE PIONEERS-------

AT LAST THE ATTACKERS CUT THE LINE, AND RAMMED THE GATES SHUT.

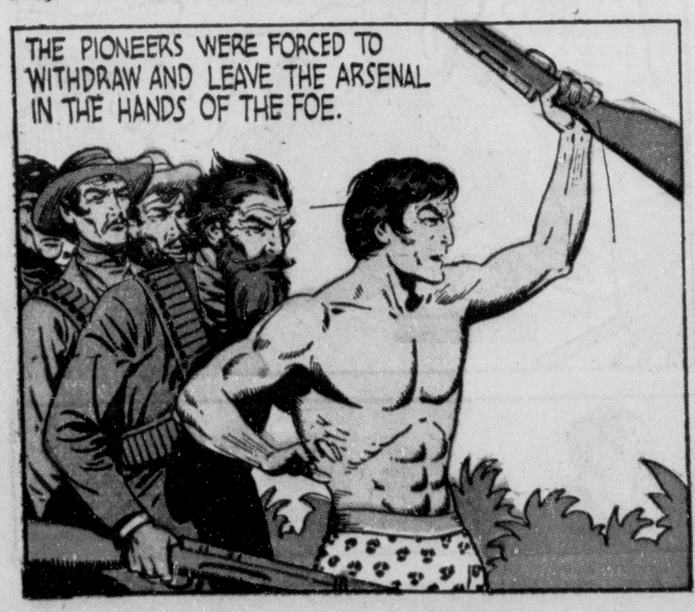

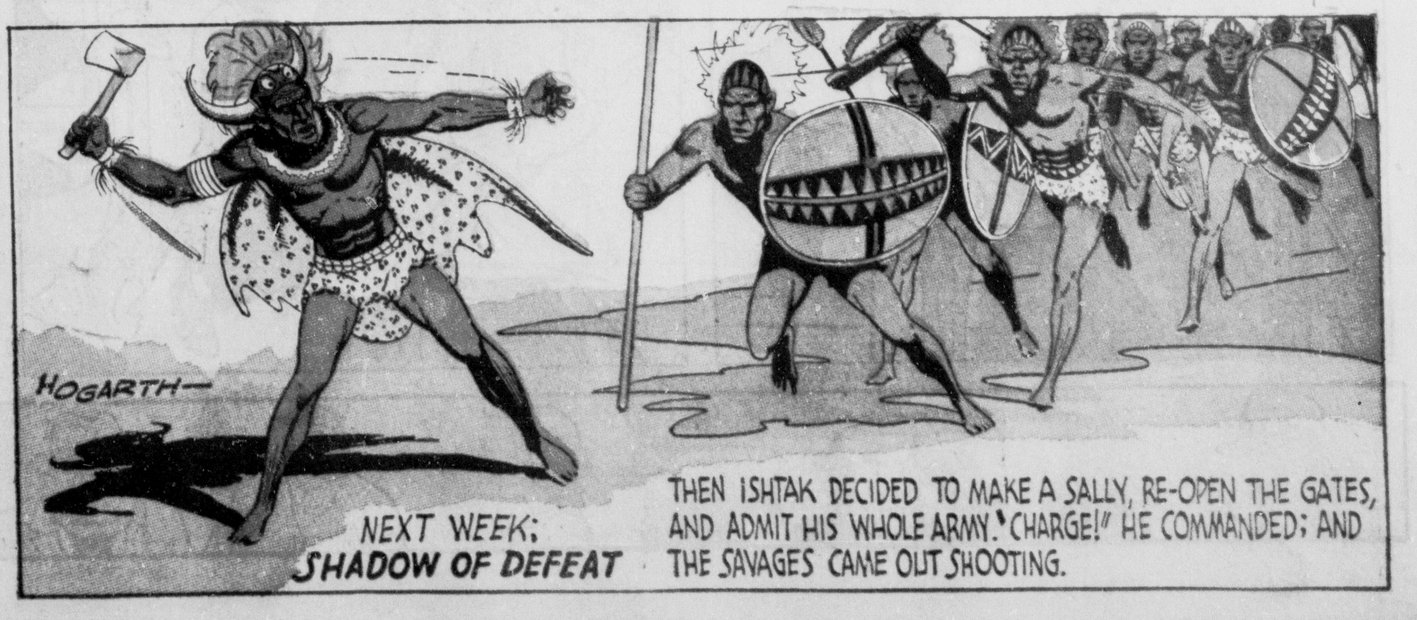

SOME WERE SLAIN, BUT MOST OF THEM FLED WITH ISHTAK'S MESSENGER TO THE ARSENAL.

THERE THEY BARRICADED THEMSELVES WITH THE PLENTIFUL SUPPLY OF MUNITIONS, AND OPENED A WITHERING FIRE.

NEXT WEEK: SHADOW OF DEFEAT

THEN ISHTAK DECIDED TO MAKE A SALLY, RE-OPEN THE GATES, AND ADMIT HIS WHOLE ARMY. "CHARGE!" HE COMMANDED; AND THE SAVAGES CAME OUT SHOOTING.

DICK TRACY

WELL, CHIEF, WE'VE GOT EVERYONE THAT WAS CONNECTED WITH THE SMUGGLING RING— BUT THAT FELLOW RAMM.

-AND THE SOUTH SEA GIRL, NAONA, WHO WAS TAKEN FROM THE EMERGENCY HOSPITAL.

Chester Gould

UNLESS I MISS MY GUESS, THE GIRL IS WITH RAMM, AND IS BEING EMPLOYED BY HIM IN SOME NEW NEFARIOUS SCHEME.

WHAT DO YOU MEAN, TRACY?

JUST THIS: SINCE RAMM'S RESTAURANT IS CLOSED AND HIS OLD BOSS IS DEAD, IT STANDS TO REASON HE'LL HAVE TO GET INTO SOME OTHER RACKET.

BUT THE GIRL MUST HATE HIM—

CERTAINLY! BUT HE'S PROBABLY GOING TO USE HER AGAINST HER WILL—BY THREATS AND FORCE.

Meanwhile

YOU SEE, KIDDO, YOU'D BE OVERLOOKING A BIG BET IF YOU WENT BACK TO YOUR ISLAND HOME. YOU WANT TO STAY IN THIS COUNTRY AND MAKE BIG MONEY.

BUT MY HAIR— WHY MUST I HAVE IT DYED?

BECAUSE -YOU MUST NEVER BE RECOGNIZED BY THE POLICE -OR THIS MAN TRACY. THEY'LL ONLY THROW YOU IN JAIL. THEY DON'T LIKE YOU.

LET'S REHEARSE YOUR PART OF THE NEW JOB AGAIN. REMEMBER, WHEN WE DO BUSINESS WITH A PLACE - YOUR PART WILL BE THE EASIEST AND TAKE THE LEAST TIME—BUT IT WILL BE THE MOST IMPORTANT.

NOW GO THROUGH YOUR PART.

WELL--- FIRST I'M WALKING ALONG THE SIDEWALK SMOKING A CIGARETTE -- I COME TO A DOORWAY.

I TURN IN QUICKLY, TAKE AN OBJECT FROM BENEATH MY COAT, STOOP DOWN, PRESS THE LIGHTED END OF MY CIGARETTE TO THE OBJECT— AND CALMLY WALK AWAY.

GREAT!! YOU'VE GOT THE IDEA PERFECTLY.

YEAH! REMEMBER TO DO IT JUST THAT WAY.

HEY, TRACY— WHAT'S THE MATTER?

CATCH HIM!!

GOSH, BOYS— EVERYTHING WENT BLACK. ----I -- DON'T FEEL WELL--

OVERWORK! THAT'S WHAT IT IS! I KNEW THE PACE YOU'VE BEEN SETTING WOULD CRACK YOU. YOU NEED A DOCTOR!!

THIS HERE'S POP WHEN HE WAS OLD ENUF T'GO T'WORK. ONLY HE NEVER DID GO.

AN' HERE'S ONE OF MOM JIST ABOUT THE SAME TIME. POP MET HER ABOUT THEN AT A SUNDY SCHOOL PICNIC.

DEAR READER, HASN'T IT HAPPENED TO YOU? HE CALLS YOU BY NAME AND ALTHO' YOU KNOW THE VOICE---YET--- YOU CAN'T REMEMBER HIS NAME TO SAVE YOUR LIFE. ISN'T IT EMBARRASSING?

WELL I'LL BE DARNED !

WHAT IS IT?

THERE'S KNOBBY WALSH. I HAVEN'T SEEN HIM IN FIVE YEARS. EXCUSE ME A MINUTE.

SURE.

KNOBBY!

HUH--- WONDER WHO THAT IS?

HE PROB'LY WANTS YOUR AUTAGRAFT.

WALSHY YOU OLD SONOFAGUN---GOSH IT'S GOOD T'SEE YOU.

UH--- SURE-- YOU TOO.

WELL IT'S ABOUT TIME I FORKED IT OVER EH?

UH--- YEAH-- HUH ?

I'VE BEEN WANTING TO PAY YOU THAT TWO HUNDRED BUCKS BUT WE NEVER SEEM TO SEE ONE ANOTHER.

HA-HA--- THAT'S RIGHT--- WELL IT SURE IS GOOD T'SEE YA KID.

SAY I'VE NEVER MET MR. PALOOKA. WHY DON'T YA INTRODUCE ME?

OH---ER--- I WAS SO SUPPRIZED AT SEEIN' YA---- I FERGOT.

JOE I WANT YA T'MEET A DEAR PAL OF MINE-- MUMBLE

I DINT GET THE NAME.

I SAID I WANT YA T'MEET MY OLE PAL-- MUMBLE

I CAN HEAR EV'RYTHING EXCEPT HIS NAME.

ER--- WHAT'S TH' MATTER WITH YER EARS?

THERE'S NOTHIN' WRONG WITH MINE.

AN' AS LONG AS YA DON'T REMEMBER THE NAME I GUESS YA DON'T REMEMBER THE TWO HUNDRED. SO LONG!

TCH TCH

THAT HAPPINED T'ME WUNST.

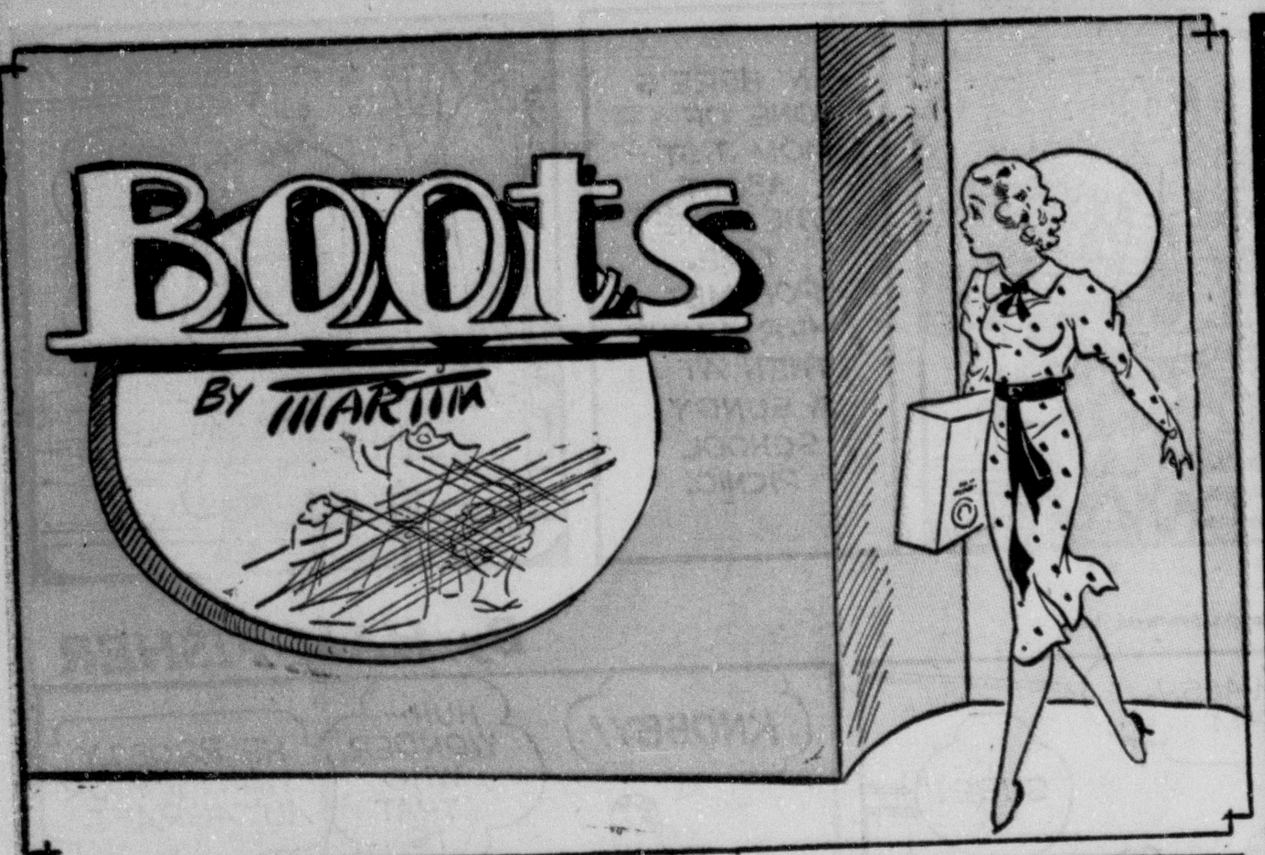

WHAT A HELP YOU ARE!! SAP!

AND I LO-HOVE

THE DOORBELL... JO COMING BACK JUST WHEN I'M IN THIS TUB. WELL..

PATENT BURGLAR ALARM. ALL BANKS AND THE U.S. MINT GUARANTEES...

CAN BE PUT IN PLACE IN HALF A MIN...

NO! TAKE YOUR FOOT OUT OF THIS DOOR OR I'LL COME OUT THERE AND...

NOW YOU..

THERE, SIR. IT'S IN PLACE. NOW TO PROVE IT WORKS, WE SIMPLY SHUT..

HEY! DON'T SHUT THAT DOOR! YOU DID. WITH ME OUT HERE LOOKING LIKE THIS. NO KEY...I SHOULD BUST YOU RIGHT IN THE..

BUT FIRST CLIMB THROUGH THAT TRANSOM AND OPEN THE DOOR.

ME? OH SIR, I SIMPLY CAN'T GET THROUGH THAT..

OH STOP PINCHING MY LEGS, SIR. I'M TRYING..

NOW ONCE MORE. GO..

FELL ON HIS HEAD, WELL THAT'LL BE A GOOD LESSON TO HIM, AND...

HEY! WHY THE DELAY? OPEN THE DOOR! HEY!

NO ANSWER. I WONDER IF HE'S TRYING TO SLIP OUT THE BACK DOOR...WITH THE SILVER OR..

NO, HE'S NOT AT THIS BACK DOOR. I'D BETTER GET IN FRONT AGAIN QUICK.

AH, THERE HE IS COMING OUT..

AND HE SHUT THE DOOR AGAIN. WHY YOU LOW.. STOP!

OH YEAH?

HE GOT AWAY...ALL THESE PEOPLE WATCHING ME... BETTER GET BACK IN THE HOUSE AND..

THERE'S JO AT THE DOOR. AND ME LIKE THIS... NO KEY.

WOW! WHAT A HONEY OF AN EVENING THIS IS GOING TO BE.
